HOOVER RAKES GARNER BILL AS HUGE PORK RAID

Can't Find Some of Building Sites.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—In blistering terms President Hoover today excoriated Speaker Garner's depression relief bill which was introduced in the house today as an attempted pork barrel raid on the federal treasury without a parallel.

JOHN N. GARNER. [(C) H. & E. Photo.]

Expenditure of 900 millions of dollars on construction of federal public buildings and other works, the President asserted, would afford no appreciable unemployment relief, but would saddle a further huge burden upon the taxpayers, render impossible the balancing of the budget, destroy the credit of the government at home and abroad, and in the end throw another million men out of work.

Gigantic Pork Barrel.

"This is not unemployment relief," said Mr. Hoover. "It is the most gigantic pork barrel ever proposed to the American congress. It is an unexampled raid on the public treasury."

The President dwelt on the pork barrel construction of the bill, which, by designating the communities in which postoffices and other public buildings were to be constructed, is designed to organize local greed in support of the measure. But he could not bring himself to attribute to the people such "lack of intelligence and cupidity" as would demonstrate that this country has fallen from the high plane of its character and achievement maintained from the revolution to the end of the world war.

Telegrams Urge Passage.

Earlier in the day there had been evidenced the success of the Garner pork barrel strategy in thousands of telegrams received by congressmen from communities listed as prospective beneficiaries of the building program, urging support of the bill.

Speaker Garner said about 40 Republicans had promised him their votes, more than enough to pass the bill if most of the Democrats vote for it. After the news spread of the President's onslaught on the measures numerous Republicans said they did not see how they could support Mr. Hoover in view of the demands of their constituencies for the legislation.

Hoover Starts to Fight.

What was interpreted as evidence that the President will endeavor to divide the Democrats and beat the Garner bill in the senate if not in the house developed within two hours after Mr. Hoover unloosed his verbal artillery. He summoned Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], author of the milder relief bill introduced in the senate.

The Wagner bill provides for a 500 million dollar bond issue for federal public works. A compromise between the Hoover and Wagner relief programs is understood to be the President's object. Senator Wagner emerging from the White House would say nothing, but there would be further conferences.

Hoover Outdoes Garner.

Mr. Hoover's attack on the Garner bill was confined to the section providing for the federal public works construction program, which is the only part of the measure differing from his own plan in principle. On the provision authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans on "self-liquidating projects" which would enable Los Angeles, for example, to obtain federal financing of its 200 million dollar water conduit from Boulder dam, the President goes the speaker one better. Mr. Garner proposes one billion, Mr. Hoover one billion 500 million for this purpose.

Mr. Hoover made his attack on the Garner bill at his meeting with the press at the close of a day which treasury and commerce department experts spent in analyzing the measure and estimating its effect.

One of the illuminating disclosures was that more than 2,000 of the 3,500

MOVE TO INDUCE BOTH PARTIES TO APPROVE IDENTICAL WET PLANKS

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—An effort is being made by prominent Republicans and Democrats to take the prohibition issue out of the coming campaign by having both parties adopt at their national conventions identical planks on the issue.

Informal talks have been held among leaders here and in New York looking to agreement on a liquor plank. Democratic leaders feel they can afford to make a more positive statement on the question than the Republicans, while the Republican leaders want a plank that will satisfy moderate drys and hold the wets. Such differences, some maintain, make the plan unworkable.

"I hope both parties can adopt an identical plank on prohibition and take the question out of national politics," Senator Reed [Pa.] said today. "The real question is how to best deal with the economic situation and restore prosperity."

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, asserted that a plank had not been seriously considered and merely was talk on the part of a small group.

"I wish prohibition could be taken out of partisan politics," he said. "But I do not think it can be done."

Marie Liesch, 15 year old schoolgirl, was struck and killed yesterday in front of 1747 North Kedvale avenue, by a bullet which a policeman fired at a fleeing robber.

The girl, who was to have been graduated from St. Philomena's school at Kedvale avenue and Cortland street at the end of the present school year, had left her home at 1806 North Karlov avenue to return several books to the school library. She was walking with a classmate, Dorothy Ryan of 1636 North Crawford avenue, when she was struck.

"Somebody shot me," she cried as she fell.

Dying Fugitive Caught.

The police took her to the Keystone hospital, but she died on the way.

Missed by the bullets fired at him, the fugitive, Joseph Soyka, 25 years old, sprained both ankles in leaping from a window in an attempt to escape. He was captured. A search of records at the bureau of identification showed that he was released from the Bridewell on May 13 after serving only three weeks of a sentence of one year for robbery. He is suffering from tuberculosis in an advanced stage, and physicians at the Bridewell said he probably has only a few days to live.

Robs Former Employer.

With two companions Soyka entered the office of the Heyman Distributing company, hosiery merchants, at 200 South Market street yesterday morning. After tying fifteen employés and locking them in a closet, the trio escaped with $350.

Several of these employés recognized Soyka as a man who formerly had been employed by the firm to wash windows. His identity was traced through the records at the detective bureau and Sergt. Ray Crane and his squad were sent to arrest him. They were reinforced later by the squad of Sergt. Frank Kehoe.

Detectives Owen Kennelly and Thomas Morris of the Kehoe detail were stationed in the rear of the house at 1747 Kedvale avenue. Sergt. Crane and two of his men then went to the front door, which was opened by a member of the household. Soyka, in a bedroom on the second floor, slammed the door to that room and the police followed him.

Fire Two Shots; One Kills Girl.

In panic the bandit leaped from the window. Kennelly and Morris, seeing him drop into a passageway on the east side of the house, each fired once. It is undetermined which shot the girl.

Soyka was taken to the Keystone hospital and as the body of the dead girl was taken into the institution he wept and confessed his part in the Heyman stickup.

"I couldn't help it," he said. "I'm about to die and I didn't have a cent. They even double crossed me in the robbery. We got $350, but the other fellows gave me only $17.50. I used most of it to pay the back gas bills so they'd give me service again. I bought a little food for my wife and child and her father and mother. There's $5.15 left. Take it."

Promised Country Trip.

Records showed that Soyka held up two groceries early this year. On a plea of guilty to petit larceny Judge Desort on April 27 sent him to the Bridewell for a year. Physicians there said he might die at any time. The public defender interested himself in the case and on a promise of his relatives that he would be sent to the country he was released.

Marie Liesch was an adopted daughter, according to Mrs. Mary Liesch.

"My husband and I had seven sons," said the foster-mother. "We wanted a girl so much that we adopted Marie from an orphanage when she was 2 weeks old. She never knew she wasn't our own.

MANGANO PROTECTS HIS HOLIDAY FROM POLICE INTERRUPTION

"Dago Lawrence" Mangano, alleged Capone hoodlum, appeared yesterday before Judge Thomas A. Green seeking a warrant for the arrest of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker. Mangano explained it was a defense move to keep his week-end holiday free from police interruption.

LAWRENCE MANGANO.

Attorney Rocco De Steffano introduced his client to the court. "This," he said, "is Lawrence Mangano. He also is called Dago. He wants a warrant for the arrest of Chief Schoemaker for false imprisonment. He has been picked up so often he feels at home in jail, but the police never find a charge to place against him."

Judge Green denied the request and Attorney De Steffano sought Chief Schoemaker. After a conference he reappeared to announce a legal victory.

"He won't arrest Mangano until Tuesday," the attorney said. Chief Schoemaker refused to verify the report.

WALKER LINKED TO TRUST STOCK DEAL HE DENIED

Bought 300 Shares, Says Witness.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Contradictions, comedy, and sentiment were written into the records today as Samuel Seabury picked up the loose threads of Mayor James J. Walker's testimony before the Hofstadter legislative committee and with practiced hands began to weave a net of evidence calculated to enmesh the mayor.

The most serious link was developed when Walter R. Herrick, park commissioner, flatly contradicted Mayor Walker's testimony regarding stock transactions and connected "the city hall" with a deal which furnished money for the Equitable Bus company's trustee fund.

Contradicts Mayor.

Mr. Herrick testified that 350 shares of Interstate Trust company stock were acquired and the 300 shares of this were paid for through funds supplied by the mayor, either directly or through his secretary. The money came from the city hall, he said, and he was confident it was from the mayor. Mayor Walker previously has testified he never owned a share of the stock and never had sent any money or caused any to be sent to Mr. Herrick.

The second major development of the day concerned Mayor Walker and the $246,000 he received as a gift from a joint stock account set up by Paul Block, the publisher.

Son Suggested Joint Account.

It was Billy, the young son of Mr. Block, who originated the idea of "making some money for Jimmy." Mr. Block told the story with expressive shrugs once he got started on it. At first the publisher was hesitant about stating the genesis of the joint account, declaring that it would sound "silly and sentimental."

"Let's have it, anyway," requested Mr. Seabury.

"All right," replied Mr. Block, "but it is almost silly the way it all started. One Sunday the mayor called me on the telephone and invited me to go for a ride. I told him I had promised to go walking with Billy, my son. Jimmy said for me to bring him along. While we waited on the sidewalk for Jimmy Walker to drive up, Billy asked me what salary the mayor received. I told him it was $25,000 at the time."

A Sentimental Story.

Mr. Block settled himself comfortably in the witness chair and tilted his head far to the side. He spoke slowly and in a low, semi-confidential tone. Every sentence was punctuated with expressive shoulder movements, and the inflection of his voice indicated that he considered the story too sentimental for his audience.

"He was my friend, Jimmy Walker, and not the mayor," continued Mr. Block. "Billy said, 'Does the city give him a home?'

"I said, 'No,' and the boy asked, 'Does the city give him an automobile?'

"I said, 'Yes,' but not to Mrs. Walker.'

"Billy asked, 'Father, can he live on what he gets?' and I said, 'Yes, he probably can, but it might be difficult.'

Mayor Offers Mild Protest.

Mr. Block said he did not tell the mayor about his plan that Sunday, but that about a month later he was talking to Mr. Walker when the following conversation took place.

"I told him, 'Jimmy, I'm going to try to make some money for you. I'm going to open a joint account and make a little cash for you.'

"Then Jimmy said, 'Aw, you ought not to do that, Paul.'

"I said, 'Yes, I will, Jimmy,' or something like that. I thought he regarded it as too generous a thing to do. The amount was never discussed and I will say here that if there had ever been any loss I would have paid it out of another of my accounts and said nothing to the mayor."

Profits Kept Piling Up.

After describing how the profits had grown and grown like Topsy due to a rising market, Mr. Block said in a deprecating tone:

"I never expected to make more than thirty or forty or maybe fifty thousand dollars for my friend Jimmy. The profits just kept piling up, and although I could have stopped them I didn't."

The witness admitted that the joint account represented "something for

Preconvention 'Dry Up' Drive Hits Chicago

Preconvention raids were started in Chicago and suburbs last night. Dry agents simultaneously hit twenty-eight wet spots in and near the city with the avowed purpose of making the city dry during the two national conventions here next month.

All told, forty alleged liquor sellers, one a woman, were arrested. They were taken to dry headquarters in the Transportation building and then removed to police stations. They will be arraigned this morning before Commissioner Walker.

Less than a month ago saloonkeepers passed the word around that no booze or beer was to be dispensed during the conventions. They added that the edict had come from Washington. Denials promptly came from the capital, and prohibition administrators here branded the reports as thinly founded.

Shortly after the reports had circulated, agents under Administrator Malachi L. Harney, recently appointed to this district, began greater activity. Half a dozen or more raids of sizeable importance became the daily program.

Raids To Continue

Last night's campaign was the heaviest struck thus far. The drive will not be abated, officials admitted. It will continue to and through the conventions.

Only two places in the loop were raided. The remainder were in outlying districts. Investigators reported that many other oases were found closed, that the operators had become wary and had closed for the time being. All of the raids last night were made on warrants which had been obtained by undercover agents.

At 8:30 a squad of operatives visited the Wabash grill at 515 South Wabash avenue and arrested Howard Brau and Herbert Frieze. They next moved to 173 North Wells street and grabbed William and John McMahon, brothers. Gin, whisky, and beer were found in both places. In the Wabash grill an agent snatched a highball from the counter just as a thirsty patron was reaching for it.

Meet Some Resistance.

At the same hour other raiders hit two saloons in Calumet City, but met some resistance. As the squad entered one William Curtiss and Charles Howe met them with swinging fists, but were quickly subdued. At the same instant Joseph Jerick tried to dispose of contraband in the sink. He was seized before he finished. In the second saloon John Eggebrecht and William Schutz were arrested and a quantity of beer and whisky confiscated.

All sections of the city were visited by the raiders, although none immediately near the Chicago Stadium in West Madison street, where the conventions will be held. The far south side caught the brunt.

Some of the places raided were: 121 East 123d street, 425 East 63d street, 8018 South Racine avenue, 200 South Western avenue, 947 West North avenue, 4363 North Newcastle avenue, 111 West Schiller street, 1240 Belmont avenue, 421 North Cicero avenue, 1817 Wellington avenue, 3647 Cottage Grove avenue, 3539 Southport avenue, and 4306 South Ashland avenue.

Local dry agents refused to make any statements about the personnel used in the 28 raids except that Deputy Administrator A. E. Aman had active charge. They would not say whether outside agents had been sent to Chicago to augment the local forces.

LEARNS TO FLY AS PLANE FALLS; AWARDED MEDAL

Washington, D. C., May 27.—(AP)—A nonaviator, who learned to fly alone in midair and saved the lives of himself and a companion, was awarded the navy's distinguished service flying cross today.

He was Corporal Helmer N. Orner of Alida, Kas., an operations clerk at the naval air station, San Diego, Cal. The cross never before has been awarded except to aviators.

Torner was take aloft March 22 by Staff Sergeant O. S. Hoffer, naval pilot, on a test flight. While in the air Hoffer became unconscious. The plane, out of control, went into a spin. Though Torner had a parachute, he pulled the pilot's body from the controls and righted the plane. Climbing to a considerable altitude to experiment with the controls, he shortly afterward made a creditable landing on a nearby field.

"By his actions he displayed presence of mind, self-sacrificing heroism and extraordinary achievement in the face of great danger far beyond the call of duty," the citation of the award read.

Vote Repeal Demand Amid Cheers.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—[Special.]—The Republican party of Illinois went wet at today's state convention. A dripping plank on prohibition was nailed in the state platform calling for repeal of the 18th amendment, for a beer and light wine amendment to the Volstead act and repeal of the state search and seizure act. A mass attack on prohibition by speakers brought responses from G. O. P. throats that made the girders of the state arsenal quiver.

Delegates to the national convention were instructed to work for such a plank in the national platform.

The party conclave brought a great attendance, more than 8,000 thronging the hall and the grounds outside.

Air of Cynicism Prevails.

Although harmony prevailed, cynicism seemed rampant among the delegates. Apart from the wet plank, which got the applause, the platform was criticized as being little more than a campaign speech, socking the opposition party.

Delegates from southern and central Illinois tonight snorted at the platform because it failed to wallop the federal farm board. A proposed plank from corn belt delegates echoed the revolt in the rural regions against the farm board, but its proposers failed to find it in the platform as read by C. J. Doyle, former state chairman. Some protested that the convention was run by "a party minority, who won the primaries."

Other critical groups complained that the platform—outside of the wet part—is heavy on more spending, but weak on the idea of economy and saving. A plank by Ald. John Massen of Chicago, dwelling upon the piling of government upon government until paternalism reigns and taxpayers are eaten alive by tax spenders, got nowhere. It called for a strong declaration for simplification of government. One unusual phase of the post-convention comment was the way in which delegates discussed the merits and qualities of the Democratic nominee for governor, Judge Henry Horner.

All Factions Represented.

All factional groups were represented. Gov. L. L. Emmerson was absent, being in the hospital at Rochester, Minn., and the protuberant feature of the convention was the surge to the wet side of the prohibition issue.

Two years ago it took a hard fight to get a proposal for a state referendum through the convention, and afterwards the bill for the repeal of the search and seizure act was vetoed by Gov. Emmerson. This time the liberal forces needed to present no argument before the resolutions committee, for a wet plank was all ready.

"We declare for the repeal of the 18th amendment. Pending such appeal, we declare for modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of beer and light wines; we declare for the repeal of the Illinois search and seizure and prohibition laws."

Indicating the lines on which the Republicans will base their state campaign the speechmaking upheld President Hoover and soaked the Democrats, blaming them for the depression and for prohibition itself.

Glenn Assails Prohibition.

Senator Otis F. Glenn assailed high cost of government and interference by federal snoopers in business and family affairs, and he smote prohibition one of its most resounding smacks. Frank L. Smith of Dwight, who was denied the seat in the senate now occupied by Glenn, ripped into the Democrats of Illinois and accused them of being instrumental in bringing about prohibition. He urged that the old campaign slogan of 1896 be received—"the full dinner pail." Len Small, nominee for governor, declared for repeal of the 18th amendment and the state search and seizure act and for modification of the Volstead act to permit beer and light wines. In this he reversed his previous attitude as a partisan of the Anti-Saloon league.

Senator Glenn's speech, which was impromptu, was received with yells and shrieks from the body of the hall and the galleries. In fact, every mention of prohibition started off the noise.

"I believe," said Senator Glenn, "that we should approach the question of prohibition on the ground of what is the best thing for America and the American people. There is no room for extremists of either side. The surging sentiment in recent years, now in full flow, speaks the sentiment of the people.

Not an Extremist.

"Four years ago I said I was not an extremist on the prohibition question. I was a little bit ahead of the procession, maybe, but at length the people had an opportunity to speak, and in congress my pride is that I have stood by the people of my state.

"When a bill came before congress in the height of fanaticism, that a man who carried half a pint of wine across the street could be sent to the penitentiary for five years, and for 25 years if a repeated offender, I said I could not support any measure as fanatical as that.

"I'm glad I voted against that Jones "5 and 10" law. Those days are gone forever. We are coming back to sanity.

"Then there was the fanatical and inhuman matter of poison alcohol, the matter of putting poison into alcohol to keep persons from drinking it. It was as bad as the deeds of the Borgias. The day will come when that act of congress will be looked upon with scorn as we look upon the witch burners of Salem."

Takes Rap at Bureaucracy.

Senator Glenn took up high cost of government and the mushroom growth of bureaucracy.

"We must begin to cut and cut the cost of expenditures of government, federal and local," he said. "The federal government has expanded its activities too far. It has become ultra-paternalistic. We are doing too much service for the people which is paid for by the taxpayers. Let us stop all this snooping and spying and investigating and let American business and the family conduct their own affairs instead of being regulated and interrogated by an army of men wearing badges of the U. S. government.

"Out of all this turmoil will come shorter working hours and some sort of unemployment insurance. The depression comes from the war. We Republicans are trying to work our way out of this crisis under a Republican administration. In congress I have been a Republican all the time and am proud to have had the opportunity to stand behind Herbert Hoover, a man of great brain, intellect and understanding. The Republican ticket is going to be reelected in November."

Women Support Plank.

Indicative of the change in the stance of the party on liquor was the experience of Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, and Mrs. Clifford Rodman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

The last time they came to Springfield in the interests of liberal action they were turned down. Then they had about 16,000 members. They appeared on the scene today, representing 180,000 members, to advance their plank, but found no argument was necessary.

The platform followed the address of Len Small, its planks largely being scissored and pasted out of his speech. It proclaimed:

"The Republican party has been the instrument of prosperity. It has pulled the people out of depression."

Commends Administration.

One of its first planks was for a five billion dollar bond issue by congress for a national building program to help unemployment. It commended the record of the national and state Republican administrations, without mention of the Emmerson veto of the dry law repealer, and it indorsed the record of Senator Otis F. Glenn. It took a rap at tax dodgers and assailed the Democratic party of Cook county as "incompetent and wasteful," and it attacked Mayor A. J. Cermak of Chicago and what it termed "Tony's Tammany Tiger." It wound up with the regulation pledge to "protect the American standard of living."

Mr. Smith in his keynoting said the Democrats gave America prohibition.

"In 1917," he said, "as part of war, the Democrats took first steps toward making America safe for the bootlegger and racketeer." He dwelt upon the activities of the United societies before the war and said: "Throughout the years since the eighteenth amendment the Democratic party has been the dry party. The Republican party has never been dry and never wet. In my time it has been a regulation party. I am in favor of local option.

"This wet and dry thing has too long disturbed us. As long as it is a political question it will never be settled. Let us—the Republican party—make it a party policy; make it binding on candidates."

University trustees were nominated as follows:

Emma B. Rhea—Assumption.
William H. Wheat—Rantoul.
Dr. William L. Noble—Chicago.

Delegates Have Half Vote.

CERMAK LABELS G.O.P. LEADERS AS GOLD DUST TWINS

Ridicules Small on Wet Conversion.

Len Small and his political ally, a former Republican mayor of Chicago, were labeled the "gold dust twins" yesterday by Mayor Cermak, but he drew the distinction that while the cleansing couplet "work for the people," the political twain "work the people." "And each for a million," he added.

The mayor also ridiculed the reported stand of Small for repeal of the 18th amendment in answering attacks made upon him at the Republican state convention. He cited Small's membership in the Anti-Saloon league, the support he has derived from it, and the dry candidates to whom he in turn has given support.

"The Gold Dust Twins."

"What the former mayor did to Chicago, Small did to the state," said the mayor, referring to the "gold dust twins" label. "But Small wasn't so fortunate as the former mayor; he had to pay back $650,000. In the case of the former mayor the court said in the expert fee case that the people lost the money, but no one saw the former mayor get it. Some of his experts made refunds, though."

"The twins say they don't want my rule applied to the state. Well, if the rule of efficiency and economy that has governed my administration in the city is extended throughout the state, I don't think it will hurt Illinois.

"Since I became affiliated with Democratic leadership I can point with pride to the reorganization of the sanitary district with a reduction in employes from 5,000 to 1,000. I left the forest preserves with a surplus of over $1,000,000. And the only reason the county hasn't money is that the Republican state tax commission ordered a reassessment which they said would take eight months and cost $300,000. It has cost over $8,000,000 and has taken over three years."

Raids on Civil Service."

Referring to Small's statement that Cermak is making a raid on civil service, the mayor said:

"During the administration of Small's political ally the corporation counsel had one-half of its force defending him in the courts for his raids on the civil service. The present administration has had no such suits."

Small's stand for repeal of the 18th amendment was characterized by Mayor Cermak as a huge joke as he pointed to the former governor's connections with dry organizations.

"The state search and seizure law is more drastic than the 18th amendment or Volstead act," the mayor said. "It should be called Small's law. He inspired it; the state senator from his district introduced it; Small signed it, so he and the Anti-Saloon league put the measure on the books.

"If Small can prove he wasn't indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league and wasn't a member of his county's branch of the league, I'll withdraw that statement.

Holds Small Specimen Ballot.

"I have a specimen ballot showing that the Small organization indorsed State Senator Richard R. Meents, who voted against repeal of the state dry law, and Congressman William P. Holaday, who voted against the beer bill and for the 5 and 10 law.

"How can Small bring back personal liberty when he indorses dry candidates, and his ally, the former mayor, let Congressman Frank R. Reid, another dry, draw thousands of dollars out of the Chicago city treasury? And what can the people expect from Small when they read that one of the defendants in the kidnaping of Dr. Parker of Peoria was arrested in Small's headquarters?"

ROOSEVELT PUTS JOBLESS ON FARM WITH STATE AID

Tuckahoe, N. Y., May 27.—(AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt announced today a plan whereby New York state's unemployed would be assisted by returning them to the "good earth."

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

In his first public appearance since he came back from the south the governor, leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, told Westchester county Democrats of the temporary emergency relief administration's plan for "subsistence farms."

Numbering the jobless at 10 per cent of the population, he explained that dependent families from cities and towns, especially those with agricultural experience, would be transferred to the land where they might obtain "the permanent jobs they have lost in overcrowded, industrial cities and towns."

"The plan, to be financed by state and local relief funds, seems to me to be a profoundly significant one," he said. "It reduces the cost of relief while it places dependent families in a position at least to partially support themselves in healthy surroundings, of which many are now deprived."

The governor has authorized every public welfare commissioner to place as many families as possible on the farms, and to pay for rent, tools seed and household necessities. He said 244 families already had been taken care of.

Bullet Goes Through Boy's Body, Floor; Kills Mother

DROWNED WHILE FISHING.

Brownstown, Ind., May 27.—[Special.]—Emerson Tackwood, 44, and Roy Pitt, 35, both of Salem, who were laying trot lines in the Muscatatuck river, ten miles south of here, were drowned early today.

FORGETS WIVES

N. Y. Trust Co. Handles Royal Will.

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—When the exiled shah of Persia, Sultan Ahmed Shah Kadjar, made his will in Paris on Oct. 22, 1928, he provided for eight wives, but forgot about two. He forgot that there were ten in his collection, so two of the ladies were, for the time being, left out in the cold.

This interesting example of how a royal mind can skid is provided by the Guaranty Trust company today in filing with the surrogate its accounting as executor of the will of his late imperial majesty and of the $3,000,000 estate he left behind. The shah died on Feb. 27, 1930, naming the company as his executor, because part of his fortune consisted of securities in this city.

Will Already Probated.

Assuming its responsibilities, the Guaranty Trust immediately found itself in one of the queerest positions that a financial institution could assume. In the first place, there were the two wives the shah had forgotten all about. The will had been probated here on June 18, 1931, but when the overlooked ladies stepped forward the probate proceedings had to be reopened so they could be made parties to the proceeding.

That problem solved, the trust company tackled the problem of educating the late shah's four children. He was a Mohammedan and therefore the children had to be educated in that faith. The company brought three mothers from Persia so they might live in Paris with their respective offspring while said offspring were learning the Koran and absorbing such other incidentals of education as the Guaranty Trust company, the royal ladies, and the religious instructors considered necessary. It probably is the only instance since the United States set up business of a New York financial institution contributing to the spread of the Mohammedan religion.

Pretender to Throne.

A claimant and pretender to the throne, it is disclosed by the trust company's report to the surrogate, made a claim to the royal property and the royal jewels. This claim was resisted by the executor and the heirs of Sultan Ahmed Shah Kadjar on the ground that the cash, securities and jewels were his own personal property.

In addition to real estate in Persia he left a large collection of jewels, now in New York, and of an appraised value of $151,688.32, and cash securities valued at the time of his death of $3,000,000. It is possible that the surrogate in ruling on the claim may be required to decide which member of the Kadjar family has the right to succeed to the Persian throne.

$2,500 Year to Maintain Tomb.

The late shah provided liberally for the eight wives he could remember, but the others will, of course, come in for their just portions. The eight were paid their shares within 100 days after his death, as custom dictates. Otherwise, according to Persian belief, his spirit could not be at peace. He provided also a trust fund realizing 500 pounds sterling a year for the maintenance of his tomb in Kerbela, and for religious rites.

An Evanston Turtle and Pony, Lost, Return Home

A turtle and pony apprehended while wandering the streets of Evanston on Wednesday were returned to their respective homes yesterday. Mrs. Harry J. Fick, 833 Emmerson street, Evanston, claimed the turtle and the pony was returned to Thomas G. Hebson, 1538 Fowler avenue, Evanston.

PUBLIC TO GET 15,000 SEATS AT G. O. P. SESSION

Tell Method of Apportionment.

At least 15,000 seats will be available for the general public at the Republican national convention opening June 14 at the Chicago Stadium, National Committeeman Ralph Williams of Oregon, resident manager of the conclave, said yesterday.

RALPH WILLIAMS.

Chicago and Illinois will probably be apportioned about 5,000 of these seats, according to Williams, and the distribution will be handled by the members of the national committee, Mrs. Bertha Baur and Roy O. West.

The Republicans will follow a custom of twenty years' standing in doling out the tickets for spectators' seats. This particular job is now being done by Committeeman Charles D. Hillis of New York, but Mr. Williams explained the system yesterday.

How Tickets Are Distributed.

"The tickets are given out according to the number of delegates a state sends to the convention," he said, "but those states far away from the meeting point are penalized a certain percentage of tickets, while the states close to the convention—Indiana, Wisconsin and Iowa, for example—are given a bonus of more seats. I think Mr. Hillis will know the apportionment for each state within a week. The committee men and women handle the distribution of tickets."

When the convention is called to order by National Chairman Simeon D. Fess, the Stadium will be arranged to seat about 19,000 persons, Williams said. Delegates will number 1,154, alternates the same, and 900 seats will be reserved for the press. These total 3,208 seats, and the remainder will be open for the public, and unless changes or more reservations are made, they may be given as many as 15,800 seats.

Warning on Liquor Plank.

A little advice to Republican leaders that any convention platform on the prohibition issue which is acceptable to liberals and drys alike would "defeat the party," was sent Postmaster General Walter F. Brown yesterday by the Republican Citizens' Committee Against National Prohibition, an organization, heavily represented in Chicago, of former campaign contributors. The committee proposes to withhold contributions to the fall campaign unless a repeal plank is adopted by the Republican convention.

The statement sent the postmaster general, who is an administration leader, was drafted by Raymond Pitcairn of Philadelphia, vice chairman of the committee. In part, it read: "The people are suspicious of schemes to get votes from both sides. Experience has taught them that the political parties love such 'double dealing.' The Republican electorate counts much on your efforts to save the party from pussyfooting that will bring inevitable defeat."

W. C. T. U. Fires Back.

Incensed because they were forbidden by the Chicago Hotel Men's association to solicit in the hotel lobbies, the W. C. T. U. yesterday wrote J. K. Blatchford, secretary of the association, asking him to name the speakeasies which to his knowledge are ruining the hotel business by serving meals at lower prices than hotels. Mr. Blatchford said Thursday that the association was overwhelmingly against prohibition and told of the dining room trade being driven to speakeasies, "which pay no taxes."

Mrs. William L. Ferguson, president of the Illinois W. C. T. U., issued a statement yesterday denying that the drys sought to solicit funds in the hotel lobbies, as stated by Mr. Blatchford. "No such request was ever made," she said. "The dry organizations felt that since those working for repeal had an opportunity to reach the hotel public with their propaganda, it was only fair that the other side might be presented, but we had no idea of soliciting either memberships or funds. It was a loyalty campaign, pure and simple."

The West Central association, composed of businessmen in the district bounded by the Chicago river, Roosevelt road, Damen avenue and Kinzie street, has started a cleanup campaign in preparation for the national conventions.

Twelve sub-districts have been laid out, and members of the association have surveyed each and outlined the plan for the cleanup. Property owners are asked to clean up yards and vacant lots, to paint buildings which need it, to wash windows and to tear down dilapidated structures. The city is to be asked to make a special effort to have the streets spotless.

SLASH MICHIGAN U. SALARIES 11 PCT., STAY IN APPROPRIATION

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 27.—[Special.]—Regents of the University of Michigan slashed salaries on the average of 11 per cent in the 1932-'33 budget passed here today.

Salary cuts were made on a graduated basis, in most cases running from 6 per cent among low salaried employes to 19 per cent among higher salaried members of the staff, although it was pointed out individual cuts ranged as high as 26.3 per cent.

Today's action culminated a long period of paring, resulting from the cut of $738,000 made in the appropriation by the legislature at the recent special session.

The chairman of the committee on salaries announced that the income for the year 1932-'33 would be reduced 11 per cent, making administration of the university on this reduced basis necessary.

AUTOISTS' STRIKE CRIPPLES NIGHT PARKING DRIVE

2,000 Summoned, but Only 42 Pay Fines.

An unorganized but effective strike against payment of fines last night appeared to have crippled the police campaign against all night parking on Chicago streets.

Although it was estimated 2,000 motorists had been given summonses for violation of the ordinance, only 42, or less than 3 per cent, had appeared up to last night at the "cafeteria" branch of the traffic court and paid their $2 fines.

Meanwhile, a number of aldermen said that they will bring up the subject of repeal of the anti-parking ordinance at the meeting Tuesday of the council committee on traffic and public safety.

Danger of Arrest Slight.

The repealer ordinance submitted by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, will not come before the council until it meets Friday and probably will be referred to the traffic committee at that time.

The motorists who have ignored the summonses left on their parked cars face arrests on bench warrants for their failure to appear and pay their fines, but their actual danger of such arrests appears to be slight at present, due to the volume of paper work which the anti-parking drive has entailed.

The police have issued about 15,000 first warnings, which carry no penalty. These have been followed, in the cases of second violations, by summonses requiring payment of a fine.

Protests More Aldermen.

The traffic committee meeting Tuesday was called to discuss the proposal of Ald. John Toman [23d] to replace the present ban on parking in the loop with a 30 minute parking limit. Several aldermen said, however, that they have received so many protests from their constituents that they will bring up the night parking ban.

The drive against night parking was the outgrowth of a series of conferences between Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the committee; Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer; Robert Nau of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Police Commissioner Allman, and representatives of automobile insurance underwriters.

The ordinance forbidding night parking has been on the city statute books since 1927. If the council wants to have the drive against all night parkers stopped it should repeal the ordinance, Mayor Cermak said yesterday.

Shots of Police Halt Burglar Fleeing Job

As they listened this morning to a radio alarm that a burglar had broken into the army and navy store at 3027 Lincoln avenue, Policemen Frank Scaglione and George Biederman saw a man running toward them, only a half block from the scene. They fired several shots at him and he stopped. He was the burglar. They found the loot under his arm and a pistol in his pocket. At the Sheffield avenue station the prisoner identified himself as Stephen Pochotko, 26 years old, 2816 Greenview avenue.

CAPITALIST'S KIN WIN $1,000,000 ESTATE BATTLE

Wm. L. Brown's Bequests to Woman Held Void.

The will of William Liston Brown, financier and iron ore broker who died in 1929 at the age of 87, was held invalid yesterday by a jury before Circuit Judge William V. Brothers. The jury directed that the estate be distributed among seven relatives who contested the will, and held that Brown had been mentally incapable and subjected to undue influence when he willed the most of his estate to Mrs. Harriet Seymour Carscallen of Pasadena, Cal.

Even at depression levels the estate amounts to more than $1,000,000, attorneys estimated.

Brown was at one time the controlling stockholder in Pickands, Brown & Co., iron ore brokers. He was formerly president of the Chicago Shipbuilding company and was a leader in development of Lake Superior ore fields and a director of banks and steel companies.

Blame Shock of Wife's Death.

He fell ill at Pasadena in 1919 and executed a will at that time, leaving his estate to his wife, with bequests to other relatives and charities. His wife died within a month, and it was asserted in the suit to break the will that her death was a mental shock to her husband. He was a sufferer from asthma and it was charged that the drugs given to him to control this ailment weakened his will and caused him to lose his memory. Depositions of physicians were presented to the jury stating that Brown was mentally incompetent and unduly susceptible to influence up to the time of his death.

Mrs. Carscallen was a niece of Mrs. Brown. The heirs-at-law, in their contest of the will, charged that she persuaded Brown, shortly after his wife's death, to sell his home in Evanston and go to live with her in Pasadena. They traveled extensively in Europe. This was done, it was charged, "to prevent friends and relatives from seeing him, and expressly for the purpose of preventing fulfillment of his plan to leave his property to his relatives."

Business Partners Accused.

It was also charged that Brown's business partners, Charles P., Seymour, Leslie Wheeler, and Donald S. Boynton, sought to "ingratiate themselves with him and to exercise undue arts, wiles and fraud through various subterfuges."

Brown made a codicil to his will on Jan. 28, 1925, while he was a patient in the Presbyterian hospital. This left $150,000 to relatives, made other bequests to charities, left the residue of the estate to Mrs. Carscallen, and provided that Charles P. Wheeler and Boynton could buy Brown's stock in Pickands, Brown & Co. at an appraisal to be made by themselves.

This codicil was wiped out by a second one made on Jan. 30, 1928, which revoked the bequests to relatives, left approximately $200,000 to Chicago hospitals and charities, and the residue of the estate to Mrs. Carscallen. This codicil stated that Brown had disposed of his stock in Pickands, Brown & Co.

Will Attacked by Relatives.

The will was probated on Jan. 23, 1930, and it was the distribution of the property provided in the final codicil which the heirs-at-law attacked in their contest of the will. They were represented by Attorneys Fred Reeves and Preston Boyden.

The jury's verdict yesterday provided that four of the contesting heirs shall each receive one-fifth of the estate. They are Mrs. Helen Brown Rice, a half-sister, and George Drew Brown, a brother, of 902 Margate terrace; Mrs. Kate Northcutt Graves of Luray, Va., a niece, and Mrs. Jane Hintze Quisling of Madison, Wis., a niece. The remaining fifth of the estate is to be divided equally among two grandnieces and a grandnephew, Mrs. Orlean Brown Johnson of Belvidere, the original plaintiff in the suit, Mrs. Delia Brown Wentz of Cleveland, and Walter H. Brown of Pasadena.

Attorneys Henry Tenney and John W. Cochran, who represented Mrs. Carscallen and the other legatees, gave notice of an appeal from the jury's verdict.

TWO GUNMEN ROB RIVERDALE BANK OF $5,000

Two gunmen yesterday took $5,000 from the First Trust and Savings bank of Riverdale after threatening one woman and three men employes with revolvers. The bandits waited until Cashier John Harms Jr., the last of the bank staff to arrive for work, had unlocked the door. One of the men stepped in behind Harms, announced the robbery, and opened the door for his accomplice.

Assistant Cashiers Frank Stewart and Milton Meeder and Miss Laverne Engel, the bookkeeper, who were at work inside the bank, were separated from the bandits by bullet proof glass. They did not reach for three available revolvers in fear that Harms would be injured.

While one man guarded Harms, who is the village treasurer, the other climbed over the bullet proof glass partition and forced Stewart, Meeder and Miss Engel to lie on the floor. Harms was made to join them while the bandits scooped the money and escaped in a car parked at the curb. Before leaving the men stole the bank revolvers and warned the employes not to follow them.

MOBILIZE 'RED ARMY' ON EVE OF AUSTRALIAN VOTE

Ousted State Premier to Fight for Rule.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, New South Wales, May 27.—Australia is passing through its most critical period since the organization of the commonwealth on New Year's day, 1901. The eyes of London, Canberra and the six states of this island nation are turned toward the New South Wales election on June 11, when the voters will choose between national unity and an effort for solvency or in favor of a new adventure in state socialization which may engulf the entire country and lead to civil war.

J. T. LANG.

A new labor dictator, John Thomas Lang, bids for power in the southern hemisphere, defying the courts of the British commonwealth and the British king. He seeks to create on this continent in the South Pacific a new social order, combining Fascism and Socialism with a labor government supreme in industry and finance. This involves repudiation of foreign debts, and the holding up of wage rates and payment of the dole until the last penny is taken from the rich and thrifty.

Nation Is Broke.

Australia is "broke," but one can hardly realise that by listening to the political promises falling to the inflamed electorate these early winter days, when the fog and rain make people shiver.

Lang, dismissed as premier on May 14 by the crown governor, Sir Philip Game, after passage of a bill to take £12,000,000 [about $36,000,000 at current exchange] away from banks and investment trusts by a mortgage tax, announced in a speech last night that if this bill finally falls and he is returned to the premiership, he will immediately release £21,000,000 [$63,000,000] through an unemployment relief tax for three years. In the meantime, he would not pay overseas interest until his own people are cared for.

B. S. Stevens, "stop gap" premier, also is making gaudy promises for a return to prosperity if the stranglehold of labor is taken off industry. He promises to pay foreign bondholders, to keep up the various social services and to put thousands to work.

Battle of Financial Plans.

It is a battle of financial plans, involving world trade, the money standard, relation to the British empire, and a decided, in Sydney at least, voters' Lang educated idea that the state will take care of them in some way. They are impatient with economic laws and touched with dreams.

"It is our day, not far away, that is dawning," is the song of Sydney labor, under the spell of Lang, who is something like Al Smith on the platform. He is a magnetic, powerful leader in a day when the people are crying for leadership and fighting against an inspired coalition of conservatives and farmers.

Whatever happens in the election, the state will be unable to continue its expenditures on the grand scale of the last few years, when it was living largely on borrowed money. Today the interest bill is greater than the revenue. The federal government holds the financial power and the federal premier, Joseph A. Lyons, says he will maintain the national honor, pay the state debts, if necessary, and proceed to collect from the states.

Demand Governor's Removal.

Lang in his speeches says the courts are corrupt, that they have twisted decisions to suit finance, that his object is to compel finance to shoulder the burdens, that he had won a victory for the people when the "hand of the assassin" took it away. This reference was to Gov. Sir Philip Game, whose removal is demanded by labor here and in other states. Action on this demand is pending in London.

Labor is howling against the "imperial cocked hat" who threw their idol out of office after informing Lang that "you derive your power from his majesty through me."

"There is only one authority in Australia, and that is the people," shouts Lang.

Red Army to Demonstrate.

The Lang "Red army" has been ordered to assemble June 5 on the commons here for a great demonstration, and a gathering of 150,000 is predicted. This state already would have been in a state of rebellion against the commonwealth had Lang remained in power. He said last night that he had beaten the newspapers, the governments of the other states, the government of the commonwealth, and the courts, and had made finance the servant instead of the master of the people when the victory was snatched away.

The talk of actual civil war is largely political, although Premier Stevens' policy, announced in his speech on Wednesday, is comparable to the situation on the eve of the American civil war. Conservative papers are taking this view. There are no signs of any preparations for civil war except meetings of the "new guard," the Fascist movement organized to combat communism.

Stevens Assails Lang Policy.

"This outlaw government," Stevens said, referring to the Lang régime, "went perilously near to bringing chaos and armed rebellion against the commonwealth. It talked wildly, barricaded the taxation office, introduced legislation to confiscate private property, and at the last moment abjectly surrendered because it did not have the nerve to put to a test the valor of the Red army against the forces of law and order.

"Continuance of this outlaw policy will create in Australia a position similar to that which culminated in the civil war in the United States. Under Lang government Australia will face civil war and a breakup of the federal union."

Treasury Is Exhausted.

Both sides admit the exhausted condition of the treasury as a result of the mounting defects of unprofitable government enterprises, chiefly the railroads, and the inability to continue on the old lines.

The Lang remedy is more socialization, while the government, made up of the United Australian and Country parties, is willing to retrench, to reduce wages and social services, and to effect economies everywhere.

The government is relying on the country party to defeat the Langites and capture control of parliament. The Labor vote is split and the more conservative labor unions are backing the Stevens ticket. The communists also have a special ticket and the Red Leader, organ of the Australian section of the Red Internationale, is against Lang. The Reds regard his course as palliative.

Unemployed Back Lang.

Lang has the backing of the unemployed, of whom there are now 250,000 in the state, of the civil servants and of thousands of families now existing under various forms of government relief. In his recent defiance of the federal government only one civil servant refused to obey the orders of Lang against federal revenue collections.

The crisis brings other problems, the limitation of power of the federal government, which is building up a great bureaucracy, and clearer definition of the powers of the governors, appointed by the British king. Justice A. B. Piddington of the state industrial commission resigned as a protest against the unconstitutional action of Gov. Game in dismissing Lang without giving him an opportunity to defend himself.

Lang Move Disguised.

Lang's strength comes from the Trades hall, the union center, a gloomy old wooden building where much sympathy is found for communism. The Lang revolution, planned by acts of parliament, is a strange hybird movement disguised in part as a Christian crusade, adopting the Marxian war cry, but chiefly opportunist and supporting the famous Langism, "Lop off the tall poppies."

Whether Lang is a "falling meteor" of world policies or a rising star will be determined by the election two weeks hence.

BOY FROM FAMILY OF POLICEMEN REVEALS 'COPPER'S INSTINCT'

Joseph Meagher, 19 years old, who comes from a family of policemen, demonstrated last night what Capt. Matthew Zimmer called a "copper's instinct."

The youth noticed two boys drive into an alley and trailed them as far as a garage in the rear of 728 West 61st place. After the pair sped away Meagher looked into the garage and saw two automobiles and a pile of accessories.

Meagher notified the detective bureau and Policemen Edward Hazzard and Lester Breitenreiter discovered the two automobiles had been stolen earlier in the day, one from Charles Argento, 5301 Kimbark avenue, and the other from Raymond Herweck, 5481 University avenue. The accessories, they said, also were all stolen. Abe Miller, owner of the garage, was held.

At the bureau Meagher was complimented by Capt. Zimmer for his "copper's instinct," but young Meagher protested he had only followed a natural impulse. Meagher is the son of the late Capt. Thomas Meagher and a brother of Sergt. Thomas Meagher Jr. of the detective bureau, Sergt. Francis Meagher of the Summerdale station, and of Sarsfield and Emmett Meagher, who have passed examinations for the department.

FUND SHORTAGE TO HALT STATE RELIEF JUNE 5

Shelters for Jobless Remain Open Till July 1.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission will cease its family relief activities in Cook county June 5, because of lack of funds, the commission announced yesterday. This includes the activities of both the county bureau of public welfare and those of privately organized charities, now being financed almost solely with state funds.

E. L. RYERSON JR.

The work relief activities of the commission also will be stopped on June 5. This is the division which pays unemployed heads of families for work in the forest preserves and parks. The shelters for unemployed men and women will be kept open until July 1. The commission allocated a total of $293,420 to 16 downstate counties, which will carry their relief work through to July 1.

The family relief stations which the commission ordered June 5 include 36 in Chicago and 10 in Cook county suburbs. They have been disbursing relief at a cost of approximately $100,000 a day. In April, the last period for which reports are available, they were caring for 111,136 families, who received an average of $21.38 a month for rent and food.

Cash Shrinks to $468,565.

The commission now has only $468,565 in cash on hand, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the commission, reported. This will be sufficient to run the family relief and other activities until June 5. No attempt will be made to keep these activities going on credit after that date, Wilfred F. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, said.

The legislature appropriated $20,000,000 for unemployment relief on Feb. 6, and against this $18,750,000 worth of tax anticipation notes were authorized. An intensive drive by a citizens' committee, organized by President Philip R. Clarke of the Central Republic bank, succeeded in selling $12,500,000 worth of these notes shortly after they were authorized.

Seek Buyers for Notes.

It has been on these funds that the commission has operated since. Recently Mr. Clarke's organization was revived in an attempt to dispose of $6,250,000 worth of notes still unissued. Officials of the commission said that these efforts have been fruitless.

The members of the commission also have been negotiating with banks for several weeks, seeking to sell the tax warrants, either in one lot or distributed in small quantities. These efforts also failed. At the meeting yesterday it was decided that the only thing to do was to announce the impending cessation of all relief activities.

FOUND DYING IN STREET; DOPE IS BLAMED BY JURY

Not so long ago Fred Porter Carson was a bond salesman for a La Salle street concern. He was a good one and his income was as much as $25,000 a year.

Yesterday Carson, who was 54 years old, was found unconscious on the sidewalk at 29th street and Indiana avenue. He was taken to the Streeter hospital, where he died soon afterward. A coroner's jury, after hearing testimony to the effect that for years Carson was an intermittent victim of dope and that he had spent his last $5—gained by touching a friend of his better days—for narcotics, returned a verdict stating that he died of asthma and chronic morphinism.

The history of Carson's career was given to Deputy Coroner Chris McGarligle and the jury by Mrs. Elsa Carson, 530 Diversey avenue, his divorced wife. She said that he had been a man "of fascinating personality," but that seven times taking the cure had been unavailing to conquer his craving for drugs and that she had been forced to separate from him two years ago.

His last loan was from Roy Jones of the Metropole hotel, former restaurant owner. Mr. Jones said he would pay for the funeral of his old friend.

BLIND, CRIPPLED MEET TO DEMAND CHANCE TO WORK

More than a hundred blind or crippled men, members of the Industrial Incapacitated Protective association, gathered last night at 30 North Wells street to demand coördination of relief work in their behalf.

James McGathen of the employment bureau of the joint emergency relief fund, and himself a cripple, outlined the problems.

"We don't want to be beggars," he said. "At present, when destitute, the incapacitated man is sheltered in the lodging house. The able bodied have a chance to get away from that environment. The cripple and the blind man have none.

"The state appropriates $150,000 a year for rehabilitation. That money should be spent on one institution where the incapacitated may be trained to make a living. The training should begin at the hospital door, not long years after when the cripple's self-respect is gone."

Mr. McGathen said the state buys artificial limbs for those who need them, and an exorbitant price is paid for the articles.

SUED FOR FEES

BETTY COMPSON.

Hollywood, Cal., May 27.—[Special.]—Betty Compson, actress, now said to be in Chicago, was sued here today by Edward Brand, attorney, who claims $10,000 as his fee for keeping Betty out of an income tax jam with the British government. Brand sets up that Miss Compson earned $100,000 on British films, on which the British government charged her $38,000 and $12,000 interest. He says he compromised the claim favorably to Betty by paying less than $10,000, but she still owes him.

DRY 'SARACENS' FIGHT WET DRIVE OF CRUSADERS

The Saracens, a new organization, has been formed to support the 18th amendment and to oppose the efforts of the Crusaders to "make it appear that Lake Forest and Chicago society bears the wet label."

At a meeting yesterday in the home of Alonzo A. Stagg, University of Chicago football coach, the aims of the organization were outlined by Louis E. Laflin Jr. He said that he and his companions believe that alcohol as a beverage is definitely harmful to the individual and the nation, that the 18th amendment does not cause or promote lawlessness, and that personal liberty is being jeopardized by distorted propaganda against prohibition.

The Saracens will begin an active campaign soon against the Crusaders and will seek to extend their organization on a nation-wide scale. The name of the group was selected, it was explained, because the dry Saracens of old defended their country against the Crusaders. Officers include Arthur M. Barnhart, executive director; Harold B. Smith, treasurer, and Miss Eleanor Jerrems, secretary. The executive board is composed of Miss Katherine Ewing, Frank C. McCulloch and Miss Gwendolen Childs.

Architect's Wife Reports Loss of Ring from Home

A report of a $400 ring which was lost or stolen on April 17 was made to Evanston police last night by Mrs. Vivian Burnham, 1224 Sheridan road, Evanston. She is the wife of Hubert Burnham, vice president of Burnham Brothers, Inc., architects. The ring contained a sapphire center and fifteen diamonds. Mrs. Burnham said she last saw it in her home and delayed reporting it missing in the belief it might have been mislaid.

Yellow Kid Weil Seized After Chase in Evanston

Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil, former notorious confidence game operator, was arrested by the Evanston police last night at the end of a four block chase which started when the police discovered the Yellow Kid in the Orrington hotel. Arrested with Weil were Fred Buckminster, his long time associate, and Mark Fisher, 50 years old, 458 Belmont avenue. The three were charged with vagrancy and turned over to the Rogers Park police in Chicago for further investigation. In Weil's car the police found the prospectus of a hotel to be erected in Dayton, O.

Smiling Faces of Drys Hard to Find; Prize Goes Begging

Smiles for $25 were not to be found yesterday among prohibitionists. Nor were there any claimants of a reward of $50 offered for a prohibitionist with a small nose.

It is true there were those who said they could qualify for the $25 offered by Walter J. Buettner, vice president of the Bendix Aviation corporation and chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment at South Bend, Ind., to any charity for a picture of "a happy, smiling prohibitionist." But the other offer by Col. Ira L. Reeves, chairman of the Crusaders, of $50 for proof of the existence of a "snub-nosed prohibitionist" is of long standing.

Safford Says He's Happy.

Candidate No. 1 for the Buettner award was Dr. George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league.

"Certainly I'm happy," he said, essaying a smile which the interviewer didn't think quite materialized. "One must be an optimist to be a prohibitionist today."

Candidate No. 2 was Mrs. William L. Ferguson, state president of the W. C. T. U.

"My 32 years as a missionary with my husband in India were happy years," she said, "and now I do not know any happier people than those in the prohibition groups. We have such jolly dinner parties—no long faces."

Calls Meetings Gloomy.

But Col. Reeves, local leader of the antis, had a different opinion of the W. C. T. U's.

"When I was prohibition administrator for New Jersey I had to attend gatherings of the drys," he said. "They were always gloomy.

"How can people be happy when they are always trying to spread trouble? The drys like to irritate the public. They never reported a major offense but were always trying to annoy happy people. They tried to get us to raid places like Elk's clubs, hotel parties and private assemblies where there would be singing of songs such as 'It's always good weather when good fellows get together.'

Cites Smith and Hoover.

"You can tell a prohibitionist by looks alone. Contrast the pictures of the recent Presidential candidates, 'Happy Warrior' Smith and 'Engineer' Hoover, and it is easy to see which favors prohibition, even though Hoover now is talking about 'resubmission.'

"Look at the pictures of Andrew Volstead, E. J. Davis of one of the reform organizations, his pal, Daniel Gilday, Amos W. W. Woodcock and Dr. James M. Doran, the government's chief enforcers, Congressman Morton D. Hull, Mrs. Ella Boole, Scott McBride, Clarence True Wilson, Bishop James Cannon Jr., and scores of other prohibition leaders. Mr. Buettner is right. Nothing can make people like that happy.

"One of the reasons prohibition is failing is that young people realize what a dreadful bore it is to be thrown into the company of reformers for an evening. The blue noses have ruined their cause with the young.

Visions Strange Spectacle.

"Wouldn't it be strange to see Dr. Safford and Dr. Wilson greet each other with a hug, slap each other on the back, lift their glasses and say 'Here's to you, old horse' with the pleasure derived when two ordinary human beings meet.

"Where is there ever more complete happiness, truer comradeship and love of fellow man than at American Legion meetings? The boys who know how to say 'Prosit,' 'Gesundheit,' 'Skol,' etc., to each other know that human kindness isn't to be found only in milk."

And to cap it all, Col. Reeves, who has been college president, soldier, author and lecturer before becoming a commander of the Crusaders, and who has been a teetotaler all his life and a member of the Methodist Church South, produced a picture of a group of Crusaders receiving their certificates from him. Every one is smiling, and the table in the foreground contains only glasses of water.

Retires from Railroad After 47 Years' Service

Ellis J. Bloodgood, 70 years old, assistant general auditor of the Chicago and North Western railway, will retire Tuesday after 47 years in the service of the road. Mr. Bloodgood, who lives at 1024 Ontario street, Oak Park, has been in charge of the Ravenswood accounting department, Lawrence and Ravenswood avenues, for the last 10 years.

DAVID I. WALSH PRESENTS SALES TAX IN SENATE

Bill Backed by Hoover; Fate Is Doubtful.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—With President Hoover actively favoring it and a large group of senators ready to vote for its adoption, the long awaited manufacturers' sales tax amendment to the revenue bill was formally introduced in the senate today by Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.]. Debate on the sales tax is to begin tomorrow and a vote is looked for early next week.

DAVID I. WALSH.

The Walsh amendment calls for a tax of 1½ per cent on all manufactured articles except food, moderate priced clothing, farm products, and other exempted classifications. It is expected, if passed, to raise 325 million dollars, thus permitting more than a score of nuisance taxes and special taxes, designed to produce 290 millions, to be stricken out of the revenue bill.

Increase Postal Rates.

The sales tax made its appearance while the senate was engaged in writing into the tax bill the higher first and second class postal rates from which 160 millions of additional revenue is looked for; the 2 cent stamp tax on bank checks, expected to raise 95 millions; and a 15 million tax on furs. Between writing these taxes into the bill the senate struck out the estate tax provision of the original house bill permitting a revaluation of estates which have depreciated as a result of the depression.

The fate of the sales tax is uncertain, but with the chances inclined toward its rejection.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], who, with Senator Walsh, has been a prime mover for the restoration of a sales tax, claimed today that he had polled the same membership and found a majority favorably disposed.

Majority Not Yet in Sight.

Others equally partial to the sales tax were dubious. They counted only 36 certain votes—32 Republicans and 13 Democrats, with perhaps ten or a dozen more senators ready to be friendly but not yet ready to commit themselves. They admitted that a majority was not yet in sight.

If the sales tax is to win, therefore, it appears that there must be a still further swing in its favor. That there has been such a swing and a definite one within the last few days is apparent.

Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee, and Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] visited the White House before the morning's session began and told the President that the sales tax was gaining in favor.

Will Votes Be Forthcoming?

But it remains to be seen whether the final hours before the vote produce enough additional recruits to put the Walsh amendment over.

Similar claims concerning a changing sentiment are being made with respect to the house, where the 2¼ per cent sales tax first recommended by the house ways and means committee was knocked out. But these claims were denied tonight by Representatives La Guardia [radical Rep., N. Y.] and Rankin [Dem., Miss.], two leaders of the anti-sales tax revolt.

The postal rate increases which are expected to bring in an additional 160 millions, were not adopted without objection. Senator Tasker L. Oddie [Rep., Nev.], chairman of the post-office committee, declared a revenue bill was no measure in which to write postal increases. He objected to higher rates in both first class and second class.

Moses Fights 2d Class Raise.

Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.] was willing to accept the three cent letter rate, but he strongly was opposed to putting the rates on second class mail back to the 1922 level. He was particularly opposed to have the revision made by the finance committee in "such slap-dash fashion."

"The great periodicals and newspapers are paying their way and in some cases more than paying their way," Senator Moses said. "I agree that there should be a study and revision of postal rates. But I am opposed to a revision in such a slapdash fashion."

Senator Moses suggested that the parcel post was a far worse offender than the second class mail and he pointed out that, while large newspapers and magazines paid their way, religious, educational, and agricultural publications enjoyed a special rate which enabled them to travel over the country without regard to costs at a cost to the government of some 50 millions a year.

When the vote came on second class mail, however, the higher rates were adopted, 43 to 32. A motion by Senator Oddie to reject the first class increase was defeated viva voce.

An amendment by Senator Robert Lowell [radical Rep., Neb.] was adopted, limiting the first class increase to one year.

The debate on the clause which the house inserted in the estate tax to permit the revaluation of depreciated estates was one sided, and the vote was even more so. The provision was stricken out by a vote of 72 to 3. The only senators voting for its retention were Senators Moses, Copeland, and Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.].

The provision would have permitted the tax on the estates of those who died during the boom period to have been appraised 18 months after death instead of at the time of death.

Stamp Tax on Checks.

The stamp tax on checks was agreed to after an amendment by Senator Lowell to exempt checks of $5 and under had been defeated by a tie ballot, 39 to 39, with Vice President Curtis refraining from voting.

It was decided to meet on Memorial day. Majority Leader Watson [Rep., Ind.] declaring that the most "patriotic thing the senate could do" was to pass the revenue bill.

HOOVER RAKES GARNER BILL AS HUGE PORK RAID

Unknown Cities Named for Postoffices.

projects designated were dumped into the bill at the last moment in such haphazard manner that the census officials at the close of the day had been unable to identify definitely hundreds of the villages in which it is proposed to erect postoffices.

Such was the demand and the scramble on the part of congressmen to get some of the pork for their districts that the framers of the bill were unable to complete the measure in time for introduction in the house today. It became necessary to introduce merely a skeleton bill, the details of which will be filled in later. A complete list of the projects was promised for tomorrow.

Mr. Hoover began his discussion of the Garner bill by saying that "the urgent question today is the prompt balancing of the budget."

"When that is accomplished," he went on, "I propose to support adequate measures for relief of distress and unemployment. In the meantime, it is essential that there should be an understanding of the character of the draft bill made public yesterday in the house of representatives for this purpose. That draft bill supports some proposals we have already made in aid to unemployment through the use of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make loans for projects which have been in abeyance and which proposal makes no drain on the taxpayer. But in addition it proposes to expend about 900 million dollars for federal public works.

Creates Greater Deficit.

"I believe the American people will grasp the economy fact that such action would require appropriations to be made to the federal departments, thus creating a deficit in the budget that could only be met with more taxes and more federal bond issues. That makes balancing of the budget hopeless. The country also understands that an unbalanced budget means the loss of confidence of our own people and of other nations in the credit and stability of the government and that the consequences are national demoralization and the loss of ten times as many jobs as would be created by this program even if it could be physically put into action."

Time was when Mr. Hoover advocated a huge program of public building construction on the ground that it would save money being expended by the government on rent of quarters. But he now views the situation in a different light.

Costs Will Be Multiplied.

"An examination of only one group of these proposals—that is proposed authorizations for new postoffices—shows a list of about 2,300 such buildings at a total cost of about 150 million dollars," said the President. "The postoffice department informs me that the interest and upkeep of these buildings would amount to $14,000,000 per annum, whereas the upkeep and rent of buildings at present in use amounts to less than $3,000,000. Many of the other groups in this bill will no more stand the light of day than this example.

"A total of over 3,500 projects of various kinds are proposed in this bill, scattered into every quarter of the United States. Many of these projects have heretofore been discredited by congress because of useless extravagance involved. Many were originally authorized as justified only in the long distant future. I do not believe that 20 per cent could be brought to the stage of employment for a year. I am advised by the engineers that the amount of labor required to complete a group of 400 million dollars of these works would amount to only 100,000 men for one year, because they are in large degree mechanical jobs."

Hoover Grimly Angry.

Mr. Hoover who, pale of face and grim of eye appeared to be boiling with suppressed wrath, then gathered himself for a final thrust at the log rolling tactics of pork barrel raids.

"Detailed lists of all these projects have been broadcast to every part of the country during the last 24 hours, to the cities, towns, villages, and sections who would receive a portion of this pork barrel," he said. "It is apparently expected that the cupidity of these towns and sections will demand that their congressmen and senators vote for this bill or threaten to penalize them if they fail to join in this squandering of money.

"I just do not believe that such lack of intelligence or cupidity exists amongst the people of our United States."

The characterization of his bill as a pork barrel measure Speaker Garner started to dismiss with a shrug of the shoulders and then said:

"The only thing I have to say about that is that the President himself suggested the same thing when he was striving for the confidence of the people at the ballot box. If the President had made the suggestion now I dare say it would be 'a statesmanlike gesture' and not pork barrel."

Mr. Garner maintained that the one-fourth of one cent a gallon tax on gasoline proposed by his bill to cover interest and sinking fund charges on the bond issue would prevent any unbalancing of the budget.

Plays 3,300 Year Old Oboe

Ancient Oboe

The "double barrelled oboe," said to be 3,372 years old, was given a tryout yesterday by Miss Virginia Swanstrom of the University of Chicago Symphony orchestra. The instrument was discovered in Egypt by the oriental institute of the university. The Symphony orchestra will give a concert Tuesday in Mandel hall, the proceeds to be used as a scholarship fund for needy musicians.

PANAMA FEARS BLOODSHED AS ELECTION NEARS

Two Candidates from Same Party Rivals.

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, May 27.—The bitterest presidential election in her twenty-nine years of independence will come to a close on Sunday, June 5, when Panama's 80,000 voters register their preference between Dr. Harmodio Arias and Francisco Arias Parades.

DR. HARMODIO ARIAS.

Both belong to the same party and both stood side by side when the administration of former President Florencio H. Arosemena was overthrown on Jan. 2, 1931. Parades was prime minister and secretary of state in the cabinet of Dr. Arias, which for a while followed the revolution.

Country Versus City.

Dr. Arias is a country boy from the interior village of Penonome. Upon winning a high school scholarship he was sent to England by the then Colombian government, won another scholarship there for Cambridge university, studied law at London university, and was given his LL.D. for a thesis on international law.

Parades is city bred, a younger member of one of Panama's wealthier families, practically controls the nation's cattle industry, and was educated at Belmont Military academy, California, and the University of Pennsylvania.

From the afternoon of Saturday, June 4, to midnight on the following Monday all bars in saloons, hotels, and clubs will be closed down and sealed, public business will be suspended and a presidential decree will warn all householders that none but voters must be seen on the streets.

Trouble Is Feared.

In the Canal Zone Gov. Harry Burgess will issue an order advising all Americans employed on the canal to remain inside the zone borders. The army and navy will receive similar instructions from Gen. Preston Brown and Rear Admiral Noble E. Irwin.

Trouble is feared and the authorities in the Canal Zone have already completed arrangements to cope with it should such a situation arise. Plain clothes men of the Panama Canal police department have for weeks been checking up the situation and the army intelligence department has had its ear to the ground, listening in on the many rumors as to what may happen should Parades be elected.

Raids President's Garage.

As premier, Parades filled all the federal jobs—governors of provinces, mayors of cities and chiefs of police—with his followers and these people have been giving the present administration no little trouble.

The chief of police in the capital, who is really the commander in chief of the national police, Panama's only armed force, recently raided President Ricardo J. Alfaro's garage seeking hidden arms and ammunition.

2 DRIVERS WHO FLED ACCIDENT SCENES JAILED

Judge Denounces Prisoners' Actions.

Two motorists charged with running away from the scenes of accidents, reckless driving and intoxication, were fined and sentenced to jail yesterday by Judge Francis B. Allegretti in Speeders' court.

John Hartnett, 25 years old, 5809 Drexel avenue, an orderly at the Billings Memorial hospital, was sentenced to 10 days and fined $65. He was arrested April 23 after Mrs. Lillian Flee, 5519 Kenwood avenue, was run down by his machine at Ellis avenue and 55th street.

Judge Calls Acts Cowardly

Henry Becker, 30 years old, 1739 West Chicago avenue, was sentenced to 30 days and fined $125 and costs. His auto struck Mrs. Stella Jerger, 339 North Keeler avenue, at Western and North avenues on April 7.

"Such cowardly behavior must stop," the judge told both defendants. "The testimony has been that police believed that both you men were under the influence of liquor when arrested, but that is certainly no extenuating circumstance." Both drivers, it was charged, fled leaving their victims in the street.

County Toll for Year 438.

One automobile death in Cook county yesterday raised to 438 the toll since Jan. 1. The victim:

The Rev. Thomas Gasparaitis, 29 years old, curate of St. Joseph's church in South Chicago. Died at the Little Company of Mary hospital from injuries suffered Thursday in a collision at Keane avenue and 95th street.

The National Safety council yesterday issued a warning that Memorial day is one of the three annual peak accident periods. Last year, the bulletin stated, 400 persons were killed in the United States on Memorial day and 14,000 were injured. The other dangerous days are the Fourth of July and Labor day.

Chicagoans Hurt in Crash.

Paris, Ill., May 27.—(AP)—Five persons were injured today, all critically, in an automobile collision near Chrisman, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Van Norsdall and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Walls, all of Chicago, and Mrs. Ed Hall of Villa Grove were those injured. Hall said he was blinded by the sun and did not see the other car. He was only slightly hurt.

HOUSE APPROVES HALF BILLION FOR BANK GUARANTEE

Senate Likely to Kill Protection Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—Overriding administration protests, the Democratic house of representatives today passed the so-called Steagall bill creating a fund of half a billion dollars to guarantee payment of their money to depositors in defunct banks.

There was no record vote on the passage of the measure. Representative Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.], whose criticisms of the administration during the moratorium fight cost him his federal patronage, led administration forces in opposition to the legislation. He sought to put the members on record with a demand for a roll call tally, but his motion was defeated and the bill passed with a voice vote.

Would Guarantee Deposits.

Designed to protect depositors from loss as the result of bank failures, the bill sets up a fund of 500 million dollars to be known as the federal guaranty fund and to be administered by a board of five members to be known as the "federal bank liquidating board."

Approximately 150 million dollars of the half billion dollar fund would be raised by the diversion of the franchise taxes paid to the treasury by the member banks of the federal reserve system to the guarantee fund. Another 150 million dollars is to be expected by assessing the federal reserve banks an amount based on the surplus held by each of such banks, and the remaining 200 million dollars is to be raised for the fund by assessing member banks of the federal reserve system an amount based on their average deposits for the preceding year.

Senate Likely to Kill Bill.

As originally presented, the bill provided that state banks might participate in the privileges of the fund, only by payment of twice the assessment levied on a member bank of corresponding size. Sponsors of the bill, however, agreed to an amendment eliminating this provision so that state banks are entitled to the same privileges as member banks, provided they are given a clean bill of health by their state banking department.

In view of the unqualified opposition to the bill on the part of the administration, it was held extremely unlikely that the measure will receive even formal notice on the floor of the Republican senate at this session.

RACE BY PLANE TO BEDSIDE OF ATTORNEY HERE

The wife and brother of former City Attorney Ray L. Smith of Salem, Ore., who is critically ill at St. Luke's hospital, last night were rushing across the continent by plane and train to reach his bedside.

Mrs. Smith was on an eastbound United Air Lines plane from the west coast, which will arrive at the airport early this morning, while the brother, Paul Smith, an attorney of Los Angeles, was on a train arriving from Kansas City early in the morning after traveling that far on Transcontinental and Western Air Lines.

Mr. Smith suffered a relapse after undergoing seven operations since the first of the year because of a collapsed lung suffered thirteen years ago in an automobile accident, according to a friend of his, Paul E. Blanchard, attorney for Armour & Co., of 9329 Longwood avenue. His condition improved slightly late yesterday.

ILLINOISIAN VICTOR IN PONY EXPRESS AIR RACE AT OMAHA MEET

Omaha, Neb., May 27.—(AP)—Johnny "Fishtail" Livingston of Aurora, Ill., the most consistent winner in the air races here last year, returned today and easily won the Pony Express race to successfully launch his campaign in this year's meet. Cliff Kysor of Ottumwa, Ia., was second and Eldon Cessna of Wichita was third.

The Sportsman's pilot race, first speed event on the card, was won by Dr. John D. Brock of Kansas City.

The meet was opened with a dead stick landing contest, won by W. W. Kratz of Louisville, Ky., who landed his ship seven feet from the chalk line. Kysor was second and Mariollus King of Fairmont, Minn., was third.

Parachute jumpers found the wind a great hindrance to their efforts and Clem Sohn of Lansing, Mich., won this event, although he was 120 feet from the circle. Dick Hunter of Minneapolis was second and Jerry Wessling, Toledo, third.

DOG SHELTER 'NO NUISANCE'; WOMAN FREED

Charges that dogs in the North Shore Animal shelter at 5352 Broadway barked long and loud and smelled afar of wet hair failed to impress a jury yesterday in the court of Judge Francis Borrelli. After hearing testimony for two days and deliberating nearly two hours the jurymen returned a verdict finding Mrs. Dorothy Eagles, president of the shelter, not guilty of maintaining a nuisance.

Ben Friedman, foreman, said that the vote at the start was nine to three in favor of acquittal, the three insisting that they wouldn't free Mrs. Eagles unless she would agree to put some insulation around the kennels to keep dog noises and odors in. But, Mr. Friedman added, the majority had convinced the others that the defendant was such a nice person that she would put the insulation in voluntarily.

Mrs. Eagles explained that the shelter was a home for otherwise homeless cats and dogs and that it was maintained by donations of the charitable. Also, a rummage shop in front of the kennels is conducted to aid in support of the enterprise.

The complainants alleged that the dogs barked all night.

Bandit Beats Druggist; Suspect, 20, Is Captured

Hyman Cohn, 20 years old, of 1500 South St. Louis avenue was arrested last night charged with firing a shot at Michael Adler, 50 years old, in Adler's drug store at 3227 West 16th street, and then beating him in an attempted holdup. Policemen Edward Solofsky and Thomas O'Connell found Cohn hiding in a hallway. Lieut. Charles Welling of the Lawndale station said Cohn might be implicated in half a dozen recent holdups.

34 MORE "BONUS MARCHERS" BEING FED AT HAMMOND

Thirty-four more ex-soldiers arrived in Hammond yesterday from Utah as part of the "army" proceeding to Washington, D. C., to demand immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus. Sixteen others were still stationed in an abandoned warehouse in East Chicago, eight of their lot deserting to proceed to Washington as best they could.

Those in Hammond had been forced off freight cars of the Michigan Central railroad from Chicago. They immediately applied for aid in their march and were quartered at the headquarters of the American Legion there and fed by the Red Cross. Gov. Harry Leslie of Indiana, after receiving an appeal from Gregory Baltas, commander of the Hammond post of the legion, to take the contingent to the Ohio line in National Guard trucks, denied the request.

"Hereafter the bonus marchers cannot look to the state for help in any way," Gov. Leslie wired Baltas.

Just what will be done with them was a problem that had not been solved last night.

GARNER WOULD LIKE TO DEBATE WITH HOOVER

Washington, D. C., May 27.—(AP)—The "happiest moment" in Speaker Garner's life, he said today, would be to meet President Hoover in open debate with the 435 members of the house as the jury.

Talking to newspaper men after the chief executive had assailed his 2 billion 100 million dollar relief program in a formal statement, Garner smiled and said:

"You know, boys, sometimes I wish I could meet the President in debate. It would be the happiest moment of my life. If only we could meet and the 435 members of the house be the jury, how I would like it!"

Asked if it was an invitation to the President to meet him in the house, the Texan shook his head and added: "I didn't say that."

A HOT NUMBER OF CRANE 'PEN' SHOCKS BOGAN

College Editors Take a Whirl at Realism.

A literary scandal broke yesterday at Crane Junior college, an institution of higher learning conducted by the Chicago board of education at Jackson and Oakley boulevards, and supported by the taxpayers.

The trouble arose when a copy of Pen and Pad, the college literary journal, fell into the hands of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. Upon a cursory examination of the contents Mr. Bogan declared himself shocked.

The articles, written by students and approved by faculty supervisors, appeared under analysis to have been done in the ripest tradition of the Greenwich Village moderns. Mr. Bogan agreed that Pen and Pad was pretty torrid stuff for boys and girls of high school age.

"In Very Bad Taste."

"A question of academic freedom may be raised," he said. "The writers may feel that, as students of a junior college, they have certain liberties. Nevertheless, I shall instruct the Crane faculty to suppress this sort of thing at once. To say the least it is in very bad taste."

The first article to come under Mr. Bogan's criticism was a vignette entitled, "Before the Hour," written by Mendel Bunning, a sophomore, 20 years old, and the editor of Pen and Pad.

Employing a movie director's technic, Mr. Bunning sketches in a picture of a chain cafeteria, casting his camera eye from table to table, picking up bits of intimate conversation.

Three Women at Tea.

His eye alights on three elderly women of whom, it appears, one is prudish, a second, frivolous, and a third whimsically "modern." The women have just seen a movie. The conversation runs as follows:

"I wish I could come downtown to the movies more often," the first one said.

"They're all a lot of nonsense," the second sniffed.

"The one today was good," the third ventured.

"But they didn't show what happened after the hero carried the girl ——," the first one started, naughtily.

"Elsie Dillon," the second exclaimed, "you are a most indecent woman."

"No," the first one sighed, "I'm sixty today—much too old to be indecent."

The author's eye roves on to where two neurotic young men sit discussing free verse over a cup of coffee. The dark one has buried his face in his hands and, it appears, is contemplating suicide in remorse over some secret sin. The dialogue is as follows:

"You're afraid of life, Richard . . . even more than I am."

"Where have I heard that before?"

"It frightens you when you see it."

"I can't see how—"

"There is so little genuine affection left in the world—"

"I know . . . I know . . . I know all that."

In This Corner.

The scene shifts to another table where a man is talking to a married woman with whom he has an affair, trying to assuage her grief over her separation from her children and banish her fears that the deceived husband will teach the children to hate her.

"You're sorry you came with me? Darling, I'd die to make you happy."

"The children, Geoffrey. I kept thinking of them all night. He'll make them hate me. I'm so tired."

"Poor thing! Do you want to go back and rest," the man asked tenderly.

Life Saving, Cooking and Men.

"First join the Girl Scouts," Christine advocates. "Learn from them a little about everything—from life saving to cooking. Then quit this organization and learn about men.

"Now where are we? We are—pardon! We are experienced. The real world now appears through a hole in the clouds and adolescence and, having decided at birth to become a writer, one now has something to write about."

Another sophomore, Oliver F. Gritin, contributes a sketch on the death of a sailor and flavors it with some salty and unprintable phrases.

"I'm an old hulk but still shipshape," says the sailor. "No damn swab faced son of a scupper rat can scuttle me."

"Artistic Realism."

Miss Edna Schwarzman, faculty adviser of the Pen and Pad, defended the foregoing excerpts as specimens of "artistic realism." Each issue of the journal, she said, is read in proof and approved before publication by Dr. L. J. Hancock, dean of the college."

"Take the profanity of the dying sailor," she remarked. "That's just the way a down east sailor would talk. It's realism. We encourage the students to write in freedom. We try to help them bring out their creative talents. We can't tell them it's wicked to write that way.

"They Know About Life."

"These young people know about life," she explained. "They go to the movies and see it there. The articles in Pen and Pad are certainly less dangerous than the stuff in the confession magazines, which they can buy at any corner."

Miss Dorothy Weil, head of the women high school teacher's union, and a teacher at Crane, took another slant. Recalling that the abandonment of Crane college had been proposed as an economy measure, she said:

"The important thing is that the journal gets its financial support from the students, themselves. Neither the board of education nor the taxpayers pay a cent towards publishing it. The subscription price is taken out of the activities fee which each student pays at registration.

Of the 3,400 students in the college 2,500 subscribe for Pen and Pad, Miss Schwarzman said. No salaries are paid to student editors or contributors and the journal carries no advertising. It is printed in the school printing plant.

DUBS PASCHEN A 'BIG CITY SAP' AS FARM OWNER

$45 Per Week Paid to His Laborers.

Chris Paschen's lawyer, Cassius Poust, described his client to Federal Judge Barnes yesterday as "a big sap who, out of his own line of business, squandered money like a city-wise guy would be expected to do" in the management of "Paschendale," his lavishly equipped farm, near Antioch.

CASSIUS POUST.

Neither Paschen nor the jury trying him for income tax evasion, heard Poust's remark. It was delivered in a low voice in response to a question from the court as to what was expected to be proved by the testimony of Richard Slattery, who worked as a concrete breaker for the Chris Paschen company during most of 1927 and then was transferred to Paschendale as a laborer.

$45 a Week Farm Hand.

Slattery had said he was being paid $47.50 per week to break concrete and $45 per week on the farm. Judge Barnes asked Poust, as the jury left the box for a recess, what the testimony was expected to show.

"This man was given $45 per week and board and room to work on the farm," Poust answered. "Is that all you got?" he asked, turning to the witness.

"Well," said Slattery, "I also got $1.25 an hour for overtime."

"Overtime!" exclaimed the court. "I used to work on a farm myself but I never heard of overtime, unless it was for a twenty-five hour day."

"Yes," asserted Poust. "I'm going to show that Paschen was a big sap and, out of his line of business, he squandered money like a city-wise guy, trying to be a farmer. He was just a sucker. He paid exorbitant prices for everything on this farm and even if we are not allowed to deduct that, at least it will show that there was no intent on his part to defraud the government."

Show Rate of Wages.

Later it was brought out that the prevailing rate of wage for farm labor at the time was $65 to $70 per month. The next phase of the trial, in which Paschen is charged with evading $114,000 taxes in 1927 and 1928, will probably be the introduction of receipted bills for merchandise and equipment purchased by Paschen for his farm and his company. The trial will end its fourth week today. It may last two weeks longer.

Poust made a start on the farm evidence by presenting two witnesses who sold Paschen seeds and lumber. The government protested, claiming that it had not been shown whether Paschen was a genuine dirt farmer or merely a business man with a country estate. He made no mention of farming as an occupation in his tax return, it was argued.

Poust replied that the tax return was not prepared by Paschen, who merely signed the work of an auditor. Judge Barnes allowed the evidence to stand temporarily, and Poust must show that Paschen actually bought and operated the farm with a view of making it profitable.

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

Philip Mistitte, 59 years old, 831 Dakin street, had an automatic pistol which wouldn't work. He took it to C. E. Haskell, a resident of the Almyra hotel, 5141 University avenue, where he worked, and asked Haskell to fix it. As Haskell examined the gun it went off and wounded Mistitte in the abdomen. He was taken to the Chicago Osteopathic hospital, where it was said that his condition is critical.

SIMMONS PAYS $40,000 AND IS FREE OF A WIFE

Long Divorce Suit Ends in Peace.

At the cost of a $40,000 settlement and considerable consternation, Parke E. Simmons, wealthy art collector and retired lawyer of Evanston, yesterday obtained a severance of his marriage ties to Mrs. Mary de Diemar Wright Simmons, which were the subject of bitterly contested court hearings a few months ago.

Mrs. Simmons got the divorce, on grounds of desertion, from Judge Craig A. Hood in the Circuit court. Simmons withdrew the charges of misconduct which he had made in a bill for annulment of the marriage, as well as the charge that the 54 year old widow tricked him into their marriage by pretending that she expected motherhood.

Simmons Brisk and 73.

Simmons is 73 years old, but his pink cheeks and snapping black eyes belie the suggestion of age in his snowy hair and goatee. With former Senator Charles S. Deneen, his attorney, he walked briskly into the chambers of Judge Hood to meet Mrs. Simmons and her attorneys, John K. Murphy and Abraham H. Patek. Simmons, short and rotund, wore a black frock coat and a boutonniere.

Judge Hood heard the case in chambers because a jury was being picked in another case in his courtroom.

Attorneys informed the judge after all of the parties had gathered about a single table in the chambers that one of the conditions of the settlement was that there should be no publicity.

"Well, gentlemen," replied Judge Hood, "I am hearing you here not as a star chamber session but as a matter of convenience while they pick the jury outside."

Reporters! Consternation!

Mr. Deneen handed a copy of the proposed decree to the judge and Judge Hood began to read its provisions aloud. It gave Mrs. Simmons $20,000 in cash, two pieces of real estate of the same value, and $4,000 solicitors' fees. Newspaper men in the room started scribbling busily. Simmons saw this and almost ran the few steps to one of them, seizing his arm.

"Tell me," he asked, "are you a newspaper reporter?"

"Yes, Mr. Simmons," was the reply.

The elderly defendant dashed back to the side of his attorney and clutched Mr. Deneen's arm.

Judge Leaves the Court.

His action threw the hearing into confusion. Every one began to talk at once. One of the lawyers said, "Your honor, the terms of the decree have been violated." The deep voice of Judge Hood boomed above the hubbub.

"This is very unfortunate, gentlemen. I am awfully sorry. Please excuse me," he said, and hurried from the room.

In his absence the attorneys quieted their clients and agreed to go on with the proceedings. Judge Hood returned and Mrs. Simmons was sworn and testified that she was married at Geneva, Ill., on Jan. 12, 1931, and that Simmons left her the following April. Her testimony was corroborated by her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Drake, 2641 Estes avenue, and Judge Hood then signed the decree.

Attorney Patek said that negotiations for the settlement have been carried on by attorneys in the case since February. At that time Circuit Judge Daniel Trude dismissed Simmons' original bill for annulment and refused to grant Mrs. Simmons temporary alimony. Simmons later filed an amended bill.

2 BANDITS SLUG CASHIER, 76, BUT HE SAVES MONEY

A 76 year old cashier in Thompson's restaurant at 132 West Van Buren street was slugged and fired upon early this morning when he resisted two bandits. He saved his employer's money. The cashier is Edward Paepke of 10142 Princeton avenue. His injuries were not serious.

When the men entered the restaurant they ordered him to hold up his arms. He did so, but when one of the men reached toward the cash register Paepke struck his hand. The robber struck the aged man on the head several times. His companion fired twice, his bullets hitting the cash register and the cigar case.

Y. M. C. A. LEADER SHOWS HOW BOYS QUIT GANGDOM

Learn Self-Respect Without Reform.

A Y. M. C. A. secretary's experiences with boy gangs in Chicago were told yesterday by Gren O. Pierrel, assistant general secretary, Chicago Y. M. C. A., in charge of boys' and men's work. For a year Pierrel has observed eight selected gangs of boys, numbering 150 in all, who have had "Y" privileges.

Studying the youngsters' reactions to the influences of the Y. M. C. A. were students from the department of sociology, University of Chicago, headed by Dr. Ernest W. Burgess. Several Y. M. C. A. departments have undertaken similar experimental projects, Pierrel said.

Make No Reform Rules.

"We are making no attempt to reform these boys in the ordinary sense," Pierrel said. "But we are giving each gang the use of the gym, swimming pool and other facilities for an evening or two a week, with young college men for their sponsors.

"The boys, ranging from between 10 and 15 years of age, have signified their growing self-respect by changing the names of their gangs in many cases. Thus the 'Alley Rats' have become 'Phantom Rangers.' Other names of gangs are 'The Crimson Tide,' 'The Swamp Angels,' and 'The Edison Flashes.' The gangs are often nearly as highly organized as the older men of their neighborhoods who are bootleggers and racketeers."

Many of the boys are delinquents and a few have been in St. Charles or other reform institutions, Pierrel said. The real leaders, however, he said, are "those slick enough to avoid having police records." Often, he explained, the real leader of a gang is "covered up" and another boy introduced at the "Y" as the club president.

Boys Inured to Perils.

"These boys are inured to death, sickness and all adversities. They fear the cops, but they have learned that 'political pull' does wonders at times. They are well informed on the bootlegging establishments in the districts, have a moral inspector's knowledge of the disorderly resorts and are apt to distrust every one outside their own gangs and families," he said.

Nearly all the boys in question come from broken homes or homes made miserable by poverty, drunkenness on the part of the parents or disease, the Y. M. C. A. secretary said.

"The gangs commit predatory raids on merchants, break into schoolhouses or even factories and cause much devilment," he said. "Gang tricks pass mysteriously from one group to another."

NEW YORK BANK SUPERINTENDENT IS FREED BY JURY

New York, May 28 (Saturday).—(AP)—Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, was acquitted today of a charge of willful neglect of duty in failing to close the Bank of United States sooner than he did. A jury returned the verdict shortly after 2:45 a. m. today after deliberating the case more than 15 hours. The verdict concluded a long trial, during which Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who appointed Broderick, was a defense witness.

Tuesday Is Deadline on Realty Tax Payments

Next Tuesday is the last day on which taxpayers may meet their 1930 tax bills without the addition of a penalty of one per cent every month they remain delinquent. Because the deadline is June 1, County Treasurer McDonough yesterday announced that he would keep his county building office open on Monday, Memorial day. The 1930 real estate collections have mounted to approximately $110,000,000.

NUN TELLS JURY OF CURES WITH TILTON REMEDIES

Defense and State Clash at Trial.

Sister Mary Hyacinth of Elm Grove, Wis., yesterday took the witness stand before a jury in the court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort and told of cures she had effected by using the medicines and methods of "Old Doc" Lester Tilton, who is on trial with two others on charges of conspiracy to violate the medical practice act. Tilton formerly maintained a "cancer clinic" at the Felician convent, 3800 Peterson avenue.

Before the nun took the stand the hearing was interrupted by the charge of Defense Attorney Irwin Walker that his briefcase, containing files of the Tilton case, had disappeared and turned up in the hands of Prosecutor Charles A. Bellows.

The briefcase was lost Thursday night and returned by Bellows yesterday, Attorney Walker said. Prosecutor Bellows explained that the case had been mixed with his papers and carried away by mistake. Judge Desort ordered an investigation at the end of the trial and told the attorneys to continue.

Defense and State Clash.

Another clash between defense and state was precipitated when Attorney Walker tried to show that Father Peter F. Gall had been questioned in the office of the state's attorney after his appearance as a defense witness.

The jury was dismissed and after hearing argument Judge Desort ruled that the matter was not admissible in evidence. Sister Hyacinth of the order of the Sisters of Notre Dame testified that she is a druggist and is engaged in laboratory work in the Home for Aged and Ailing Nuns at Elm Grove.

She said that she took a Sister Mathilda, who was unsuccessfully operated upon by a doctor, to see Tilton at Clinton, Ia., when the defendant was operating there. Tilton told her that the case was far advanced, but that he would try his cure. The cure was effected, she said, and Tilton taught her his methods. Returning to Elm Grove, she treated 40 patients, Sister Mary Hyacinth said, with the result that 30 of them were cured and able to return to active duty. Among the patients cured was Sister Mary Wenceslaus, who later took charge of the Felician convent, she said.

State Questions Balked.

Prosecutor Bellows asked only three questions on cross-examination, all of which went unanswered because of defense objections. They were: "Don't you know that Cardinal Mundelein investigated this process? Don't you know that Cardinal Mundelein appointed a committee of scientists to investigate? Don't you know that Cardinal Mundelein found it to be a fraud?"

On redirect examination Sister Mary Hyacinth said that she did not consider the cure a fraud and believed Tilton to be "honest, upright, and honorable." Both questions and answers were stricken from the record. Mrs. Margaret Althaler, 5353 North Winchester avenue, was called by the defense and testified to having been cured by Tilton.

She said that after treatment by physicians she went to Tilton. Her nose was twice normal size and her mouth distorted by disease, she said. She was cured and paid only $150, Mrs. Althaler said.

Four more defense witnesses took the stand and testified that they were cured by Tilton's treatment. They are Martin Harderson and Mrs. John Numan, both of Clinton; Edward Doyle, Almont, Ia., and Mrs. Kate Smith, Sterling, Ill.

WALKER LINKED TO TRUST STOCK DEAL HE DENIED

300 Shares Bought by Mayor, Witness Testifies

nothing," so far as Mr. Walker was concerned, but said he would prefer to refer to the transaction as a "profit" rather than a "beneficence" or "gift." In describing how the mayor was presented with his share of the winnings, Mr. Block said:

"I'd have lunch with the mayor. He'd say, 'How's the market?' or maybe, 'Did you see that break?' or he might express a desire to get some money. I'd say, 'Sure, come to me or my brother Max.' He'd telephone sometimes and Max would send a check to my office. I'd cash it and when I saw him I would give him the cash. Sometimes I would give it to him at his home and at other times at his office."

"In city hall?" inquired Mr. Seabury.

"Yes, or wherever I met him," responded Mr. Block.

Mr. Block said Mayor Walker never told him he was putting the money in a safe at his home and that he did not know the mayor wanted the cash to put into a safe. Before stepping down from the witness chair, Mr. Block asked if he might make a statement.

"I never got anything from Mayor Walker in return. I never wanted anything and I would not take anything," said Mr. Block.

Block Tells of Other Accounts.

A whispered conversation with Mr. Seabury followed. It appeared that Mr. Block wanted to be asked another question. Mr. Seabury said:

"You may make any additional statement you desire; that is all I can do."

"I regret to have to say this publicly," said Mr. Block, "but there have been questions about other gifts and I want to state I have made many similar joint accounts for employés and close friends, but they were very, very much smaller so far as profits were concerned. I never had a joint account with any other person holding office. I gave more than $300,000 to charity in 1930, long after all of this happened."

Check Sherwood's Transactions.

James T. Ellis, an accountant for the legislative committee, was the last witness of the day. Mr. Ellis, through Mr. Seabury's questions, attempted to make an analysis of the $750,000 financial transactions made by Russell T. Sherwood, Mayor Walker's missing private financial agent. The accountant's testimony for the most part was, "That's correct," or "Yes, that is right." Mr. Seabury did all the analyzing and was frequently interrupted by the Democratic members of the committee who insisted that "counsel was testifying."

Mr. Seabury went painstakingly through a large bundle of photostatic copies of checks drawn by Sherwood on the special account he maintained in the Central Hanover bank. He showed whom they were drawn in favor of and that they were all signed by Sherwood. Toward the close of the day he was succeeding in linking the Sherwood account in the Hanover bank with the secret trading account in the firm of Hornblower & Weeks, from which Sherwood collected more than $200,000.

Clashes Develop Late.

The courtroom had seemed strangely quiet after the two turbulent days with Mayor Walker on the stand, but the session was not to close without its hullabaloo. The tempers of the Democratic members of the committee and the counsel reached the breaking point just before adjournment until next Tuesday.

The committee auditor was giving an excellent exhibition of a well trained "yes" man from the witness stand when the Democratic committeemen began shouting. One of the senators cried:

"These rehearsals between counsel and witness will come to the detriment of some one some day."

"That's an idle threat," shouted Mr. Seabury, "and I think even less of it when I consider the source."

Hastings Demands Audience.

The courtroom, solidly behind Seabury today, roared its approval and just at this moment Senator John Hastings, who had been the cause of several similar disturbances when he was on the witness stand several days ago, walked up to Mr. Seabury.

"I want to go on the stand and clear up some newspaper headlines," shouted Hastings. "It won't take ten minutes."

"We'll hear you when we are ready," replied Seabury. "You have had your chance on the stand and were given a lot of courtesies you did not deserve. And when I do hear you again it will take considerably longer than ten minutes."

Mr. Hastings retired through a rear exit waving a typewritten statement.

Edward Stanton, formerly secretary to Mayor Walker, talked privately with Mr. Seabury just before the hearing was adjourned until Tuesday. Mr. Stanton at first demanded an immediate opportunity of taking the stand and being heard in denial of some of the testimony made by Mr. Herrick. Mr. Stanton said he did not act as Mayor Walker's agent in the purchase of the Interstate Trust company stock as was intimated in Mr. Herrick's testimony. Mr. Seabury advised him to return next Tuesday.

Mayor Ordered Stock Purchase.

That part of the park commissioner's testimony most directly contradicting the mayor ran as follows:

Q.—And the 300 shares, whoever they were to go to, and for whoever they may have been obtained, they were being purchased at the suggestion of the mayor? A.—That is correct.

Q.—Did the mayor pay for his stock—the 300 shares? A. The money came to me from the city hall, judge. Part of it was in checks, I haven't the slightest recollection whose check it was, and part of it was in cash.

Q.—Now, if it did not come from the mayor, can you suggest any other human being on earth from whom it might have come? A.—I am saying, judge, Mr. Stanton.

Q.—Well, that's from the mayor, isn't it? A.—Yes.

Called for Payment.

Q.—Was Mr. Stanton the mayor's secretary at the time? A.—The mayor's secretary at that time. Then I recall the first installment got down and I got a second call for the payment of the stock and I think then I called up Mr. Stanton. Now this is my best recollection and Mr. Stanton said the rest of the money would be forthcoming.

Q.—And it did come forth later? A.—It did come forth.

Q.—And there was no misunderstanding on your part, was there, that this $39,000 was to be used to purchase the 300 shares of Interstate stock that the mayor had asked you to purchase in his earlier conversation? A.—Not the slightest.

Q.—The two certificates for 100 shares and the two certificates for fifty shares, they were purchased for and on the account of Mayor Walker? A.—Well, they were at his request.

Q.—At his request and pursuant to the money he had sent to you? A.—That was sent down to me.

Mayor's Equivalent Testimony.

Q.—Did you ever say in words or substance to Commissioner Herrick that you would take 300 shares of the Interstate Trust company yourself? A.—I did not say it in words. How could I say it in substance?

Q.—Did you convey that idea to him? Did you ever offer to supply him with funds to purchase 300 shares? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you now directly or indirectly supply Senator Herrick with funds? A.—I did not.

Q.—With which to purchase that stock? A.—I did not.

Q.—Do you remember, Mr. Mayor, sending any money to Mr. Herrick for the purchase of 300 shares of stock of the Interstate? A.—I do not.

Q.—Through any one else? A.—Through no one else.

Q.—Did you acquire any interest in the Interstate? A.—Never owned a share of it.

Q.—Do you know whether—who paid Senator Herrick for this stock? A.—I do not. I am positive I did not.

Q.—Was that stock, after it was obtained in the name of Senator Herrick and indorsed by him, delivered to you? A.—I don't know a thing about it. It was never delivered to me.

Q.—The stock was never delivered to you? A.—I have never seen a share of it.

Q.—Now, Mr. Mayor, is there any other statement about the Interstate stock that you would like to make? A.—I never owned any, I never saw any. I never paid for any and I never profited by any and I never got any money out of any share of stock. Now if there is anything else I have forgotten about it, that goes, too. [Laughter, gavel.]

High Lights of Deal.

Other high lights of Herrick's examination on the transaction were as follows:

Q.—Do you know of your own knowledge whether this money was seen by the mayor? A.—It came down from city hall, that's all I can say.

Q.—There are a lot of people in the city hall? A.—It was sent to me by Mr. Stanton, and I think I am correct.

Q.—In other words, senator, you now say on your oath that you do not know this money came from the mayor of the city? Are you willing to say that? A.—No, I am not willing to say that. I have said already that the money came to me through Mr. Stanton. Now, where Mr. Stanton got the money I do not know.

Q.—And when you were examined in private in reference to it did you make any reference to Mr. Stanton? A.—I did not, at least I don't think I did.

Q.—Is the suggestion of Mr. Stanton an afterthought? A.—No.

Q.—Why didn't you disclose it when you were asked from whom the money came before? A.—Because since then Mr. Stanton has told me—you want the story, judge—

Q.—I want to know why you did not want to disclose it. A.—Since then I met Mr. Stanton one time and he said he had been at a private hearing, and he was laughing about the fact of being asked if he knew me and something about whether he had had any business connections with me, and I said, "I have been wondering ever since I was at a private hearing whether the stock was sent to you or whether the money came from you or not." First Mr. Stanton said he didn't think so. "Well," I said, "I always have been in doubt whether it came from you or whether it came from the mayor." He said, "Well, the probabilities are that I was handling it."

Q.—Now did you understand by that that he was handling it for the mayor? A.—I did.

Q.—I mean you never, senator, had any doubts that that money was being handled for any person but the mayor? A.—I never knew anything about it one way or the other, judge.

So that was his story and he stuck to it.

Walker Contradicts Ten Witnesses

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—The denial today of testimony of Mayor James J. Walker before the Hofstadter committee by Park Commissioner Walter R. Herrick brought to ten the number of persons with whose sworn testimony the mayor is in conflict. Mr. Herrick swore he participated with Mr. Walker in the acquisition of Interstate Trust company stock in 1926. Mr. Walker denied any such deal, except that he had told Mr. Herrick of the prospects for a profit. Those with whom the mayor took issue in his testimony of yesterday and Wednesday were:

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank. The mayor denied he had asked Mr. Mitchell to help finance the Equitable Coach company.

William H. Woodin, chairman of the American Car and Foundry company. The mayor denied he had discussed the Equitable Coach company with Mr. Woodin, or referred him to Senator John A. Hastings.

John J. McKeon, Wall street operator. Mr. Walker denied Mr. McKeon's story of the delivery of the Sisto bonds while the mayor and Mr. McKeon were riding uptown from city hall. He said the bonds were handed him while he was dressing for a banquet.

J. A. Sisto, Wall street broker. Mr. Walker denied Mr. Sisto's account of a meeting at an Atlantic City hotel in June, 1927, when Mr. Sisto told of forming a Cosden Oil pool and offered to carry the mayor for a block of stock. Some one else proposed the mayor's entry into the pool, Mr. Walker said, and there was no agreement that any one carry him.

Senator John A. Hastings. The mayor denied he had told Senator Hastings he would help the Equitable Coach company, if Hastings would promise to forego any stock interest in the venture. He said he made no such statements, and "Hastings would have known better" than to bring up the subject, the mayor said.

Morris Markin, head of the Parmelee system, taxicab operators. Mr. Markin testified he had been the originator of the proposals for taxicab control. Mr. Walker testified he couldn't recall any conversations with Mr. Markin, whereas Mr. Markin said he had personally discussed the taxicab situation in detail with the mayor.

Controller Charles W. Berry, who testified Mayor Walker had urged the Equitable Coach company's franchise on other members of the board of estimate. Mr. Walker said he had merely voted for the franchise, but had urged it on no one.

John H. Pardee of the J. G. White Management company. Mr. Pardee's testimony, supported by a letter he had written in 1926, showed that the J. G. White Management company could not commit the J. G. White & Co., bankers, to an enterprise. Mr. Walker insisted such a commitment had been made.

William O'Neil, of the General Tire and Rubber company, and with F. R. Fageol, a chief backer of the Equitable Coach company. He testified the mayor attended a party the night the Equitable got its franchise, and that among those present were Fageol, C. B. Rose and J. Allan Smith. The mayor said he did not know O'Neil, Rose or Smith.

WALKER IS ANGERED BY TESTIMONY OF PARK COMMISSIONER

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Mayor Walker expressed surprise and some indignation this afternoon when informed at city hall that his friend and appointee, Park Commissioner Walter J. Herrick, had "thrown him down" in a startling bit of testimony.

Mayor Walker, when asked if a report that Mr. Herrick had resigned after his appearance before the legislative committee was true, replied:

"No, and I certainly never will ask for his resignation."

The mayor said he was going away for the week-end and that he wanted "to be left alone."

FREE M'NAMARA ON RUM CHARGE; WARRANT FAULTY

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—[Special.]—Liquor charges against John J. McNamara, former federal convict, were dismissed in federal District court here today by Judge Robert C. Baltzell because of a faulty search warrant used in raiding McNamara's farm home near Fortville, Ind., nostheast of here.

Judge Baltzell criticized federal agents, saying:

"As soon as agents learn how to get cases prepared properly we will be able to enforce the prohibition law more effectively."

McNamara, a former structural iron workers' union official, served ten years in a federal penitentiary in connection with bombing the Los Angeles Times building.

At the time of McNamara's trial, May 10, the judge questioned the legality of the warrant under which federal agents seized a still and 300 gallons of liquor at McNamara's farm.

16 HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLARS WIN U. OF C. AWARDS

Sixteen high school seniors, chosen for all round excellence in scholarship, character and leadership, have been awarded two year honor scholarships at the University of Chicago. Each scholarship is worth $600 in tuition.

All those chosen are from the middle west. Five are the leading scholars in their classes, seven others are in the upper one-tenth of the classes, and the remaining four are among the upper one-third.

Three of the sixteen are Chicagoans. They are William Haarlow, 1555 West 79th street, of Bowen High; William C. Spitzer, 6218 South Campbell avenue, of Lindblom High; and Steve Remias, 1034 West 20th place, of Harrison Tech. Haarlow and Remias are among the leading athletes at their schools.

THREATEN TO BAR STANDARD OIL IN MICHIGAN

Told to Pay Gas Taxes or Close 1,947 Stations.

Lansing, Mich., May 27.—[Special.]—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana was given its choice today of paying $1,599,815 in back gasoline taxes to the state of Michigan by May 31 or closing its 1,947 stations in the state.

Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, issued the ultimatum to the company following completion of an audit of the corporation's books.

The sum claimed due, the official explained, represents differences in the interpretation of the gasoline tax statute. Fitzgerald said he is attempting to collect on the basis of the attorney general's version of the law's application, while the oil company relies on a different interpretation by its own counsel.

Balks at Payment.

At a conference between representatives of the state department and the oil company today the corporation refused to comply with the state's demand for immediate payment.

"During September, 1928," Fitzgerald said, "a Detroit accounting firm was employed to audit the company's books and records. This audit disclosed the amount of unpaid tax due as of that date to be $1,441,191. In April, 1929, a check for $574,995 was accepted by the state, presumably to apply on the account. This left an apparent discrepancy of $866,196.

Other Firms Delinquent.

"Soon after assuming office I called the matter of this apparent unpaid balance to the attention of the company officials, pursuant to which a statement was filed by the company with this department purporting to show that this unpaid balance was not an obligation on its part. To clear up this point, I employed the accounting firm to conduct a further audit and submit a report up to March 31, 1932. This audit discloses the sum due the state."

Fitzgerald indicated that the Standard Oil is not the only company which has not paid its gas tax in full according to the state's interpretation of the law and that a sum running into millions will be collected if the state department's position is sustained in court.

OIL COMPANY'S REPLY.

The following statement was issued by the Standard Oil company (Indiana) in reply to a statement today at Lansing, Mich., by the secretary of state, threatening to oust the Standard Oil company from that state unless a certain amount of taxes alleged to be due are paid:

"The action by the Michigan state officials is an attempt to force the Standard Oil company to pay taxes upon gasoline on a basis other than that provided by the Michigan law. On advice of its attorneys the company will submit the question at issue to the Michigan courts.

"After providing the manner in which the gasoline taxes shall be collected, the Michigan law specifies that there shall be a deduction of 3 per cent to allow for evaporation and loss.

"The Standard Oil company has been taking this 3 per cent deduction allowed by the law. Other companies have been doing the same thing. The Michigan authorities have decided they are going to collect the tax from the Standard Oil company on a different basis and one which would be much more expensive to the company. They are not attempting to enforce the law in the same way against any other company. Under these circumstances the company will naturally resist in the courts the attempts of the Michigan officials to enforce their special interpretation of the gasoline tax law against this company alone."

ASKS FOR RELICS OF LINCOLN FOR EXHIBIT AT FAIR

An appeal to collectors for relics associated with the life of Abraham Lincoln was made yesterday by J. F. Cornelius of Chicago, who was recently appointed chairman of the World's Fair committee on Lincolniana by Gov. Emmerson. Mr. Cornelius asked the collectors to communicate with him in order to arrange to loan the relics for exhibition at the exposition. "Many of these articles or manuscripts are privately owned and are virtually unknown to the rest of the world," he said.

CHRIST INSPIRED ME, RECTOR SAYS IN LONDON TRIAL

Defends Work Among Fallen Women.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 27.—A letter written to the bishop of Norwich by the Rev. Harold F. Davidson was read today in Consistory court where the rector of Stiffkey is defending himself against charges of immoral conduct.

In the letter the Rev. Mr. Davidson accuses the bishop of "duplicity" concerning the charges against him, alleging that his own—the rector's—financial troubles were due to a breach of faith committed by the bishop in regard to an appointment to India for the clergyman.

Proud of His Title.

Dealing with his work in London, the rector said in his letter:

"For years I have been known as the 'prostitutes' padre'—to me it is the proudest title that a true priest of Christ can hold. I believe if Christ were born again in London in the present day He would be found constantly walking in Piccadilly. The attitude of Christ toward women taken into adultery always has been my inspiration. He suffered the cruelest slander, but it did not deflect Him from His solicitude for the fallen.

"His close personal friendship with the notorious harlot of Magdala, always has been my inspiration and comfort in the difficult work I have humbly undertaken in His name."

The Rev. Mr. Davidson's letter said that, although he had been advised by his lawyer that he could bring action against the bishop in regard to the Indian appointment, he had dismissed the idea out of loyalty to the bishop.

Tells of Naked Girl Picture.

Questioned further concerning a photograph in which he appears with a naked girl, the rector denied that he knew that the girl's body was indecently exposed to the camera. The first time he knew of it was when he was shown the picture during the middle of the trial, he testified.

The rector agreed that he had been offered money by the photographer when he was hard up to pose with the girl, but when it was hinted that she would be naked he said he refused to have anything to do with it.

Asked if he would have "in any circumstances for any sum of money" made use of the photograph for publication or otherwise, the Rev. Mr. Davidson declared:

"I would not have done so for $25,000 or more."

U. S. FIGHTS PLAN FOR ADJOURNING DISARM PARLEY

Gibson Says Conference Must Do Something.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 27.—(AP)—Hugh Gibson, head of the American delegation to the disarmament conference, today informed Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, that the United States government does not want to have the meeting adjourned until there has been some concrete result.

HUGH S. GIBSON.

This declaration offset the sentiment prevailing among European delegations for an adjournment of several months.

Adopt Naval Report.

A report containing many divergent views on the question of what weapons are most offensive was adopted today by the naval commission of the conference.

The report showed not only that the great powers differed among themselves but also that they held views on the most important points contrary to those of the small powers. The American delegation described the submarine as a specifically offensive weapon and considered battleships and aircraft carriers to be defensive. Britain and Japan agreed with the United States on battleships, but most of the smaller nations denounced them as offensive arms.

Japs Defend Submarines.

Japan defended submarines and denounced aircraft carriers. Argentina regarded battleships as offensive, but in general indorsed the position of the United States and Britain on the question of aircraft carriers.

The American and French military experts have reached an agreement in principle on the American proposal for determining military defense requirements.

Aviation Notes

Trans-American Air line has changed its schedules between Chicago and Detroit and increased the service from seven to nine planes. The two additional planes operate on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays, one from each city. The other schedules are daily. All planes stop at South Bend, Ind.

In seven years of operation the freight plane line of the Ford Motor company between Dearborn, Mich., and the Ford airport at Lansing, Ill., has flown 20,000 hours, or more than 1,850,000 miles, carrying more than 12,650,000 pounds of freight. The service was inaugurated on April 13, 1925.

United Air lines, operating from Chicago to New York and Dallas and west coast cities, is now flying nightly eight times farther than the night flying mileage of all European air lines combined. Last year 700,000 miles were flown at night on the continent, while United alone flew six million miles at night.

Sixty girls answered an advertisement in Aurora, Ill., to make exhibition parachute jumps. Two were chosen and are in training. They are Betty Jane Modaff, 18 years old, and Nancy Sheaffer, 19 years old.

DR. TROLAND DIES WHEN HE FALLS OVER PRECIPICE

Pasadena, Cal., May 27.—(AP)—Dr. Leonard Thompson Troland, 43, distinguished Harvard scientist, toppled over a precipice and fell 250 feet to his death in a rocky cañon on Mount Wilson today. Apparently he fainted while standing near the edge of the cliff for a photographer.

Dr. Troland played a part in the development for the navy during the world war of submarine listening devices and later gained fame as the co-inventor of a process for making motion pictures in natural colors.

His companion, R. D. Eaton of Hollywood, reports to authorities indicated, was a short distance away with a camera. Eaton glanced into the shutter and, looking up a moment later, saw the scientist had disappeared. Running to the edge of the precipice he saw the body falling into the cañon.

Sheriff's deputies were told that Dr. Troland had suffered from fainting spells and they surmised he had been overcome with an attack.

Dr. Troland was on a leave of absence from Harvard university and had come to California in the hope of regaining his health. He had been living in Hollywood with his wife. His home was at Fresh Lake Pond, Cambridge, Mass.

Standard Oil Cuts Third Grade Gas 1c a Gallon

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced yesterday that, beginning at 7 a. m. today, its third grade gasoline will be sold in metropolitan Chicago at eight gallons for $1 including tax. This is a reduction of a cent a gallon from the price prevailing yesterday. It was explained that this action is taken to meet local competitive conditions affecting low priced gasoline. No change will be made in the prices of Standard's regular and premium grades of gasoline. The third grade gas, which has been colored blue, will be untinted in the future and will be known as Stanolind.

Follow These Rules:

1. Each evening for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturdays) W-G-N will broadcast a melody dramatization. On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a Crossword Puzzle containing the name of the melody. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Crossword Puzzle in the next day's Tribune and name the melody.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $2,500.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules.

NOTE: You do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Crossword Puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest. (See prize list at right.)

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. The Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. DO NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Melodies in Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1339, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, Postage Prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department.

6. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count. Elaborate entries will receive no greater consideration than simple ones.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept their decision as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

MAYOR'S CHARGE OF SCHOOL WASTE BRINGS NO ACTION

Trustees Make No Move to Justify Expense.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

No one in authority appears to be more than mildly interested in the charges that the taxpayers of Chicago have been charged $1,515,000 in "excess profits" in three junior high schools. No inquiry has been started either to justify the expenditures or to verify the charges of wanton waste. No effort has been made to show that the public might have obtained its money's worth or to demonstrate that the people have been fleeced.

H. WALLACE CALDWELL. [Bachrach Photo.]

The first charge of excessive profits on public school buildings was made in July, 1931, by Gov. Emmerson's tax conference. The second charge was made by Mayor Cermak three days ago. The three schools involved are all of the junior high variety.

| Junior high schools— | Contract price. | "Excess profits." |
|---|---|---|
| Parker | $2,295,801 | $500,000 |
| Kelvyn Park | 809,778 | 403,791 |
| Wright | 1,645,341 | 611,597 |
| Totals | $4,750,920 | $1,515,391 |

This $1,515,000 of profits, it has been charged, is over and above all reasonable profits. But the only action with reference to the charges was a statement yesterday by Carter Blatchford, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the school board that he and other members have asked the school architect, John C. Christensen, to "look into the matter." He is to ascertain when the contracts for the schools were awarded, the bids received, and other facts relative to the awards.

No Direct Answers.

Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell has said that no specific reply can be made to the charges until there has been an investigation, although, offhand, he thought there is no foundation to the mayor's accusations. President Lewis E. Myers and Trustees Blatchford and Joseph P. Savage have said that they were not members of the board when the contracts for these schools were awarded.

All of which does not determine whether the public has been mulcted of $1,515,000 on three junior high schools, which is 31.9 per cent of the contract prices for the schools.

Mayor Cermak in the report of this advisory committee's investigation gave the contract price of the Kelvyn Park junior high school as $809,778. The school board records show "the amount of building contracts" on this school as $859,934—a difference of $50,000. That is on the building alone.

For equipment, yard improvements and miscellaneous charges, there were added contracts for $144,682. This brings the total cost of the completed and equipped structure to $1,004,616, of which there has been certified for payment $884,266.

Improvements Increase Total

The building cost of the Wright Junior high school was given by Mayor Cermak as $1,645,341, while the school board records show it was $1,654,948. In addition there were contracts for equipment, ground improvements and other items totaling $163,230, bring the total obligations to $1,808,178. The board appropriated $1,855,000 for this school. The contractors got all but $47,000 of the money appropriated. Of the total obligations there has been certified for payment $1,693,886.

The board appropriated $2,589,000 for the construction of the Parker Junior High school. The total of the contracts is $2,542,695, of which $2,303,636 has been certified for payment.

Mayor Cermak took another fling at the school board yesterday, saying:

"We have just started to tell what we have found out. Let Trustee Myers talk, if he has anything to say about me. His word is no good. He has been flirting with the administration. When he was elected president a year ago he promised to appoint Trustee Robert F. Carr chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, but e reappointed Trustee Flatchford."

GERMAN WAR VET BELIEVED DEAD 16 YEARS IS ALIVE

ENDINGEN, Baden, Germany, May 27.—(AP)—Oscar Daubmann, 36, German war veteran who for sixteen years has been believed dead and whose name is engraved on a monument to the world war dead here, has written his aged parents that he has arrived at Palermo, Italy, alive and well.

He said that after sustaining serious wounds in the battle of the Somme in 1916 he tried to escape from a French war prison, was caught and deported to Africa, from whence he now has reached Palermo.

CLOSE MORTON HIGH SCHOOL FOR LACK OF FUNDS

Saving $50,000; Affects 8,000 Pupils.

The J. Sterling Morton High school, one of the largest in Cook county, closed yesterday afternoon in order to stay within its expected revenue from taxation. By this move the budget will be balanced for the next year, according to members of the Cicero board of education.

A saving of approximately $50,000 will be effected by closing the school two weeks earlier than usual. Another reduction will result by delaying the opening of the school until Sept. 19, instead of Sept. 6, as had been planned.

The action affects 8,171 students because other institutions are housed in the Morton High school building. Of these high school students number 5,200; junior college, 700; night school, 2,000; continuation school, 187, and crippled children's school, 84.

Cicero school board officials announced that teachers would be paid up to date in tax anticipation warrants and that negotiations were being carried on with a La Salle street brokerage house to sell $100,000 worth of warrants to replace teachers' orders used for pay last November.

Class Work Speeded Up.

Commencement exercises will be held tonight. No serious effect will be felt by the early closing, Superintendent Harry V. Church said last night, because classroom work has been speeded up during the last few weeks. "Next week would have been only a four-day week, anyway," he added, "and the last week is made up of graduation activities."

In the high school 750 students will be graduated, while 200 will receive diplomas from the junior college.

Des Plaines Schools Close.

A similar situation caused 1,200 pupils in the three grade schools of Des Plaines in district 62 to start on their summer vacation yesterday. "Collection of taxes has not been sufficient to operate the schools," said Supt. E. R. Selleck, "and it was decided to close them as an economy measure." Mr. Selleck said the schools probably would open on Sept. 6, the usual date. The Des Plaines Junior High school will continue until June 17.

Vets to Meet Today to Plan 'Battle of Cantigny'

Chicago world war veterans who took part in the battle of Cantigny on May 28, 1918, will meet this morning in the Atlantic hotel with regular army officers to plan a reproduction of the battle for the George Washington bicentennial military tournament at Soldier's field, June 24 to July 4.

JUDGES DEFEAT PAY CUT 'TO KEEP PUBLIC RESPECT'

Vote 'Almost Unanimous,' Sonsteby Reports.

The judges of the Municipal court last evening decided that public respect for the judiciary would be lowered if they accepted a salary cut. This decision was reached after a meeting lasting two hours, from which the press was excluded.

Chief Justice Sonsteby announced after the meeting that the decision was "almost unanimous." The two dissenting judges were said to have been Judges Francis Borrelli and Samuel Heller. These two judges had moved to have newspaper men admitted to the meeting, but were overruled by their colleagues.

Decline to Change Budget.

"After full consideration of the matter the judges have decided not to make any change in the budget which was adopted last December," said Judge Sonsteby. "That budget provided for a deduction of 21 days' pay from the salary of each bailiff and clerk in 1932 and other savings and reductions were made at that time which were deemed necessary.

"These reductions are made from the salaries of employés not under civil service, having no continuity of employment and no pension rights.

"An increase in the business of the court is being taken care of with no increase in help. The salaries of the judges are fixed by law and cannot and should not be reduced, because in their position they should be free from the pressure of political influence. If they were required under pressure to donate part of their salaries to the city they would drop in the respect that the public has for the judiciary."

The support of the judges was pledged, the chief justice said, to the enforcement of any other economies in the court which might be possible "without impairment of service."

Aldermen Vote Pay Cut.

The city council finance committee on Wednesday voted to dock judges and court employés 48 days' pay for the year. City employés are being docked 78 days' pay.

The refusal of the judges to accept a reduction leaves the finance committee helpless, unless they follow one suggestion, that the ordinance fixing the salaries of judges be repealed and a new ordinance fixing lower salaries be passed. The chief justice receives $15,000 a year and the associate judges receive $10,000 a year.

The judges have authority to compel the council to appropriate for the court any sum they name.

FARMERS OF BRITAIN INFORMED BY WALES THEY'RE BEHIND TIMES

YEOVIL, Somerset, England, May 27.—(AP)—The prince of Wales told an audience of farmers at the county fair today they were behind the times.

"We farmers must study our markets," he said. "A couple of cutlets has replaced the great joints of beef that used to be eaten with relish by the family on the Sabbath. It seems to me we still are producing goods that were suitable in England 30 years ago—big cheese and big joints of meat."

The prince practices diversified farming, like almost every body in the west of England. He is one of the leaders in the movement to teach farmers how to pack their produce so as to fetch top prices. The prince does his farming at Stoke Climsland, a few miles from Plymouth. His home farm is about 350 acres, 100 of it in grass.

MISS LINDGREN, ACCUSED IN BANK CHARGE, IS FREED

Miss Lavergne Lindgren, former cashier of the closed People's State bank of Maywood, was freed yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge John Prystalski. Charges of embezzlement, forgery, conspiracy and receiving deposits with knowledge that the bank was insolvent were nol prossed on motion of Prosecutor Charles J. Mueller.

Miss Lindgren said that she is going to California to be married, but refused to name her fiancé. Tears in her eyes, she shook hands with Prosecutor Mueller and said that she had "never had any intent to do wrong."

Miss Lindgren was convicted with Elmer P. Langguth, former president of the bank, on charges of making false statements to bank examiners and both were sentenced to from one to 10 years in the penitentiary. She won a new trial in the Supreme court and was acquitted. Langguth is serving his term in Joliet penitentiary. Prosecutor Mueller said that evidence against Miss Lindgren was the same as presented in the first trial. The state had no chance for a conviction, he said.

Four Russians Sentenced to Die for Stealing Grain

NOVOSIBIRSK, Siberia, May 27.—(AP)—Four employes of the Consumers' Cooperative company of the city of Barnaul, accused of sabotage by stealing 1,500 bushels of grain and other foodstuffs, were sentenced to be shot to death today. The Consumers' Cooperative is a retail distributing organization whose members in good standing may buy supplies at the lowest prices.

ORDER INQUIRY IN 700 PCT. LAND SUIT OF COUNTY

Whealan Seeks to Halt Payment.

President Emmett Whealan of the county board yesterday ordered an investigation of a compromised lawsuit which resulted in a judgment against the county for more than seven times the assessed value of property alleged to have been damaged by a grade separation in Bellwood. Attorneys Edmund L. Mulcahy and John Bolton represented the county in the transaction.

Commissioner George A. Miller called attention to the settlement, which he said "was one of the most damnable things I've ever seen," and added that he would ask the Bar association and the state's attorney to review the actions of the lawyers. Yesterday Mr. Miller was out of town.

Didn't Know of Suit.

"I had no previous knowledge of this lawsuit," President Whealan said. "The first I heard of it was today. I will say it is unusual and certainly not the custom of the county to agree to any settlements in property damage cases. Every one should go to a jury for a decision on the county's liability.

"I intend to have the case reopened, regardless of present statements that the court has lost jurisdiction. Some way will be found to protect the county before we are compelled to pay the judgment."

How Suit Developed.

The suit was the outgrowth of claims by owners of property on Harrison street in Bellwood, adjacent to the railroad, that depressing the street caused them to lose egress to the street. It was agreed by the opposing lawyers that Burr Wilcox act as an appraiser for the county, J. P. White for the plaintiffs and these two appraisers selected a third, H. M. Cornell, and it was then stipulated that the property owners were damaged to an amount averaging $174 a front foot. Later it was discovered that the full value of the property, as fixed by the assessor, is $20 a foot.

"I can't pass on the merits of the award without viewing the property," said Charles S. Iversen, chairman of the appraisal committee of the Chicago Real Estate board.

M'LEAN QUITS AS PUBLISHER OF HIS NEWSPAPER

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—Edward Beale McLean, millionaire publisher of the Washington Post, today voluntarily divested himself of his connection with the newspaper. His action, made known through his attorneys, represented a compromise with his wife, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, who has asked the district Supreme court to remove her husband from the co-trusteeship of his father's estate of which the Post is a principal asset.

Mrs. McLean had agreed to drop her suit to have him removed from the trusteeship of the estate if he would resign his position on the Post, the affairs of which she has contended have been neglected by her estranged husband. Mr. McLean is said to be in Paris.

A stipulation in which McLean agreed to resign from the Post was signed by both parties today and the court, which has been hearing testimony in Mrs. McLean's ouster suit, is expected to sign a decree settling the matter two weeks from today.

Three Bandits Line Up 15 in Office, Flee with $130

Three bandits lined up ten young women and five men, employés of the Eureka Tea company, during a holdup yesterday in the company's office at 500 West 26th street. They took $130 from the petty cash box, but were unable to get a larger sum which was locked in an express company safe which employés could not open.

ONE BANK BANDIT SLAIN, GIRL SHOT IN RUNNING FIGHT

Fire on Robbers Despite Woman Hostage.

Morris, Okla., May 27.—[Special.]—One bank bandit was slain, a young woman bank employé was wounded, and a second bandit was believed shot in a gun battle here today.

Three men held up and robbed the Morris State bank of $300 at 11 o'clock this morning. Miss Clara Aggas, assistant cashier, who was wounded in the fight, was alone in the bank when the bandits entered, but managed to sound a burglar alarm. Armed citizens met the robbers as they were leaving the bank, with Miss Aggas as a hostage.

Marshal I. Z. Thompson took a stand across the street from the bank and the driver of the bandit car fired at him with a shotgun, injuring his right arm. Miss Aggas was used as a shield by the two men who had entered the bank and was struck in the jaw by gunfire from citizens.

Shoots Bandit Through Head.

Forrest Bradley, a merchant, shot down one bandit with a high powered rifle, the bullet passing through the robber's head. He was thrown into the car by the other man and Miss Aggas was dragged into the front seat of the car and held on one bandit's lap while the car sped out of town.

Quickly organized posses and the sheriff from Okmulgee gave chase and the car used by the bandits was found abandoned ten miles south of Morris. In it was a dead man who appeared to be about 40 years old. Miss Aggas was released at this point by the robbers who had another car in waiting and in which the remaining two men have so far made their escape.

That a second bandit was injured was indicated by bloodstains in the front part of the car and blood splattered bullet holes in the windshield. The car was riddled by the gunfire of citizens using shotguns, rifles, and pistols. The driver was thought to have been wounded by Marshal Thompson.

Steal Auto from Couple.

The automobile used in the holdup was stolen from Frank Wilson of Okmulgee when he and his girl companion, Virginia Stinson, were kidnaped last night and later released near Okmulgee.

The bandits returned to Okmulgee, robbed Herschel Blackburn of the suburban drug store and vanished until they reappeared at the bank this morning.

Pretty Boy Floyd, notorious Oklahoma bank bandit and machine gun killer, was suspected of being a member of the band, but Miss Aggas indicated that none of the bandits answered Floyd's description.

Miss Aggas was taken to a hospital where it was found her lower jaw had been shattered and her shoulder pierced apparently by the same bullet. It was some time before she could give an account of her experiences.

HAS ONLY ONE ARM AND ONE GUN, BUT HE BAGS 12 BURGLARS

Elyria, O., May 27.—(AP)—Matt Gardner, who learned how to shoot straight with his one arm in the days when he was a cowboy out west, got his 12th burglar early today.

Gardner operates his own one man police force with the aid of an obsolete .41 caliber revolver and a home made burglar alarm. He was sleeping in his home near his gasoline station when his alarm sounded. He crept up on the station, and when he saw flashlights twinkling, opened fire.

He called upon the invaders to crawl out, and one, who gave his name as Tony Carroll, 22, of "somewhere in Massachusetts," did so. Two others were believed to have escaped.

Gardner has been pestered with more than two dozen attempted holdups in the last two years, but has either shot or captured 13 robbers. A year ago he killed one burglar.

MR. GARNER'S POSTOFFICES.

Speaker Garner has at length put together his proposals for public works to cost a billion dollars or more. He has listed every postoffice he intends to build and every river and harbor he will improve. The country owes him a debt of gratitude for this. There is no longer any need for talking about the wisdom or folly of a colossal federal bond issue for an abstraction called public works. Mr. Garner has obligingly told us just what he would spend the money for. He wants to build $70,000 postoffices in towns of a thousand population. Galva, Ill., is to have a building which will cost $75,000 [Galva is a town of less than 3,000 souls] and Winnetka is to have a federal building at a cost of $155,000 for its 12,000 inhabitants. In all, Mr. Garner wants to build 5,000 such postoffices all over the country, an average of eight or ten to a congressman.

Not even Mr. Garner can pretend that the postoffices are needed. It is safe to say that the construction of all 5,000 of them will not improve postal service in any particular. Any money which the government might save in rent for buildings now occupied will be far more than balanced by the additional burden of interest which the taxpayers will be called upon to meet. The Garner proposals, then, are as near pure extravagance and unqualified waste as they well can be. Mr. Garner is asking the American people to believe that the cure for the depression is governmental extravagance and waste.

Mr. Garner and his friends do not state their case so baldly. They say that what is needed is purchasing power and that the only way to increase purchasing power under present conditions is to have the government provide it. When the government builds a billion dollars' worth of postoffices it creates a billion dollars of spending power among building mechanics, contractors and the suppliers of building materials. And, they go on, that additional purchasing power is merely the start, for it creates still further purchasing power among those to whom it is paid.

It is a superficially attractive theory, but it is entirely unsupported by any data from this or any other country. What evidence there is suggests that unproductive government expenditures, such as are contemplated, make little impression upon unemployment. When the situation was far less critical than it is today, when unemployment was far less prevalent, the government distributed well over half a billion dollars to the veterans. That was purchasing power in its purest form and its effects were negligible. Since that handout the depression has proceeded farther and faster in this country than it has in any other whose statistics are at hand.

The billion dollars for postoffices would employ perhaps 15 per cent of the otherwise unemployed for six or eight months, beginning, perhaps, a year hence. What more it would accomplish by way of providing employment for others not directly on the billion dollar pay roll is any one's guess. On the basis of the experience of this and other nations in depression, the probability is that the additional gains would be small. It is altogether probable, then, that Mr. Garner's program would relieve only a small part of the prevailing suffering and for only a brief time. A year or less after the program was started the country would be as bad off as it is today.

That is putting the matter conservatively. The probability is that the country would be far worse off. The postoffices are to be paid for through a bond issue which will weaken the price of government bonds and undermine every bank in the country. A bond issue will also increase the overhead of business which is stagnant today because the costs of doing business are already so high that no profits can be made at prevailing prices. The building of a billion dollars' worth of postoffices cannot be expected to have an appreciable effect in raising the selling price of materials, but it will add to the cost of doing business and will, therefore, serve to promote the depression instead of cure it.

When a man is in good health he needs no warning against quacks. When he is ill, and particularly when the nature of his illness is obscure, a certain amount of mental toughness is required to resist the alluring promises of the faker. Mr. Garner and his friends may resent the charge that they are economic quacks, but they cannot deny that they are putting forward a remedy which has not been tested, which does not bear analysis and which panders to the universal longing for better times.

Every man's common sense teaches him that when his income is cut off he will only injure himself by squandering what he has left and contracting needless debts. It is difficult to believe that a policy which would ruin us one by one is calculated to benefit us if undertaken jointly. Unless the world is governed by principles hitherto unsuspected, squandering is ruinous alike to individuals and nations. Indeed, the depression has been as severe as it has only because we squandered our wealth in the past in mad speculation and mad government extravagance. More of the same is not calculated to restore economic health.

METROPOLITAN HICKS.

Mayor Walker staged a late but expected entrance at the Walker-Uzcudun fight Thursday night, after a day spent in popping in and out of his own corner in the ring with Samuel Seabury. The primitives in Madison Square Garden received their hero as some one back from the wars. Jimmie swaggered to the cheers of the Christmas tree boys.

Mr. Walker got the wampum and is dear to his public. A little dance, a little song, will answer any question Mr. Seabury can ask. Jimmie's electorate knows that you do not have to explain a quarter of a million dollars or any larger sum. The lack of it may keep you talking and no one will want to hear you. No one ever cheered a citizen at the curb with a tin cup and some lead pencils or shoe laces. Many citizens have gone there, and Mr. Walker's public knows they were suckers or they would not have allowed their chisels to cool.

The electorate which cheers Mr. Walker believes that a betrayal of trust would be to neglect an opportunity. If it elected a man and found that he had refused to take a return where he had made no investment it would think itself betrayed. Its confidence would have been imposed upon. Where it thought its guy was a wise guy he turned out to be just another sucker. A public official with such scruples would be a man wasted in his opportunities. Metropolitan sophistication would have no use for him.

Fifty thousand in a policeman's tin box, hearty applause; one hundred thousand in a former sheriff's tin box, laughter and cries of "Attaboy!"; one hundred and fifty thousand in a clerk's bank deposit, enthusiastic cheers; two hundred and fifty thousand in the mayor's wall safe as loose change, hysterical cheering; seven hundred thousand in Russell Sherwood's account, the awed silence of an admiration which chokes the voice.

If Boss Tweed could return to New York they wouldn't get the ticker tape off the street for six months.

A CHALLENGE TO THE BUREAUCRATS.

The Chicago Board of Trade has withdrawn trading privileges from the Updike Grain company and at the same time has suspended two officials of that company from membership in the exchange. Both steps were taken on the ground that rules of the Board of Trade have been violated.

The action of the board cannot fail to be regarded as a direct challenge to the farm board, its political sponsors and the secretary of agriculture himself, for the Updike company is the farm board's wheat buying agency. On a previous occasion Secretary Hyde threatened to close the exchange under the powers granted him by congress. He might take advantage of this action of the Board of Trade to suspend its license.

If he does, the board is in a superb tactical position. Within a few days the first of the winter wheat will be harvested in the southwest. That wheat and all that follows it moves from the farmer to the country elevator, from the country elevator to the central markets and from these markets into export and into the hands of millers almost entirely through the use of borrowed money. As the wheat moves from hand to hand the old borrowings are paid off and new credits are opened. The farm board itself is no less obliged to borrow against the wheat it holds than is any other grain dealer. It hasn't enough cash to own its wheat outright and, like every other grain dealer, it has been able to borrow only because of the existence of the Chicago Board of Trade. Any banker can afford to lend against wheat holdings because of the certainty that those holdings can be liquidated in Chicago in ten minutes.

If the board is closed, the bankers can still make wheat loans, but the risk involved may be enormously increased and the consequence therefore must be less income for the farmers. That tendency toward lower prices will be encouraged, of course, by the absence of future trading. The price of wheat will reflect the relationship of the immediate supply at the moment when wheat is pouring into the markets in enormous quantities to a fairly constant year-round demand.

In time some other agency must arise somewhere to perform the services now performed by the Chicago Board of Trade should that institution be closed. But such an institution cannot be improvised in a few days or a few weeks. It is doubtful if even the most headstrong of the bureaucrats would dare close the exchange in the face of an oncoming crop, though there is no telling, of course, what an angry bureaucrat will do when his bluff has been called.

The probability is that there will be much threatening and no decisive action for the present at least. It is to be hoped, however, that some overt act will be committed by the government which will bring the issue into the courts. If the government has the right, under the constitution, to destroy free markets and rig the price of bread for the American people, it is time the facts were known. If we have had a communist revolution in this country, the fact ought not be kept a secret from the citizens.

PEORIA'S PROUD PLACE IN LITERACY.

[Decatur Herald.]

Peoria, which in the last census stepped into the 100,000 class in population, has a new distinction. With Long Beach, Cal., it heads the list of cities of 100,000 population in the smallest amount of illiteracy. Each has one-fifth of 1 per cent.

Salt Lake, Des Moines, Tulsa, Wichita, Fort Wayne, Minneapolis, Oklahoma City, Seattle, and San Diego all enjoy the distinction of having less than 1 per cent of their population of 10 years and over that are unable to read and write.

The fact that most of these are in the west and middle west is significant. Their remoteness from the Atlantic seaboard where most of the European immigration is received probably accounts for the good showing.

While San Antonio and El Paso, Tex., are well down in the list on account of the heavy infiltration of Mexicans, the position of Paterson, N. J., and New Bedford and Fall River, Mass., is worse. All three are mill towns which in the recent past have drawn heavily upon southern and eastern Europe. Fall River, lowest in the list with 10 per cent of her people illiterate, happens to be the one city in the United States that is bankrupt and under the rule of a state commission.

These two cities at the gateway of Cape Cod, one of the oldest settled regions in North America, are a blot on Massachusetts, a state whose educational standards are traditionally high. Peoria's excellent standing is not explained other than by an overwhelmingly large percentage of native white population and an excellent school system.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

AND NOW SPEAKER GARNER is going to sprinkle forty-five hundred new postoffices over the country as a relief measure. If it takes the government as long to build those new postoffices as it does to build the postoffice here in Chicago they may come in handy for the next depression, but they won't help any in this one.

"A PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM," says Secretary Mills, "would be a shock to public confidence." Oh, dear Mr. Mills, where in the world have you been? Our public conscience has been shocked so much and so thoroughly that, honestly, nothing short of the blowing of Mr. Gabriel's trumpet could shock it now. And after all we've been through even that wouldn't cause much more than mild surprise. People walking along the Boul Mich or down Broadway or anywhere at all would just listen to Gabe tooting for a minute or two and then say: "Oh, there's Gabriel blowing his horn! Well, it's damn near time."

Her dark, ebullient beauty, like the night's,
Is cloaked in softest velvet, is bejeweled
With pearls as moist and luminous as stars . . .

Her voice is like a sea shell's melodies,
It has the quiet rhythm of low waves
Heard moving through drowned labyrinths of trees . . .

Within the tawny clusters of her hair,
Now loosened to the wind's hot-breathed caress,
A haven is, and I have dreaming there . . .

Her eyes are turbulent with memories
(See in their depths, how sun with shadow duels!)
And they are restless as the changeling seas . . .

A dagger of such opulence, such art
It dazzles . . . and then plunges to the heart.

SHERRY KING.

QUEER, how differently the newspapers regard the result of the appearance of Jimmie Walker in the Seabury investigation. From some of them you gather the idea that so great was Jimmie's triumph that his bust will be immediately placed in the Hall of Fame, he will be made mayor for life of New York City, and given a hero medal and the thanks of congress. And from other papers it seems to be only a question as to whether Jimmie will be immediately declared to be no longer a member of the human race, deported as an alien, or sent to the electric chair.

WONDER WHAT THE CO-EDS do when they're not posing in the college beauty queen contests? Well, anyhow, soon it will be fall and then nobody can horn into the picture page except the football players, and we'd much rather look at pretty co-eds than football players. As far as good looks go the higher education seems to do more for the girls than the boys.

A GENTLEMAN has supplied us with some of the names the drys have applied to him as they glimpsed his "Repeal the 18th Amendment" sign on the rear bumper of his car. "Old soak," 28 times; "beer hog," 15 times; "whisky guzzler," 14 times; "town drunkard," 9 times, and "old sot," 7 times. We are going to put our repeal sign on the bus tomorrow and we do hope the drys won't call us any of those names; they display such a lack of originality.

SEN. BORAH is expected by a large and rapturously applauding section of the drys to break away from the Republican ticket and lead a third party if Mr. Hoover consents to a prohibition referendum. The idea is also said to be very well received by the Democrats.

THE SOMEWHAT OBJECTIONABLE CUSTOM into which the bandits have fallen of making their victims lie down on the floor, which is often dirty and always hard, suggests that somebody manufacture a very light, patent, adjustable, automatic, low folding cot that could be easily carried about by one and all and which could be quickly opened and flopped into when the bandits issued the usual order to lie down on the floor. The only objection to this idea is that the bandits, often somewhat rude, uncouth fellows, might steal the cots, too, but, of course, there is some drawback to everything. At least the plan is worth trying, as so many people complain of catching cold or getting rheumatism by lying on the floor during bandit raids, and it's high time something was done about it.

THE NEW SALES TAX proposal at Washington exempts clothing, medicine, farm implements, and publications. We are arranging an auction of everything we own except clothing, medicine, farm implements, and publications. We are hoping that tooth brushes and tooth paste will be considered by the tax collectors as medicine and the family bus regarded as a farm implement, because every farmer has one.

TO A FAMOUS LADY.

They tell me that you've eyes so blue
That even faithful hearts aren't true.
That's you've a smile so very gay
That sluggards toil for you all day.
That wit you have, and soft white hands,
A heart that always understands,
A beauty quite without alloy,
A rival of that scourge of Troy.

I hope I see you from afar,
I've learned what disappointments are.

ELIZABETH ELSIE ZILEH.

IT IS SAID that Mr. Seabury will recall Jimmie Walker to the witness stand. If he does then it either proves he is a glutton for punishment or he wants to make James the next nominee of the Democrats for President.

SOME MISGUIDED railroad company has just sent us a booklet of vacation spots in the Rockies. If we could only receive a nice illustrated booklet of vacation spots around the south end of Lincoln park it would probably help us more. R. H. L.

VITAMIN DISCOVERIES.

RECENTLY the papers have carried stories announcing that scientists have isolated different vitamins and are able to show them as pure chemical substances. Some who have read these stories have asked just what it all means.

Until these discoveries were made it would have been better to say that we accepted vitamins on faith. There were certain things that made us believe there were substances, named vitamins by Funk, but they had not been discovered. When foods of certain kinds were fed to animals for a long time things happened. When other foods were fed, other things happened. By very scientific feeding, weighing, and otherwise observing it was concluded that a certain substance must be present in some foods and absent in others, and, when present, was there in certain quantities.

In the course of time information had accumulated until we suspected, and even believed, that there were at least five of these substances called vitamins, and probably the number was seven instead of five. So definite was the belief that we had the faith to say a given man, under given circumstances, must eat such and such or he will suffer the consequences. Faith was so strong that the system of feeding was greatly changed in order to make it meet the new views.

The several recent discoveries amount to not much more than an announcement that some explorer had found an island in a spot where everybody knew there must be one, and where every mariner's chart was marked with a notation: "Land here suspected and almost certain."

Since the everyday man is now eating spring fruits and vegetables in order to get vitamin C, or eating another diet in order to escape pellagra, or otherwise acting on his faith in vitamins, the discoveries mean nothing of immediate practical interest to him, or, for that matter, to anybody. This does not mean that they never will be of practical interest. Let us use sugar as an example. The biblical characters ate milk and honey.

They soured the milk, made curd of it, and put the curd in a bag and went their way into the desert with a skin of solid milk. But they could not take a jug of honey. They had to eat dates with their curd as they crossed the desert because it was not practicable to lug along honey. Then came a scientist who learned how to crystallize cane sugar. Eventually the man of the desert changed his practice. He took along a bag of dry sugar crystals to eat with his curd. He told his one time friend, the bee, that he was unnecessary. Thus, in time, the discovery of some laboratory changed the habits of the Arab in the desert.

This may happen with vitamins, not to mention the possibility that some day we may make our vitamin C in factories and use all of our present orchards and vegetable gardens for dog tracks. We may make our vitamin D artificially and leave the cod and halibut to swim the seas.

CALLUS ON FOOT.

E. K. B. writes:

A piece of moleskin adhesive plaster put over any callus on the sole of the foot will work like magic in relieving pain. The piece of plaster must be cut large enough to cover the entire callus well. It will stick there for a week or more, even while bathing. Before replacing with a fresh piece of plaster, remove all the stickiness on the calloused spot with kerosene, and wash well with hot water and soap. This kind of adhesive does not soil the hose, and it can be bought at the drug sundry department of any large drug store. Ten cents' worth will suffice for many months, provided it is kept in a covered tin box or glass jar.

PROUD FLESH.

S. H. writes:

1. Can proud flesh be cured?
2. What is the cause of it?
3. Which is the best method to cure it?
4. Is sun ray beneficial?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Proud flesh means that the usual healing by granulation has gone wrong for some reason. In some cases dead bone is the cause, or a foreign body of some other kind in the wound. A fingernail or toenail may cause proud flesh to develop in a nearby wound. Infection of a wound may cause it.
3. It is often necessary to clean out the dead bone or other foreign matter. In some cases the wound needs to be scraped and partially sterilized. The maggot treatment is very helpful.
4. Yes. It aids materially in the cure.

HEADED TOWARD TROUBLE.

Rex writes:

Do you consider the practice harmful if adhered to continuously? I am 52 years old.

REPLY.

I do.

Any person who has contracted the cathartic habit is headed for trouble. Among the most harmful cathartic habits is that one in which Epsom salts or some similar saline is used daily.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

NATIONAL CONVENTION

PROGRESSIVE—1912.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The National Progressive party completed its convention, which began at the Coliseum on Aug. 5, by nominating Theodore Roosevelt of New York for President and Hiram W. Johnson of California for Vice President. The party, formed as a result of the nomination of William Howard Taft by the Republican, boss controlled convention in June, was officially named on the first day of the convention when Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana sounded the keynote as temporary chairman.

On the following day Col. Roosevelt made the speech of his political career and 15,000 men and women passed through 53 minutes of extraordinary enthusiasm while the Coliseum was shaking with a delirium produced by the appearance of the colonel.

After his nomination yesterday Col. Roosevelt cried out to the great Coliseum audience: "Accept? Of course I accept. I have been President and seen much of life. I measure my words when I say I count this the greatest honor of my life to be called to lead this movement in the interest of all American people." Gov. Johnson also accepted, declaring that he preferred defeat with Roosevelt to victory with any other nominee.

Then followed something utterly strange to political conventions. The delegates and spectators stood reverently and sang "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow," and while they remained standing a benediction was said.

The platform pledges, among other reforms, equal suffrage to men and women, revision of court procedure, and the conservation of human resources through an enlarged measure of social and industrial justice, including the prohibition of child labor, minimum wage standards for working women, the general prohibition of night work for women, and an eight hour day for them and for young persons.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 28, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson, in an address before the League to Enforce Peace, indicated in a guarded way that he is seriously considering the offering of his services as mediator in the European war and outlined to some extent the basis upon which he thinks the warring nations should make their agreement. His statement was taken by many of those who heard him to mean that Mr. Wilson may, in due time, offer his services as a peacemaker on his own initiative instead of waiting until he has received a formal request to do so from one or more of the belligerents, a point by which he has guided his attitude regarding mediation in the past.

CHICAGO.—A combination has been formed—carrying into it between 525 and 540 Republican national delegates—that precludes the nomination of either Theodore Roosevelt or Justice Hughes. This is the information that reaches THE TRIBUNE from the highest possible sources. It is receiving circumstantial corroboration with the arrival of each state leader and delegate. It is a combination that can be shattered, apparently, only by a stampede to Justice Hughes, that must be of sufficient proportions to nominate him on the second ballot.

EUROPEAN WAR SUMMARY.—The French regained the village of Cumieres, north of Verdun, after hard fighting. German guns destroyed a town on the Macedonian front. Bulgarians have occupied the Greek forts after forcing Constantine's troops to evacuate Fort Rupel on the Struma. The Italians struck the Austrians a hard blow after a retreat at Molino in the Ledro valley. Vienna reports continued advances.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—J. J. Hill, railroad builder and capitalist, lies in a serious condition at his Summit avenue home after having undergone an operation to remove a carbuncle on his thigh.

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space in Monday's Tribune.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What style of architecture is represented by the Century of Progress buildings?

ANSWER:

The buildings of the Century of Progress exposition represent modern or contemporary architecture. This style is deliberate departure from classical or Gothic models. It tries to express something of the character of an age which is largely built on science, machinery and engineering. One battle cry of contemporary architecture is that form and line must be inseparable from function. Thus classical columns which merely pretend to hold up weight which is really carried by skeleton steel beams are rejected as meaningless. The exposition must be judged as a completed whole and with reference to what it purports to do.

C. P. A. EXAMINATIONS.

Chicago, May 24.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please advise me when and where city and state examinations are to be held for certified public accountants? What are the qualifications? Is there any charge for the examination?

G. A.

The examination leading to the degree of certified public accountant is conducted by the University of Illinois at Urbana. Information concerning same may be obtained by writing Mr. D. A. Grossman, clerk, committee on accountancy, of that institution. We are inclosing copy of the public accountancy law of 1927, which comes under the jurisdiction of this department. Sec. 7 outlines the requirements for admission to examination. Application blank will be furnished on request. PAUL B. JOHNSON, Supt., Department of Registration and Education of Illinois.

HUSBAND MUST PAY.

Chicago, May 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband and I were separated two years, after which I secured a divorce. We both had the same lawyer, as my husband did not contest the case and he paid the lawyer. In my decree he was ordered to pay me seven dollars a week for our son. He is now seven weeks in arrears and I would like to know [1] how I must go about petitioning the court to make him pay what he owes. 2. Would it cost anything to do this? 3. Would my husband or I have to pay the costs? B. H. S.

1. It probably would be advisable to place the matter in the hands of the attorney who secured the divorce for you.
2. Yes.
3. The court would order him to pay, but we are not in a position to say whether he has the money to pay.

GOLF GALLERIES IN THE PARK.

Chicago, May 25.—For a perfect example of useless official intermeddling in private affairs, permit me to cite the latest edict of the commissioners of Lincoln park. It is a rule against golf galleries.

This afternoon there was a foursome worthy to compete in any tournament in the world. It was composed of Dave O'Connor, Tod Hardy and Sterling Dawson, all former champions, and another gentleman equally adept at the glorious game. About forty spectators followed them from the first tee. For twenty minutes we forgot all about the depression and saw the beginning of a wonderderful free exhibition, such as ordinarily costs $2 to witness, but at the second green the curtain was rung down on the show. Two policemen, without the slightest effort at politeness, ordered the spectators off the course. We obeyed the order, to be sure, but if the ears of the Lincoln park commissioners did not tingle as an effect of the angry comments made it was because their said official ears are as tough as they are long.

I do not know the name or the politics of a single commissioner of Lincoln park, but it is very evident that they either know little of the game of golf or else even less of the will of their constituents. During the last two or three years they have reconstructed the course till they have nearly ruined it, and have increased the playing fee from fifteen to twenty cents. The golf course is the only part of the park which returns a cash income. But despite this daily income of approximately $100, and notwithstanding the large amount of taxes regularly collected, the fairways are permitted to grow up in weeds and the greens are given less attention than the fairways should have. T. R. Moss.

CIVIL SERVICE WITHOUT A PULL.

Chicago, May 16.—J. B. wants to take a civil service examination for a position with the board of education, but has been told by several people that he never will get an assignment without a political pull. This is my pet peeve, and I cannot resist answering.

I have been working for the city of Chicago for over 20 years and have never been able to convince some people that I did not get my job by political pull. I started to take civil service examinations when I was 21 years old and since that time I have worked in the health department, police department, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, and for the last 15 years for the board of education. During this time I have been promoted five times through promotional examinations and have turned down jobs in the water department and the board of examining engineers.

All of these connections I have made through competitive civil service examinations and no politician ever lifted a finger to help me. I also personally know of dozens of cases where others have done the same thing.

TELLING IT TO 'EM.

Chicago, May 19.—To the 1932 congress—the most colossal aggregation of cowardice, selfishness, and stupidity ever assembled; te morituri salutamus.

L. A. GRANGER.

UTILITY RATES.

Chicago, May 24.—I notice that one of your correspondents, Mr. Robert Simons, declares that all employés of and investors in the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois should resist to the bitter end the attempt which the Utility Consumers and Investors' League of Illinois is making to reduce the domestic electric rates of that company by 30 per cent.

Mr. Simons seems to neglect the fact that the average net earnings of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois from electrical operation have in the last four years exceeded 10 per cent on the maximum fair value of their electrical properties. Since 7 per cent is the maximum fair return to which the company, under the previous decisions of the commerce commission and the courts, is lawfully entitled, this means that the company has collected a return of 3 per cent, or approximately two and a half million dollars, a year in excess of its lawful return. This sum belongs to the consumers and not to the company, and we are therefore asking for such a reduction in rates as will return these excess sums to them. The company will not have to decrease its dividends or cut its wages, as Mr. Simons seems to feel. It can still make its present payments and it will merely lose those excess gains to which it was never entitled and which an alert commerce commission would have prevented it from obtaining.

It should be noted, moreover, that in a period when commodity prices have been falling the prices of our utilities have been maintained. If prosperity is to be speedily restored it is necessary that those prices which have resisted deflation should come down also. The utilities can make a real contribution to economic welfare if they lower their rates at a time when the general money income of the people is greatly diminished.

According to studies which we have made, it is apparent that the consumers of the state pay as much for the various utility services as for the total cost of state and local government. We hear a great deal about the necessity for a reduction in governmental expenditures in order to relieve the hard-pressed taxpayer. Is there not, therefore, an equal and indeed even greater need that the hard-pressed consumer should be relieved in part of the heavy burden which rests upon him? PAUL H. DOUGLAS.

JUSTICE IN OAK PARK.

Chicago, May 24.—I have seen case after case in the Oak Park police court for all types of offense, some of them very trivial, where the defendant paid a fine and court costs. Some of these men were arrested for not having a state or city license and lacked identification at time of arrest, but had already purchased their license. Even in these cases the story was the same: Two or three dollars and costs.

These fines went on without any rhyme or reason. No wonder people lose respect for law!

I wonder if the people of Oak Park who are like the rest of us in any community know the type of judge and court officials they have?

Contrast Between Masses and Leaders Described.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 27.—Their contracts canceled by the soviet government, which offered them renewals upon the condition they agreed to work for rubles instead of dollars, three American engineers have been waiting for more than a month in Riga for their wives who encountered difficulties in leaving Russia. They are Edmund G. Brown of Malden, Mass.; P. L. Steffensen of Oshkosh, Wis., and R. P. Baylor of Lone Fountain, Va.

The first two are mining engineers and the third is a concrete construction specialist. They spent two years in Russia. Steffensen and Baylor traveled thousands of miles to work on various industrial projects included in the five year plan. They claim that this plan is "a complete washout" and predict that until the present system of government is changed all attempts to industrialize Russia will fail.

Requests Are Refused.

These Americans began their attempt to obtain exit visas for their wives months ago. Request after request was turned down by the soviet authorities. Finally, their decided to go to Riga as a matter of economy. When their contracts were canceled they lost their bread and ration cards and the right to purchase food at the special store maintained in Moscow exclusively for foreign specialists.

The men were compelled to pay their hotel bills and for their meals in American dollars. The rubles they had received under the terms of their contract would not purchase anything. Thirty dollars a day for a room and meals in one of Moscow's hotels proved too much, particularly when they could not order eggs for breakfast and the only fruits on the menu were stewed prunes and apricots.

The wives of these three Americans arrived in Riga with only the clothes they wore. They left their wardrobes for relatives in Russia. They reported food conditions considerably worse than when their husbands had left five weeks before and that a general famine threatened.

Food Sent to Far East.

"The inhabitants are told that all available food reserves have been sent to the far east for the Red army on the Manchurian frontier," one of the wives said. "War, according to the communists, is only a few weeks off and a partial mobilization of the members of the communist party has been ordered for service on the front. Women being trained as nurses and doctors have been mobilized for service. Medicines in the Moscow drug stores are as precious as gold."

According to the women, it is a constant struggle, even for the privileged foreign specialists, to get anything to eat. They said that their relatives go out at 3 o'clock in the morning to stand in line to buy a pound of butter. Often by the time it comes their turn to be served, the butter is gone.

In an effort to abolish the lines the various coöperative stores issue script, but it is necessary to stand three hours in line to get script calling for sugar and then another three hours to get the sugar itself. Herring is considered such a delicacy that when a coöperative announces it will issue herring rations that a line begins to form the night before at 10 o'clock.

Gay Life in Kremlin.

Life is apparently vastly different for the commissars in Moscow's Kremlin. One of the wives said she had a friend employed as governess by the family of a commissar. She lived in the Kremlin and was only permitted to visit her faimly once a month. She said that inside the Kremlin walls there are special stores. The commissars' women hold their parties and dinners and their gowns and lingerie come from Paris. They attend special performances in Moscow theaters when the proletariat is barred. They drive around in custom built American cars equipped with bullet proof glass.

GIRLS SHOW HOW TO FEED FAMILY ON $7.57 A WEEK

How to feed a family of 6 on $7.57 a week, on a diet including such delicacies as cornmeal pancakes with brown sugar syrup, fruit puddings, oatmeal cookies and cinnamon rolls, as well as such items as ham and cabbage, was demonstrated to a group of mothers yesterday by girl pupils in the Lewis-Champlin school, 320 Englewood avenue.

The girls prepared foods under the watchful eyes of their mothers and the latters' neighbors in the household arts room of the school. Sixth and seventh grade girls participated. Miss Isabel Bradford directed the demonstration.

A typical day's menu included for breakfast apple sauce, cornflakes with milk and sugar, cinnamon rolls, milk for children and coffee for adults. For luncheon corn pudding, lettuce sandwiches on whole wheat bread, apricots and oatmeal cookies were included. Supper consisted of escalloped salmon, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, bread and butter and milk.

HARVEY PLEADS LACK OF FUNDS FOR WATER BILL

The city of Harvey, which was given notice Thursday by Corporation Counsel Sexton that its water supply will be shut off unless it pays a $141,850 bill for water furnished by Chicago, will pay as soon as it gets the money, Elmer Bloom, water commissioner of the suburb, said yesterday.

Bloom asserted, however, that the bill should be only $121,000. Of this, he said, $70,000 is owed to Harvey by other suburbs to which it pipes the Chicago water.

The largest of these debtors is the village of Markham, which owes $44,967, mostly for water furnished to the Oak Forest infirmary for which the county board has not paid. Harvey is also having difficulty collecting water rents from its own citizens, because of the depression, Mr. Bloom said.

WINS PRIZE

ROME, May 27.—(AP)—King Victor Emmanuel visited the American Academy of Fine Arts today and looked over its annual exhibition. He was received by Ambassador John W. Garrett and Mrs. Garrett. Officials of the academy and the king talked at length in English and his majesty showed a lively interest in the works of art. He congratulated fifteen Americans who won the "Prix de Rome."

The American prize winners included Burton K. Johnson, Chicago; Charles R. Sutton, Ottawa, Ill.; John M. Sitton, Greenville, S. C.; Walter L. Reichardt, Los Angeles; William M. Simpson, Norfolk, Va.; Henry D. Mirick, Washington, D. C., and Norman Damlockwood, Ann Arbor.

CATALONIA WINS AUTONOMY FROM A MODERN SPAIN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, May 27.—Perhaps the oldest minority problem in Europe, dating from the days of Ferdinand and Isabella, was settled, except for formal ratification, tonight when Premier Azana, with practically the whole Cortes vote pledged to him, stood solely responsible for granting ample autonomy to Catalonia without endangering Spanish unity.

Catalonia, comprising four eastern provinces, with Barcelona the capital, will probably accept the solution offered by the "Friends of the Spanish Revolution," although resenting the fact that the Catalan plebiscite is to be considerably mutilated.

Loosely Federal in Form.

The premier's speech indicated the new modernistic Spanish state will be loosely federal in form, with the Basque provinces of Andalusia and Valencia, as well as other regions, probably becoming autonomous states, as foreseen in the constitution.

Thus Spain has found a mode of guaranteeing states minority rights in a Europe gone nationalistic.

Courageously accepting single handed responsibility after party leaders had decided to leave things in his hands, Premier Azana spoke coldly and decisively in settling a problem Spanish kings had tackled, but were never able to solve. Facing a packed, expectant chamber, Azana said:

"The monarchy treated Catalonia as the center of infection instead of regarding it in the right manner. The failure of the monarchist government to deal with the matter showed it was fundamentally weak."

Can Collect Own Taxes.

Spain, said the premier, was at the height of her power in the 16th century, when Catalonia had much wider privileges than those included in the statute.

"The government admits in principle Catalonia's right to collect taxes," was his first manner of summing up the thorny financial problem. It is understood, however, that all financial agreements are revisable at any time.

Local questions, he said, would be relegated to Catalan authorities, but the final arbiter was the central government. The administration of justice concerning land and all appeal courts would be under the central government.

Weep with Emotion.

The statute, he concluded, would be revisable only by revision of the constitution.

FACES ALIMONY CLUB UNLESS HE PAYS ARREARS

James P. Connell, 927 Galt avenue, a former vice president of Reuben H. Donnelley & Co., publishers, was informed yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court that unless he makes a payment on the $2,350 in alimony due his wife before June 13, he will be sent to the county jail alimony club.

Attorney Benjamin H. Ehrlich, representing Mrs. Lucille Connell of San Diego, Cal., told Judge Sabath that while Connell had gone through $197,000 in the 18 months prior to his marriage, his mother is a wealthy widow and is able to pay his arrears. Attorney Leslie Donahue admitted for Connell that his client had spent the sum mentioned by Attorney Ehrlich, but stated that his mother would not be responsible for his alimony obligations. Connell has been unable to find a job since he left the Donnelley company, the attorney said, and is now remarried.

"You are a good citizen, and I don't want to send you to jail," Judge Sabath told Connell. "I am continuing the case to June 13 so you can scurry around and try to find money for a payment on account. Much as I would hate to do this, if you can't make a payment then, I'm going to have to send you to jail."

Bennett Notes Are Fascinating Book of Facts

Give Detailed Observations of Noted Author.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Journal of Arnold Bennett, 1896-1910," [Viking.] Published yesterday.

TO commemorate the 65th anniversary of the birth of Arnold Bennett, the first volume of his famous Journal was given official publication yesterday. From 1896, when he was 29 years of age, until shortly before his death last year at 64, Arnold Bennett kept a voluminous journal. Over a million words were set down in the note books which it filled. So vast an assemblage of fact and impressions did the note books contain that even after they were edited it was obvious that they must be published in at least three volumes. The first, published yesterday, contains 402 closely printed pages and ends with the Dec. 31, 1910, entry, when Arnold Bennett was 43 years of age, had already published his greatest masterpiece, "The Old Wives' Tale," and the first volume of the superb "Clayhanger" trilogy, and was at work on the second volume, "Hilda Lessways." The second and third volumes of the Journal are promised for the fall of this year and the spring of next.

ARNOLD BENNETT.

In a note signed D. C. B. [the initials of Dorothy Cheston Bennett, whose property the journals became on Arnold Bennett's death] there is a sentence: "Volume 1 of the Journals shows Arnold Bennett interested in his own mind and its development, in study and the acquisition of all sorts of knowledge. . . ."

It is for that interest that this is a fascinating, almost a clutching book. During the years recorded in it, Arnold Bennett was a terrifically hard working writer, not yet sure of himself, at times naively obsessed with the lack of financial success and an eagerness to obtain it, a passion for conventional culture which led to a course of self-imposed systematic reading, and almost incredibly methodical in his work in view of the fine writing which he turned out during the period. The last year or so of the record he had become conscious of his commercial value, his critical importance and his social charms, but during most of the time the naïve setting down of every slight encouragement of his friends and the public gives the book a charming appeal.

Before such a book the reviewer's pen—or typewriter—is muffled. What to say about it in only one column? That it is a sincere setting down, that there is in it a record of all exterior impacts of his life, most human contacts, a minute record of the amount of work he did during each period, and how he did it, a record of "scenes" and observed people as they impinged on his mind, a record of all of the reading which he did, of all the plays which he saw, the people he talked to? Or, critically, that it is entirely objective, that there is no real emotional record in the pages.

Arnold Bennett was a north countryman, schooled by generations against any show of emotion. Perhaps the objectiveness is due to that fact as much as to the age old fact, distilled [by George Eliot, I believe] in the phrase, "Happy hearts have no history." When he was passionately absorbed in anything [and one suspects anybody] the journal was neglected. Bennett deplores the fact more than once that no record has ever been set down of certain emotions as they were being experienced. "I want them for my novel," he writes. But it evidently never occurred to him thus to catch forever for the use of future novelists his own intricate emotional reactions.

But even with the lack of emotional photography, this volume of the Journal is superb. The minute observation of the social scene, of manners and man, the sense of the fictional in his contacts with life make it one of the most stimulating books that I have read. Almost every paragraph touches the reader's mind and mysteriously vivifies him intellectually.

Strangely enough, there is no creative humor in it. Written during the period when Arnold Bennett was doing some of the greatest humorous writing in the English language, the Journal might have been expected to reflect a truly humorous outlook on life. There are occasional funny stories—very funny ones—but they are quoted from others; they are not of Arnold Bennett's creation, and only once or twice does he see life as a humorous irony.

As a writer, Arnold Bennett's industry and methods were alike stupendous and amazing. Two thousand words a day was his minimum stunt, and during 1908, for instance, he wrote 423,500 words. He planned everything minutely, to the last detail, in his mind before ever he set it to paper. Not only his plots and his characters did he plan thus, but his very life. So many hours for work each day, so many words per hour, so long to write each novel or article or story or play, and almost never working over his schedule. Afternoons and evenings he read, played the piano, walked, painted, saw his friends. A life of the utmost rigidity of schedule—no false ideas of waiting for inspiration for him!

May I warn the reader not to try to gulp the Journal? It took me three days and three evenings to get through it, but after the first fifty or so pages [which are "young"] I wouldn't have skipped a word if it had taken all summer!

"Passion" Tells of Loves of Six Literary Figures

"Passion," by Robert Neumann [Harcourt Brace], details the love affairs of six of the most interesting figures in literature. Shelley's first wife is treated; the incredible affair that Strindberg had with Baroness Wrangel is included. Dostoievski's unfaithful wife and the stenographer he later married are presented. Goethe's relation with Christane Vulpius, Byron's with his sister, and Balzac's to that amazing woman, Mme. Hanska, whom he later married. The affairs indicate the peculiar flaws and virtues in the temperament of the literary genius.

Book on Clocks Excellent One for Children

Another Is Good Story on Printing.

[Director of Children's Work for Branches of the Chicago Public Library.]

"Black on White," by M. Ilin. [Lippincott.]

"What Time Is It?" by M. Ilin. [Lippincott.]

"Swallowdale," by Arthur Ransome. [Lippincott.]

"A Mile of Freedom," by Helen T. Hilles. [Macmillan.]

"The Orange Cat," by Frank Pettee. [Reilly & Lee.]

All readers, young and old, who know that very excellently presented story of Russia called "New Russia's Primer" will welcome the arrival of two equally well presented and fascinating books by this author just in time for their inclusion on vacation reading lists.

Both are informational books setting forth in clear cut, simple language the story of familiar subjects which hold a real interest for children. "What Time Is It?" tells the story of clocks and their development from the earliest crude time measuring devices to the fine timepieces of today. "Black on White" gives us in the same manner the story of books and how they came to be, beginning with the "living books," the story tellers of ancient Greece, and carrying young readers through all the various methods of communication which early peoples used to the development of the first alphabet and the coming of books as we know them.

In both volumes the author has proceeded on the assumption that young people are seriously interested in things about them and has given them a straightforward account of their development which makes extremely enjoyable reading.

With them M. Ilin demonstrates his ability to write the highest type of book for children, that which, remaining entirely within the understanding of its young readers, still commands the appreciation and interest of adults.

The books are translations from the Russian, retaining the original illustrations, and are the work of Ilia Marshak, a young engineer who is interested in bringing to the children and workers of his country simple stories of everyday life. They are, without reservation, outstanding selections for any child's library.

Other children's good times are always of interest to young vacationers, and Arthur Ransome's "Swallowdale" and Helen Train Hilles' "A Mile of Freedom" qualify for this part of the list. The first tells the story of the second summer which "The Swallows and Amazons" spend on Wild Cat island. Children who read the earlier story will enjoy meeting Titty and Susan and Roger again and will enjoy with them the thrills and misadventures which the summer brings.

It is a fine story for the stay-at-home city child who must do his adventuring vicariously. "A Mile of Freedom" is also a story of a family of children and their good times along the Maine coast.

Frank Pettee's "The Orange Cat" will appeal to any boy or girl who owns a cat. Children will share with Peter his anxiety and pride in his pet, Follie, as she attempts to find her way home from a distant part of the city, meeting with adventures galore on the way. Although the story might have seemed a more realistic one to some of us had Follie's adventures not been quite so numerous and successful, and a better one for the omission of Mrs. Diggs and her unpleasantness, it will nevertheless meet with a cordial reception from children.

'Half Seas Over' Not 'Scotch and Water,' but Has Chuckles

Half Seas Over," by Guy Gilpatric [Dodd-Mead], is not another "Scotch and Water," much as we hoped it would be. Maybe it's because Muster Glencannon, chief engineer of the rusty old Inchcliffe Castle, doesn't absorb as much Duggan's Dew o' Kirkintilloch as he did in the other volume. But the walrus mustached Scotsman apparently drinks other alcoholic concoctions just as freely, for he staggers through Mr. Gilpatric's rollicking pages with nearly if not quite the spontaneity of his former days. There are more chuckles than laughs, but in these days a chuckle's a chuckle.

New Irish Authors Win Praise

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Those who follow new directions in literature should take notice of the number of new young Irish writers who are attracting critical attention. I do not refer to such established authors as James Joyce and, of later growth, Liam O'Flaherty, but to Francis Stuart, Mary Hugh, Sean O'Faolain, and (by no means least) Frank O'Connor. Miss McHugh's first book was published last year, under the title of "Thalassa." It was a series of very beautifully written memories of childhood. Miss McHugh has now written a short book about a boy called "The Bud of the Spring." It is not powerful, but it is full of delicate perception and is written with great simplicity.

SEAN O'FAOLAIN.

Sean O'Faolain's first book of short stories came out a few weeks ago, with a preface by Edward Garnett, and has greatly impressed the critics. He has admitted in public that his masters have been the Irish writer George Moore and the Russian writer Tchekhoff, and those who admire these two writers should not fail to read Mr. O'Faolain's "Midsummer Night's Madness."

But of the four writers I have named those of whom most may be expected in the future are Mr. Stuart and Mr. O'Connor. Mr. Stuart's first book did not impress me too favorably. It was entitled "Women and God," and it was full of talking and drinking, which caused it to seem a very conventional piece of work. But Mr. Stuart has shown in a second book that he is a man of ideas and talent, and those who would make acquaintance with an imperfect but original gift should make a point of reading "Pigeon Irish." This is a picture of the future, in a day when Ireland, a republic at last, is engaged in another European war, and in its pages action is remarkably combined with mysticism.

The author's style still continues to show a debt to that of Ernest Hemingway; but in the matter of his book Mr. Stuart shows a determination to break away from the traditional and enter a new and adventurous field. He thus becomes a very significant figure in what may be a revolutionary literary movement of great importance.

Finally there is Frank O'Connor, whose book of short stories, "Guests of the Nation," made a deep impression here in the winter and whose first novel has just been published by Macmillan. This book is called "The Saint and Mary Kate." It is about a boy and a girl, the boy a very religious fellow, the girl hardly more than a child; and it is both simple and subtle in theme, very clearly written, full of emotion, and extremely striking.

Mr. O'Connor's concern is with the actual life of the present, and the scene of his book is very largely laid in a tenement house in Cork; but he is not a photographer, and his talent is so genuine that he has no need to try to impress the reader.

The new novel which is now being most highly praised and widely read in London is Miss Phyllis Bentley's "Inheritance." This is a long and spacious work, the fine flower of a talent which has long been noted as greater than the ordinary. It should be a very popular book.

DIN OF TRADING STILLED AS "PIT" HONORS WAR DEAD

Grain Mart Service Opens 4 Day Observance.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

All the clamor and din of grain bartering was stilled yesterday on the exchange floor of the Chicago Board of Trade while memorial services were held there under the auspices of the organiz ion's American Legion post. Guests of honor included William Metzger, civil war veteran, who was a member of the 72d Illinois volunteers, known as the Board of Trade regiment; Eben Matthews, patron member of the post, and Capt. William P. Wright, grand marshal for the Memorial day parade on Monday.

Armin F. Hand, director of the post's drum and bugle corps and band, arranged the musical program, which was followed by a rifle salute from a firing squad, and the sounding of "Taps" by the corps buglers. The proceedings were broadcast over radio station W-G-N by permission of James Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians.

Parade at Western Electric.

Another preliminary observance of Memorial day was held at noon yesterday at the Hawthorne works of the Western Electric company. Commander Paul Armstrong of the Cook County American Legion was the speaker on the program, which began with a parade through the grounds led by the Bell post drum and bugle corps. "Taps" was sounded at the close of the services.

Tribute was paid to the memory of Miss Anna Stock, late principal of the Corkery public school at 2510 South Kildare, yesterday in services held at the school. A tree was planted in the school yard in her memory. Miss Stock was widely known for her charity work and other interests.

In Morgan Park a bowlder inscribed with the names of boys who died in service in the world war was dedicated by the Morgan Park High school, near 111th and Vincennes.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson will be the speaker at the memorial service of Chicago Elks' lodges, at Elks' Rest, Mount Greenwood cemetery, at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Judge Justin F. McCarthy, exalted ruler, will preside, and music will be furnished by the imperial quartet.

Open Leland Exhibit.

Mementos of Abraham Lincoln, collected by the late Henry M. Leland of Detroit during his lifetime, will be placed on free exhibit today at 410 South Michigan avenue, by the Chicago Book and Art Auction, continuing until Thursday. Included are a piece from the coat worn by Lincoln when he was shot, an original broadside of the emancipation proclamation, a gold headed cane Lincoln gave his pastor, and numerous telegrams and letters.

Field museum will be open to the public on Memorial day—Monday—from 9 to 6, it was announced yesterday, because the holiday has proved so popular with Chicagoans who wish to see the latest exhibits.

Garfield Park conservatory offers a special exhibit of flowers and foliage for the holiday, especially old fashioned blooms. A variety of orchids will be included.

Assembly at Lane Technical High school yesterday afternoon was turned into a Memorial day service in honor of the 150 graduates of the school who participated in the world war. Capt. George F. Beem, a civil war veteran, and Capt. Thomas J. O'Malley, commander of Chicago Medical post of the legion, spoke. A march to the Lincoln monument in Lincoln park and back to the high school by the R. O. T. C. unit preceded the program.

CHAS. N. FOWLER, BANKING REFORM GODFATHER, DIES

Predicted Panic of 1907 While in Congress.

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Charles N. Fowler, 80 years old, for 16 years representative from the Eighth New Jersey district and godfather of many banking reforms, died today in Orange Memorial hospital. He was stricken with pneumonia four weeks ago.

For eight years he was chairman of the banking and currency committee. In 1916 he vigorously fought many of the provisions of the federal reserve system and challenged William McAdoo, when he was secretary of the treasury, to a public debate on the subject.

At that time he predicted that the federal reserve system would prove a "death warrant to the gold standard" and declared it entirely unadapted to meet the needs of American economic life, predicting that it would lead to "overwhelming disaster."

Fowler was mentioned prominently as a likely presidential candidate in 1916.

It was after the panic and business depression of 1907 that Fowler sprang into greatest prominence, and in 1908 it was he who set in motion machinery to change the nation's banking laws.

Fowler predicted the 1907 panic, and was a vehement critic of the bankers at that time, declaring that the panic was caused by inflation.

58 COMMUNISTS REPORTED NAMED IN TRUE BILLS

The grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted true bills charging rioting and unlawful assembly against fifty-eight alleged communists who fought with the police of Melrose Park on May 6. In the melée the police fired, wounding eight of the rioters in the legs.

Three of those named in true bills, it was said, are women. The evidence showing that the crowd, which numbered about 1,000, refused to disperse on police order, was given by Assistant State's Attorney Edward Spiro and Chief of Police Arthur Leeseburg and Lieut. Paul Maggio of the Melrose Park police force. It was also shown that the communists had been distributing inflammatory literature for several days before the riot.

U. S. SHIP HITS ROCKS IN CHINA; 40 ARE MISSING

SHANGHAI, May 26.—(AP)—Forty persons were missing today from the river steamer Iling of the American Yangtze Rapids Steamship company. A report to the company said the boat struck a rock 235 miles above Ichang Wednesday and sank.

J. Anderson of Brooklyn, N. Y., captain of the boat, who sent the report, was rescued. He arrived today at Chungking, 115 miles above the scene of the wreck, aboard a Chinese steamer.

One hundred members of the crew and forty passengers were aboard, Anderson said. All were believed to be Chinese. Chinese junks rescued a number of the passengers and crew, the captain said, but forty were missing and at least ten were believed to have drowned.

SCIENCE ISOLATES A SEX HORMONE IN PURE FORM

OTTAWA, Ont., May 27.—(AP)—Dr. J. B. Collip of McGill university, Montreal, announced to the Royal Society of Canada here today the isolation of a sex hormone in pure form. It was described as a great advance in the chemistry of life and was acclaimed by many biologists in attendance.

Hormones are the secretions of the ductless glands. They are health regulators and include control over sexual developments.

Dr. Collip's announcement came during his presidential address to the biological sciences section of the Royal society. He described the progress of this work which has been conducted over a period of years by a group of young scientists at McGill university, headed by himself. The hormone ordinarily comes from the placenta and is particularly valuable to women during pregnancy.

FOX RIVER GROVE CAFE BOMBED; BATTLE POLICE

Terrorists bombed the Fox River Grove café at Fox River Grove, 42 miles northwest of Chicago early this morning and escaped toward Chicago after an exchange of shots with State Highway Policeman James Bailey at Barrington road and the Northwest highway in Barrington.

Police at Fox River Grove notified him of the bombing and described the hoodlums' car as a maroon sedan. Bailey arrived in time to meet them. They refused to stop and he fired at them, hitting their car. They returned the fire. Chicago police were asked to seize them.

PHANTOM TROOPS "GO OVER TOP" AT CAMP CUSTER

Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich., May 27.—[Special.]—At dawn today the big drive to recapture Chicago from a weakened invading force started. An army of 370,000 phantom troops went over the top from their 25 mile front line west of Camp Custer, accompanied by a heavy artillery barrage and low flying attack planes.

MAJ. GEN. FRANK PARKER.

Handicapped by a lack of ammunition and other supplies, destroyed in an air raid on rail heads in Chicago, the enemy resisted at first, then fell back all along the front and finally gave way before the hammer head onslaught on the First corps, Sixth army. The enemy's retreat by noon had developed into a disorderly rout, when suddenly the command "Cease fire!" went over the communication lines of the Sixth army. The war was over.

Four hundred regular army, National Guard and reserve officers of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan deserted the desks in their tent command posts spaced out miles apart on the countryside and sought their canvas cots to get their first real sleep in four days and nights. They can sleep until 10 a. m. tomorrow, when Maj. Gen. Frank Parker will hold his critique of the command post maneuver.

Joseph Howe Eaton, Noted Canadian Shipbuilder, Dies

TORONTO, Ont., May 27.—(AP)—Joseph Howe Eaton, formerly a prominent Nova Scotia ship builder, and father of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland, O., industrialist and financier, died here early today after a brief illness. He was 84 years old. The Eaton family was given lands in the Minas basin of Nova Scotia after the expulsion of the Acadians and became one of the leading ship building families in the days of the clipper ship.

TWO SHIPS COLLIDE IN DENSE FOG; ONE SINKS; 4 DROWN, 32 SAVED

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—The steamship Grecian, bound from Boston to Norfolk, sank with a loss of four lives early today after a collision with the steamship City of Chattanooga in a dense fog off Block Island, about ten miles off the Rhode Island coast. The remaining 32 members of the Grecian's crew were rescued by the City of Chattanooga.

Ten of those rescued were injured, it was indicated in radio messages from the City of Chattanooga. The bodies of two of the four men lost were recovered.

The master of the Grecian was among those saved. None of the crew of the Chattanooga was injured, it was reported. The Grecian remained afloat only a few minutes after the impact.

GIRL WARD OF JUVENILE HOME DIES OF POISON

Genevieve Rollo, 16 years old, 7157 Rhodes avenue, a ward of the juvenile detention home, died in the county hospital yesterday from the effects of poison which she swallowed Jan. 25 while despondent over being a ward at the home. It was said that while she was in the Juvenile court in the custody of Mrs. Minnie Wiggins, a matron at the home, she asked permission to go to the lavatory and while there swallowed the poison. When she became ill she was taken to the county hospital. At the hospital she told nurses she was "tired of being a ward." An inquest will be held today at the county morgue.

W. J. Akin, Retired Steel Official, to Be Buried Today

Funeral services for William James Akin, 78 years old, 716 Judson avenue, Evanston, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the chapel in Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Akin was vice president and treasurer of the Illinois Malleable Iron company until his retirement three years ago.

FOUR MEN ROB SHOP.

Four men and a woman accomplice yesterday robbed the Ambassador dress shop, 5801 West Division street, of 400 dresses and $180 after tying the owner, Mrs. Goldie Rothman, to a couch in a rear room.

LINDBERGH READY TO TAKE STAND AGAINST CURTIS

New York, May 27.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh consented to testify as the belief gained ground today that the Hunterdon county grand jury in New Jersey had voted an indictment against John Hughes Curtis, author of the deception concerning his negotiations with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby.

Shortly after the Norfolk, Va., ship builder signed the confession of his hoax, it was officially announced that Col. Lindbergh refused to press charges against Curtis. Today, however, word came from Prosecutor Anthony Hauck, who presented the case to the Hunterdon county grand jury that the colonel had indicated his willingness to take the witness stand against Curtis should the affair come to trial. Mr. Hauck added that he had tentatively fixed the trial date for June 13 since he was confident that a true bill had been returned by the grand jury.

If tried and convicted Curtis will be subject to a fine of $1,000 and three years in prison.

Besides Col. Lindbergh two additional prospective witnesses suggested by Mr. Hauck are Dean Dobson-Peacock and Admiral Guy H. Burrage, who were associated with Curtis in the alleged negotiations with the kidnapers.

Woman Robbed of $500 Fears to Notify Police

Last Monday two gunmen entered the home of Mrs. Violet Michalowicz at 2433 North Marshfield avenue and robbed her of $500. "Don't report this to police until five days have passed or we'll come back and kill you," they warned before departing. But last night Mrs. Michalowicz defied the warning. She notified police. She had decided not to wait until today, which would have been the fifth day.

SUICIDE LEAVES $110,000 TO HIS WIFE AND SONS

Gilbert M. Smith, 45 years old, who wrote in a suicide note that he was doing his family "a favor," carried $110,000 in life insurance, it was revealed yesterday at the inquest into his death. Smith, an agent for the New York Life Insurance company, shot and killed himself Thursday in his home at 1615 Ashland avenue, Evanston.

"You can now meet the $2,000 payment on the mortgage and the crushing bills," his suicide note stated. Attorney Clinton Merrick, a friend, testified that he believed Smith had become temporarily insane through constant worry over financial affairs.

Smith was a Yale graduate, a member of the Adventurers' club, the University club, and the Evanston Country club. He is survived by his widow, Bessie, and three sons, Gilbert Jr., 20 years old; Bruce, 16, and Douglas, 14.

Robber Binds Maid, Loots Home of Packing Official

A robber forced his way into the home of Paul Foster Lilly, 11642 South Artesian avenue, yesterday, and bound the housemaid, Audrey Montenas, who was alone. He ransacked the house, but the maid was unable to tell the amount of the loot when she summoned police after his departure. Lilly is superintendent of the Roberts & Oake Packing company.

WCFL GRANTED FULL TIME BY U. S. RADIO BOARD

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—The Chicago Federation of Labor's six year fight for increased radio facilities was settled today by the federal radio commission with the granting to station WCFL of a full time assignment along with an increase in power from 1,500 to 5,000 watts.

It is understood that the Chicago federation and organized labor generally will now abandon their campaign before the commission and congress for a clear channel with the maximum power of 50,000 watts. There now is pending before a senate committee a bill which would command the radio commission to assign to organized labor such an exclusive facility. That legislation will not be pressed.

Action was taken by the commission in approving an application filed by WCFL only 10 days ago. Heretofore the station has been licensed to operate limited time with 1,500 watts power on the 970 kilocycle clear channel assigned regularly to station KJR, Seattle, licensed to Northwest Broadcasting company, the stock of which some months ago was taken over by the National Broadcasting company. The Seattle station operates with 5,000 watts.

A. C. Fischer, 82, Dies on Train from Waukegan

A. C. Fischer, 82 years old, of Waukegan, died yesterday of heart disease on the North Western railroad suburban train on which he had ridden to work in Chicago for many years. He had been secretary and treasurer of the Price Flavoring Extract company, 237 East Superior street, for 48 years. His widow and two sons, Russell of Hubbard Woods and V. C. Fischer of Waukegan, survive. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. today at the residence. Burial will be in Waukegan.

Summer Fashions

Flowers Are One Feature of Fashion Show

Summer Styles Displayed at I. W. A. C.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Flowers that have learned all sorts of smart tricks for summer festivities turned the style promenade at the Illinois Women's Athletic club last night into a veritable floral fashion show. Every new pose of the posies swerved away from the stereotyped and kept the crowd of several hundred clapping as the attractive young club member models strolled through the main dining room and adjoining ballroom.

Casual little nosegays of stiff beige blossoms set off the Irish green flat crêpe ensemble worn by Mrs. George R. Horning of the Edgewater Beach hotel. One appeared on the lower edge of the jacket and another on the shoulder near the looped tie. The jacket had three-quarter length sleeves banded in platinum fox. The dress simulated the suspender mode, but had its ecru lace blouse firmly attached to the shoulder straps. Her hat of green straw had a beige and green band.

Big full blown roses nestled against the sable scarf Ruth Keenum wore with an afternoon dress of chartreuse taffeta crêpe, matching the flowers on her close fitting straw turban. The dress was closely belted and featured full length wide sleeves.

Mrs. Robert A. Leitz, chairman of the show, wore a gay shoulder spray of lavender orchids, bound in silk on a single stem, against her black chiffon and lace gown. Helen Rohde modeled a lemon colored satin formal gown, with a straight long cluster of tiny pink buds on either hip.

Eleanor Donnelian displayed a mammoth fan formed of pink and blue sweet peas, larkspur, and other flowers, in contrast to her décolleté gown of pale green silk lace over chiffon. Dorothea Marble, who showed a rose beige crêpe evening dress, with a cowl neckline and long fitted skirt, wore a slender streamer of crabapple blossoms, caught on her left shoulder and brought down the V line of her gown in the back over the right hip.

One of the new summer formal outfits for men, closely copying the white monkey jacket that is correct in the tropics, was shown by Carl Andren. Black trousers and a wide, pleated black satin belt complete the outfit.

Joseph Schildkraut Weds London Woman in Vienna

VIENNA, May 27.—Joseph Schildkraut, film and stage star of Hollywood and Vienna, and Mary Mackey of London were married today in Vienna's City hall. One of the witnesses was John William Scott, American vice consul. After their wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Schildkraut will go to Hollywood, probably sometime in the fall.

Cecilia Loftus Appears Again in Imitations

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Cecilia Loftus' special matinée program in the Selwyn theater yesterday brought back the "Cissie" Loftus of thirty years ago—a unique and extraordinary genius in the art of imitations and character impressions. The veteran actress—a charming picture of surviving youthfulness in a coiffure like a white chrysanthemum—delighted and amazed her audience with an extensive repertory of brilliant impersonations.

Her gift for reproducing the voices of her subjects is almost uncanny. She brought Mrs. Fiske to life in a scene from "Contrary Mary" so accurately that if one closed his eyes a moment and merely listened it seemed as if a miracle were being wrought. This was the strange, familiar stage diction of Mrs. Fiske; not an imitation, but a reproduction. This was also the case when Miss Loftus appeared in costume as Mme. Bernhardt in a scene from "Izeyl;" the Divine Sarah came out of the shadows to weave her spell of lyric melodrama.

As Harry Lauder, singing "Roamin' in the Gloamin'," Miss Loftus created the chuckling joviality of the merry Scot so happily that the audience clamored for encores. Ethel Barrymore in the last act speech of "The Kingdom of God" and Jeanne Eagels defying the Rev. Davidson in "Rain" were other high lights among the many striking numbers.

The versatility of this brilliant actress in the specialty in which she won world fame will be suggested by a listing of her various selections. In addition to those already mentioned, the program included:

A duet between typical musical comedy singers; Fannie Brice in "Mrs. Cohen at the Beach"; Beatrice Lillie in "March with Me"; Noel Coward, introducing a ballet; Mlle. Spinelly in "A Lesson in French"; Alice Delysia in "J'en ai Marre"; John McCormack in "A Persian Garden"; Ada Rehan in a speech from "Twelfth Night"; Nora Bayes in "My Sweetie Goes"; Hal Phyfe in Scotch stories; the Duncan Sisters in "Topsy and Eva"; a sketch called "Reggie in the Tramcar"; Yvette Guilbert in "Les Cloches de Nantes"; Ruth Draper in "Three Generations," and Florence Reed in "The Shanghai Gesture."

The success of the program suggested that Miss Loftus can have a supplementary career as "Cissie" the mimic, if she chooses. Properly managed, she can easily become a star personality of the recital stage and a successor to Ruth Draper's place in that field of entertainment.

Alice Mock, coloratura soprano of opera experience, assisted Miss Loftus with groups of French and English songs, pleasantly interpreted.

Beach Outfits Go for Color in a Big Way

Small Swim Suits Are Bright, Chic.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

YOU can go as far as you like for water, for beaches, and in the collecting of beach clothes. There isn't even a three mile limit beyond the blue horizon to restrain modern mermaids from wrapping themselves in some of the gawdiest swimming suits and new beach clothes that the lounging beach lizards can and will wise-crack about.

The new swimming stuff is here at last, but it was worth waiting for . . . some eye-smashing beach pajamas alone will make history this summer . . . and how the new pajamas wrap themselves tightly around these fresh water sprites!

Pictures of ancient water babies with yards of depressing looking purple-blue serge trimmed with ladylike white tape and the abjectly decorous, perfectly awful looking bloomers which would sink from sheer shame are centuries removed from the daring, dashing affairs which we wear now when we go out to sea and to be seen.

In spite of city fathers and unapproving snoopers, we still get into hot or cold water with suits that are scant scraps of burning color. They must have been designed so as to help the lifesavers locate us, for these brilliant tones still scream loudly for attention long after they have been water soaked.

And while 1932 bathing beaches will be a seething mass of toasting legs and arms and backs, Old Lady Grundy can be squelched by those who shiver at her approach by the clever detachable skirts that are in many instances sold with the few inches and straps that make the swim suits today.

And for the gal who can't and won't brown like a butternut, some understanding soul invented the beach robe which is smarter than a lot of chic street dresses . . . these are soft and spongy and will do the soaking up work for half a dozen towels. Bright raspberry color, a good eye-opening shade of orange, cobalt blue, and rather a bilious green fight for front lines with similar robes of white, but, of course, white will always be worn by all the crisply sun tanned cohorts that know only too well the stunning effect of white as contrast to biscuit brown anatomies.

Beach hats are as big as tent tops . . . the critical bench warmer will wonder where the cartwheel hats are going with the gals . . . you'll feel like you were carrying all the straw supply in the world on the top of your head, but no knowing beach bug thinks of being without one.

At last something has been done about rubber caps. Some one with imagination and a good sense of color and appropriateness has gone about designing some knockouts . . . tight little tops of rubber, still, but with a grand difference . . . they trim them now just like an imported turban . . . they take two or three contrasting colored rubber strips and swathe them as engagingly around your skull as they twist silk and satin and velvet . . . others look like tight curls of your own hair just after you leave the hands of your pet hair dresser . . . and the new tam affairs of crinkly looking white rubber with a halo of braided tri-colored rubber is good looking enough to wear on the street!

Some of the newest beach lounging pajamas are made of seersucker in blue and black and white narrow stripes . . . these look alarmingly workmanlike, all you need is the much cartooned full tin dinner pail to look like a good, well paid mechanic. Other pajamas are put together like a jester's motley . . . black and white, red and white, and even orange and white . . . the materials look like linen crash and are cool and airy despite their sizzling shades.

A New Beach Outfit

Prof. J. T. Hatfield Honored by Faculty of Northwestern U.

President Walter Dill Scott and members of the faculty of Northwestern university honored Prof. James Taft Hatfield at a dinner last night in the Georgian hotel in Evanston.

The professor, who is in the German language and literature department, will be 70 years old June 15 and the dinner was in celebration of that anniversary. Prof. Hatfield was graduated from Northwestern in 1883, and has been on the faculty there for forty-one years. In a plaque the faculty memorialized his long association.

German Film Tells Story of Sad Princess

"ELISABETH VON OESTERREICH."
Produced by Tobis.
Directed by Adolf Trotz.
Presented at the Cinema theater.
By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Lil Dagover is a fascinating person. She has a world of charm and is, besides, a versatile, polished, and intuitive actress. Her beautiful performance in the title rôle is the main reason for seeing the Cinema's latest German offering.

This film, which was made just before the star's recent descent on Hollywood, tells the tragic story of the young Bavarian princess, Elisabeth, who became empress of Austria through her marriage to Franz Josef. She got along with her husband all right, it seems, but the queen mother could see no good in the lovely, volatile daughter-in-law and made the latter miserable by her criticisms and restrictions.

Elisabeth is on the point of complete rebellion when she learns that she is to have a child. This knowledge calms her and she hopes for happier days after the baby's birth. But no . . .!

Court custom demands that her son be reared away from her. Don't ask me why because I don't know. She loses all love for Franz Josef and is in such a state of nerves that she's ordered away by the doctors to the Bavarian Alps. Here she meets again her cousin, King Ludwig of Bavaria, with whom in earlier days she had had some romantic episodes. . . . She enjoys him for a time, but, of course, she must go back to her people. . . .

The crown prince grows up and falls in love with a girl he cannot marry. When ordered to wed the Princess Stefanie of Belgium he keeps tryst with his beloved and together they fulfill a suicide pact.

If unfamiliar with German this film will not be easy for you to follow. There are no English subtitles and the program contains no synopsis. (Before me IS one which the management dug up somewhere.)

Staging and costumes are magnificent and authentic and the scenery is gorgeous. The film was photographed, one is informed, in the royal palace at Vienna and in the Bavarian Alps. All of the acting is splendid.

You will, however, be confused by the aging of Franz Josef and the apparently perennial youth of Elisabeth. Directorial slip-up here.

The Cinema is unfortunate in having a poor copy of the film—or else projection was terribly at fault the day I visited the theater. Sound, too, on that occasion was jerky and generally poor.

Junior League Conference Ends with Plea Against Expansion

New President Urges Harder Work by Present Members of Local Organizations.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT won't be such a simple matter to "make" the Junior league from now on if the local leagues heed the suggestion of Mrs. John G. Pratt of New Orleans, who was made the new president of the Association of Junior Leagues of the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Hawaii at the closing sessions of the twelfth annual league convention yesterday at Los Angeles. Requirements for league membership have always been rigid, but in the future the debutantes on the probation list will probably have to work harder than ever to attain a place in the organization.

The annual reports, which were read yesterday and which will be relayed to all the local leagues when their delegates return from California, stressed the movement toward conservatism on membership increase. In her key speech Mrs. Pratt, who has for some time emphasized the importance of limiting expansion, urged that every present member of the leagues be put to useful activity rather than work in the direction of larger membership.

The 1933 convention will be held in Philadelphia. The Chicago delegates, Miss Margot Atkin, president, and Miss Dorothy Schmidt, who preceded Miss Atkin in the presiding office, will visit friends in Santa Barbara and Pasadena before returning around the middle of June.

Mrs. Alfred Taylor of Glencoe and Mrs. William Stahl of Evanston, who were sent to represent the Evanston league, are also going to remain on the coast for a fortnight before coming eastward.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry yesterday announced the engagement of their daughter, Pauline, to Harold Mason Kneedler, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold D. Kneedler of Manila, P. I. The wedding will take place next autumn, probably in October. Miss Perry, who made her debut last winter, attended school in Farmington and in Lausanne, Switzerland. It was while Miss Perry was coming home from Switzerland about four years ago that she and Mr. Kneedler met. He visited her here during the Christmas holidays in 1929.

Many Events at Country Clubs.

The long week-end makes it possible for unusual activity at the country clubs and all those who can are taking advantage of the fact that Memorial day falls this year on Monday and are going to the country for the three-day holiday. Most of the clubs are having their formal openings today, some with dinner dances and others with no social events, just golf for the men. Women and children, you know, aren't considered much around a country club on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays!

The Chicago Golf club at Wheaton will have the usual Saturday and Sunday golf events, but on Monday there will be a tournament for the John B. Murphy Memorial hospital cup which was donated in 1924 by members of the late doctor's family, including the former Mildred Murphy, now Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr., who lives in Wheaton not far from the club; Mrs. Julius T. Benedict [Cecille Murphy] of Chicago, and the former Celeste Murphy, now Mrs. René Le Grosi of Great Neck, L. I. There is to be a dinner dance tonight and among those who will give parties are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walker, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Pardridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Fox.

No dinner dance has been planned to take place at the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest tonight or Monday night, but there are golf events galore planned, including medal play for the President's cup on Monday and a tournament for the George Alexander McKinlock Jr. Memorial cup, donated by Mr. and Mrs. McKinlock Sr., to be played for on the afternoon of Memorial day each year.

The competition is open to all members in the armed forces of the allies during the world's war and the name of the winner each year is inscribed on the cup and he receives a miniature cup as a permanent possession.

The Onwentsia goblet also is being played for on Monday, but all contestants for this must be 35 years old or over. The restaurant opens today, but the first dancing at the club will be on Thursday, June 9, when the first mixed foursome and buffet supper of the season will be held.

Knollwood Club Pool to Open.

The swimming pool at the Knollwood club, west of Lake Forest, will be ready for use today, but unless the weather is much warmer than it was yesterday I doubt if there will be any brave souls who will take advantage of it. I am told, however, that last year when the pool was opened the temperature of the water was only 50 and that a few intrepid ones ventured in for a brisk swim, so perhaps it will be the same this year.

There is to be dancing at the pool Monday afternoon and from now on these afternoon dances will be continued on Saturdays, commencing next week, and on alternate Thursdays, commencing June 9, and on alternate Wednesdays starting June 15. Mr. and Mrs. W. David Owen, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Malloy, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Castle and Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Morse will be among those entertaining guests at tonight's dinner dance which will be the formal opening for the season of the club.

The men's golf tournaments for the season start on Memorial day, the outstanding events for that day being the greens trophy and club handicap tournaments. The first group horseback ride of the season will be on Monday, leaving the stables at 10 o'clock and returning to the clubhouse for luncheon.

The Shoreacres Golf club, at Lake Bluff, will have the usual week-end golfing events, but nothing special, for Memorial day, and no extra social activities are planned for this club.

The Milburn Hunt club is to have its opening for the season tomorrow, but there is nothing planned but a simple picnic luncheon to mark the occasion. As Austin Niblack, one of the moving spirits of this exclusive and small hunt club, said, "We want to be as quiet and unostentatious as possible this year. Anything else is bad form."

The dinner and dance to open the season at the Exmoor Country club will not be given until next Saturday night, but there will be golf today and on Monday at this popular Highland Park club.

The Indian Hill club in Winnetka will have its first dinner-dance of the season tonight and golf events today and on Monday. Miss Ruth Matz, Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Pearse, and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Jenner will be among those entertaining guests at tonight's party.

Formal Opening of Glenview Club.

The Glenview Golf club at Golf is another club which is having its formal opening with a dinner dance tonight and golf events today and on Monday. Frank R. Elliott, the president, and Sidney S. Gorham will be among the dinner hosts. Dancing will take place on the outdoor terrace if the weather permits.

Out northwest in Barrington there will be golf events today and on Monday at the Barrington Hills Country club and a dinner dance tonight to mark the formal opening for the season. Some of those who will entertain tonight are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whiting, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence G. Hallberg, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hughes, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Cardwell. Many of those who have houses near Barrington will have house guests for the week-end, but the Fowler McCormicks, two of the newest members of the Barrington colony, expect to spend a quiet week-end resting after their strenuous period of getting settled in their new house.

Gay red, white and blue folders announced the South Shore Country club's entertainment committee's plans for this week-end. The outdoor dancing pavilion will be opened tonight with a dinner dance and there will be a special Memorial day dinner on Monday night, followed by dancing in the pavilion. A two ball foursome golf event and the Memorial day men's doubles tennis tournament will be held today and there will be several golf tournaments on Monday.

By the way, the South Shore club is planning a regular old fashioned celebration of American Derby day on June 18 at Washington Park. Members will leave by bus at 10 o'clock in the morning and go to the forest preserve for a picnic lunch before the races begin. After the races they'll all return by buses to the club for dinner and an American Derby ball in the outdoor pavilion.

Dance to Open Flossmoor Club.

Flossmoor Country club, which attracts so many south siders every week-end during the summer, will hold its formal summer opening at a dinner dance this evening. Reservations for large parties of guests have been made by Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas S. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Harper, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Defebaugh. There will be golf tournaments over the week-end.

Sudden Love

By
ELISABETH SANXAY HOLDING

SYNOPSIS.

Esmee Sully spends her forlorn young life between the office, where she is an inefficient typist, and a dismal home. Mrs. Sully loves her three children blindly, but doesn't know how to take care of their spiritual or physical needs. Cynthia, the oldest, has been deserted by her husband. Lew, a year older than Esmee, has gotten into serious trouble. Esmee can barely remember the days before her father's death when they had had a cheerful home. Jimmy Considine forces Lew to introduce him to Esmee. Lew warns Esmee she'll make trouble unless she keeps away from Jimmy. She is fascinated by Jimmy's grand manner, but finds him an unmanageable lover. Lew gets in a jam and asks Esmee to get him money. She's afraid to ask Jimmy. She meets Arthur Twining at the home of a former woman employer. He is attentive to Esmee, impressed by her beauty and guilelessness. In her anguish she tells him her troubles and he offers to help. Arthur's roommate is Michael Marriott, a dissipated young playwright, imbued with the futility of life. When Esmee meets him it's love at first sight. Esmee understands his need of her is real. Jimmy finds the money which Twining has loaned Esmee in her possession and threatens trouble. Esmee has a dinner engagement with Michael. Jimmy meets her as she leaves her office, and she promises to drive with him to the country the following Sunday. When Esmee gets to Michael's apartment she is met by Twining and a Mrs. Cowley, but no Michael. She has dinner with them, and when she returns home finds Michael waiting there for her. He has been drinking heavily, and Esmee takes him home in a cab.

INSTALLMENT XII.

CRUSHING ANXIETIES.

Esmee wept as if her heart would break. She loved Michael, and she wanted their love to be a glorious thing, and it was what it was.

When the cab stopped before his apartment house Marriott did not wake, and she got out to fetch Twining to help her. She rang the bell, rang and rang, kept her finger on it. No one could have slept through that. But no one came to the door.

She went back to the cab and shook Marriott until he opened his eyes.

"Michael! Give me your key!"

"No key . . ." he murmured. "Always forget key."

She sat down beside him, because her knees felt weak.

"Michael! Michael, you've got to answer me! Have you any money?"

He fumbled for his wallet. She reached in his breast pocket and took it out, turned on the light inside the cab to see what was there. She found an amount of money that surprised her, ten dollar bills, twenties.

"But I don't know . . ." she said to herself.

The taxi driver sat solid as a rock, paying no attention to what went on inside his cab.

"I'd like to have a little cottage in the country."

"I don't know where to take him," she thought. "They wouldn't let him into a good hotel, without any luggage, and the way he is . . ."

All she knew were the names of the big hotels, the Ritz, the Pennsylvania — she had never been in there, or in any other hotel, except the one where Cynthia and her husband had lived during their few months in married life.

"I'll have to try that," she thought, and gave the driver the address.

It was a dingy enough place in the West Seventies. She shook Michael again.

"You've got to wake up," she said. "Michael! Michael! dear. Please pull yourself together!"

He made a desperate effort; he got out of the cab and stood holding her arm while she paid the driver from the money in his wallet.

"I can't leave him," she thought.

They entered the lounge, and she left him sitting in an arm chair while she went up to the desk.

"I—can't . . ." she thought.

But she could. She must.

"My husband and I are locked out of our apartment," she said, in her clear, little voice. "We've lost the key. Can you give us a room here for the night?"

The clerk looked at her. She knew very well what he was thinking, but she did not [illegible] She felt no embarrassment, no shame, only a dogged resolution to [illegible] problem.

"My sister [illegible] her husband lived here for three months," she said. "Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]ward Porter."

"O, yes!" said the clerk. "I remember Mrs. Porter. I can give you a double room and bath—eight dollars, please. Sign here."

She showed no hesitation. She paid the money and signed the register —"Mr. and Mrs. Michaels, New York City."

It was a big room, neat enough, yet somehow tawdry and dreadful to her. By the glaring light of the overhead chandelier Michael looked white as a ghost, his eyes heavy, his dark hair damp on his forehead. She made him lie down on one of the beds. She loosened his collar and took off his shoes and his coat, and he was asleep at once.

She slipped off her dress, and turned out the light, groped her way to the window and opened it. She could see glittering sky-signs, a twinkling multitude of light; she could hear taxis and cars in the street below, and the rumble of the elevated. The night air blew cool in her face; she stood there, bare-armed, in her flimsy little pink silk slip, her tears dried now.

"I'd like to have a little cottage in the country," she thought. "Everything nice and clean . . . And an Irish terrier . . ."

It was growing cool. She spread a blanket over Michael and lay down on the other bed. And it seemed to her that nothing, nothing that could ever happen would compensate her for this. That she should love Michael so and that they should be here together, like this.

She fell asleep before long, and waked with a start. The room was filled with a pallid, gray light. Looking out of the window she saw the early morning world astir. Three young mechanics went by. They put her in mind of Lew, and made her heart ache.

Michael was sleeping still, lying on his back with one arm over his head. He looked pale, weary, very young, and somehow his dark, handsome face had a look of pain that ennobled it. It seemed to her that he was not weak, only lost.

She went, barefooted, into the bathroom. Turning on the light, she looked at herself in the mirror, and was surprised, almost shocked to find her face as young, as softly colored, as fresh as ever.

She had a bath, enjoying the hot water, the perfumed soap; then she dressed, combed her hair with a little pocket comb, and once more stood looking down at Michael. His wrist watch was still going; she saw that it was nearly eight.

She thought for a time, earnestly. Then in his coat pocket she found a fountain pen, and sitting down at the desk, she wrote on the hotel note paper in her schoolgirl hand:

"Dear Michael:

"I have to go to the office now, and I hated to wake you up. Please telephone to me when you wake up, and tell me how you are.

"With love from Esmee.

"P. S.—Dear, I have borrowed a dollar from you for my breakfast. I paid for the room and the taxi out of your money."

Then she put on her hat and coat, gave him a light, quick kiss on the temple, and went out, closing the door softly behind her.

"What's the trouble, Miss Sully?" asked Miss Bartram sharply. "A late night? You don't seem to be awake yet."

"If she knew where I'd been," thought Esmee, "I suppose she'd think I was—horrible. But I don't care what she thinks, or what she says."

There were only two things she could care about this morning. One was to hear Michael's voice on the telephone, and the other was to make her peace with Lew.

"Lew can't think like that about me," she said to herself. "He can't, in his heart . . . Michael never would. He'd always understand me."

But Michael, whom she loved so, was so broken a reed, and she, who longed so for comfort and assurance, had instead to give solace without measure. Her shoulders were young and fragile for the burden laid upon them, but she never once thought of repudiating it.

All morning she waited to be called to the telephone.

"He hasn't waked up yet," she told herself, and tried to dismiss from her mind the anxieties that came in little stabs of fear. Suppose he were ill? Suppose he had drunk something poisonous? Suppose, after she had left him there, helpless, some one had stolen into the room and robbed him —shot him?

"That's silly!" she cried to herself.

But she could believe anything, because he was infinitely dear to her.

At lunch time, she contemplated ringing up the hotel. And then for the first time, another thought came to her. What if Michael despised her for going there with him?

"He wouldn't! I know he wouldn't!" she thought.

But she could not forget that Lew, who had known her all her life, thought so ill of her, and that Jimmy, who said he loved her, loved her with contempt.

"Not Michael . . . He'd understand."

Nevertheless, her hand trembled as she took down the receiver in a booth, her voice was unsteady when she asked for the number.

"He's still asleep," she told herself.

In a moment she would hear his voice, and all these miseries would vanish.

"Mr. Michaels, please, in six hundred and eight."

"You mean he's—gone?"

"Checked out at ten-thirty," said the brisk voice.

She hung up the receiver, feeling stunned.

"Then he left two hours ago, and he hasn't rung me up . . . But two hours isn't anything . . . Maybe he didn't feel well . . ."

And may be had forgotten, and maybe he hadn't wanted to speak to her.

Chimpanzees New Rage in Movie Pets

Gary Cooper's Ape Starts a Film Cycle.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 27.—Chimpanzees are the current Hollywood rage in pets since Gary Cooper brought his 2 year old lady chimpanzee back from Africa with him.

Gary has bought his little ape a skirt and other feminine frills, and the pet has become so style-minded that Gary is afraid she will die of heart failure if any of his other pals try the same sort of a practical joke that one fellow did, who tried to make the chimpanzee believe he was going to take her skirt away from her.

Douglas Fairbanks borrowed a chimpanzee from a local zoo one night this week and took it to his home as one of the guests of honor at an evening dinner party he and Mary Pickford were giving. Douglas also ran off a private showing of a monkey picture for the guests at the same time. He himself has adopted a little Simian named Ga-Ga, which sometimes even visits the studio with Doug.

One wit remarked that the change in popularity from wire haired terriers to monkeys occurred after Emil Jannings left Hollywood and the Marx brothers arrived.

Permanent closing of the old Christie comedy studios today removed one more old Hollywood landmark. The Christie brothers, Charlie and Al, have ordered liquidation and made assignment for their creditors. Their combined assets of the Christie Film company, Metropolitan studios, and Christie Realty company recently were estimated between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 and the liabilities approximately $2,500,000. The Christies produced the first film made in Hollywood more than 20 years ago.

Nancy Carroll, who recently made her peace with Paramount and rejoined the pay roll, has been lent by the studio which built her to stardom. She will play a role equal in importance with Virginia Bruce [Jack Gilbert's announced new fiancée] opposite Douglas Fairbanks Jr. in the Warner-First National film, "Revolt."

Illinae Club Luncheon Will Hear Chase Today

The Chicago Illinae club will hold its 30th annual spring luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today in the Wedgewood room at Marshall Field & Co. Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, president of the University of Illinois, will be the speaker. Mrs. A. M. Houser Jr. of Oak Park is president of the club. Mrs. R. E. Kennedy is chairman of the committee in charge of the luncheon.

Junior League Gets Warning on Expansion

New President Appeals for High Standard.

eess of the innovation in flower shows which their president, Mrs. Henry Faurot, introduced last Wednesday afternoon. Instead of holding a flower show in one spot, Mrs. Faurot and the club members had a flower day all over Riverside, and a sort of chain party from house to house.

The guests, who represented 48 garden clubs of the Chicago area, assembled at Mrs. Faurot's residence, where they inspected flower arrangements and table settings in the dining room, sunroom and terrace and then visited her garden. The tables were arranged by the hostess and by members of her club and by Mrs. John J. Mitchell, who set a table with appointments brought out in her car from Chicago.

From Mrs. Faurot's house the guests proceeded to enjoy more indoor and outdoor flower shows at the residences of Mrs. Fred Babson, Mrs. Schuyler Coe, Mrs. Nelson Willard, Mrs. Spencer Fuller, Mrs. Mable Johnson Fuller, Mrs. Walter Hellyer, Mrs. E. C. Hoefer and Mrs. T. C. Blayney. The afternoon ended at the house of Mrs. Henry Babson, who was hostess at a tea for the visitors.

The party, which brought representatives from the north, west and south sides of Chicago was one of the most interesting ever given in garden club circles and no doubt other clubs will adopt the idea of holding open house all over the communities which their members help to beautify.

Lighthouse Group Elects Officers.

Mrs. Oliver Perry Kline has been elected to succeed Mrs. Stanley Morrill as president of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind. Other new officers are Mrs. Marshall Keig and Mrs. Harold E. Foreman, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. B. Botsford Young, recording secretary; Mrs. Taylor Strawn, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Shedd, treasurer; Mrs. Stanley Morrill, assistant treasurer. Besides the officers, the directors of the Lighthouse include Mrs. James C. Ames, Mrs. Albert J. Bigler, Mrs. Franklin G. Clement, Mrs. E. H. Gardiner, Mrs. Ralph C. Otis, Mrs. Charles C. Renshaw, Mrs. J. Glen Sample, Mrs. Charles B. Weber, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Mrs. Everett L. Wyman, and Mrs. Edwin S. Rosenbaum.

William A. Alexander, Sewell L. Avery, Alfred T. Carton, Irving S. Florsheim, De Forest Hulburd, Peter J. Peel, Clayton Mark, James Ward Thorne, and William F. Whitman are members of the board of advisers.

Mrs. Francis Eugene Heyer of Tarrington, Conn., announces the marriage on April 16 of her daughter, Elizabeth Mertz, to Lawrence Hallberg Rankin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas Rankin of Hartford, Conn., and grandson of the late Lawrence G. Hallberg, Chicago architect, and Mrs. Hallberg of the Drake Towers.

Miss Julie R. Adams of the Pearson hotel will sail next Friday to spend the summer in England, Ireland, and France.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Wheeler of 1120 Lake Shore drive have opened their residence at Hot Springs, Va., for the summer. The house, we're told, is built on a site surveyed by Lieut. George Washington and occupied as an Indian outpost during the pre-revolutionary days. It is situated a quarter of a mile up a steep hill and commands a panoramic view of many miles.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hicks of Winnetka announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Ethel, to Robert Study, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Study of Muncie, Ind., to take place on Saturday evening, June 18, at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Chicago. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Belden Stratford hotel. The bride will be graduated on June 13 from Northwestern university. Mr. Study is a graduate of Indiana university. They will motor west on their honeymoon.

About Town on Roller Skates

We told you the other day about Mrs. Frederick Hauck's novel way of getting about on the near north side near her residence at 152 East Superior street, but we did not know then that we would be lucky enough to have our photographer literally bump into her on Michigan avenue, near Superior street, yesterday morning, roller skates, dog, and all! Mrs. Hauck, the former Janet Chase, and Pas de Loup, who also answers to the name of "Shippewolf," were going quite fast down the avenue when this picture was snapped, the dog running and Mrs. Hauck coasting. ## WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 27.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Stimson left this afternoon for his home, High Hold, on Long Island where Mrs. Stimson went several days ago. Secretary and Mrs. Stimson will remain over the holiday.

Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Wilbur will go to the cabinet camp adjoining that of President Hoover in Virginia to remain over the holiday.

Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde were honor guests at dinner this evening of the general counsel for the federal farm board and Mrs. Stanley F. Reed who entertained at the Mayflower in compliment to a former member of the board, Charles T. Teague and Mrs. Teague of Santa Barbara, Cal., who are at the Mayflower for a few days. Others in the company were members of the farm board.

Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, wife of the secretary of the treasury, and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Fell, left this morning for Woodmont, their Long Island home, and will be joined by the secretary tomorrow to remain over Memorial day.

Do Kisses Add to Popularity? Asks This Girl

She's in Doubt About the Situation.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I would appreciate very much if you would give us girls your views on the kissing situation. I'm not for kissing boys on the first date, second or third for that matter. But is it necessary to receive an engagement ring before you give the first kiss?

"Suppose a girl about 20 sees a boy once a week and doesn't consider him a steady. How should she handle the situation? This girl has been seeing the boy once a week for six months.

"EME."

My views on the kissing question are not nearly so important as the boy's attitude toward it. So, I would suggest that you girls do a little "inquiring reporter" feature on your own. I have never found young men hesitant about expressing their views on the subject. And while I find them "broader minded" as a rule than men of an older generation, still I am always rather amused at the conventionalism expressed—where the favorite girl is concerned.

Their so-called broadmindedness applies to modern girls as a group. The individual girl—the favorite one—is isolated from this group, so to speak. "She's different," as the boys tell it. Incidentally, there's a great art of pleasing in the illusion lent of being different. All men fall for it.

True, the commonness of the kissing practice nowadays automatically removes it from its place in the old romantic school of expression. So much so that one is surprised that there are girls left who feel the urge to reserve for the fiancé a first kiss. Young men really wanting something different in girls might do a little investigating of this phase. It ought to furnish a grand, wholesome kick to learn you were the first favored.

Still, I'm not setting myself up as authority on a ruling that one must wait for the engagement ring before a kiss can be bestowed. I would argue, though, that when a man gets around to seeing marriage in a promising light he becomes pretty serious and pretty conventional about the girl. He does not want her a mauled and manhandled exhibit. He doesn't want to hear even about one other man having kissed her, which means something in male psychology.

Kissing is one of those things, I guess, which, if you must do, you must do judiciously. And you'd better ask the boys just what judicious kissing means as applied to the girl they like best.

Every marketing housekeeper has been watching strawberries this month as they've come rocketing down in price and have coaxed to be taken home and offered, scarlet and luscious, as sure cures for spring fever. And certainly it doesn't take much coaxing, for there are countless delightful ways in which strawberries can do the fillip act to our palates—and keep the grocery bill complacently low!

For instance, there's a strawberry biscuit roll-up I wonder if you have among your list of friends? It's a simple little stunt. Merely prepare a batch of baking powder biscuit dough, using a fairly rich recipe. Roll this out to about a fourth-inch thickness and cut in four inch squares. Now place in the center of each square a generous tablespoonful of cut, sweetened, and drained strawberries. Sprinkle with a little extra sugar and bring the corners of the biscuit square up around the fruit. Pinch together firmly at the top and brush with melted butter. Place the little dumplings in a hot oven [380 degrees F.] and bake until crisp and well browned.

And have you tried strawberry omelet? It's a real economy dish with eggs and strawberries both so low. Here's how:

STRAWBERRY OMELET.
6 eggs.
4 tablespoons milk or cream.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 pint strawberries.
¼ cup sugar.

Hull and wash the strawberries. Cut in halves or fourths, but do not crush. Add the sugar and allow to stand covered three hours, or even over night. Beat the eggs and stir in the milk, salt, and one-half teaspoon of sugar. When well mixed, pour into a hot skillet in which the fat has been melted. With a spatula, raise the edges of the omelet as it cooks, allowing the uncooked mixture to run under the cooked layer. When the omelet is done, spread the berries over half of it and fold over the other half. Turn onto a hot platter and garnish with several perfect, large berries. This fluffy, pleasantly flavored dish makes something unusual out of an otherwise commonplace little supper or Sunday morning "brunch."

And here's one more tip on omelets which will do for all kinds. If you are distressed by the fact that you sometimes have unpleasant discoloration on the bottoms of your omelets, plan to use an aluminum or stainless utensil instead of an iron pan. The dark stain is really harmless and tasteless—just a combination of the iron of the pan and the sulphur in the eggs—but a change of frying pans will perk up the appearance.

And now a few other suggestions for serving these scarlet spring offerings — strawberries. For breakfast, leave them whole with hulls on and serve with little molds of powdered sugar. And if you want to be especially spiffy, shave slivers from a fresh pineapple [or wedges with the skin left on] and alternate around the plate with the strawberries.

Strawberry custard is something else to "O" and "Ah" over. Simply prepare a smooth boiled custard, cool slightly and pour over sugared strawberry halves placed in the bottoms of glass sherbet cups. Chill and serve with cream and sugar, or better yet, with a rich strawberry and sugar sirup.

A tutti frutti frappé with strawberries for the main fruit makes a knowing little cooler for a warm spring day. Chopped strawberries, pineapple, and a few fresh cherries plus sweetened water are frozen for this drink until just mushy . . . like moist snow. Then give the frappé a few good juggles in the shaker and serve.

Do you still make buns occasionally? If so, and when next you do, make buns with strawberry hearts! Just after forming into buns and before setting to rise the last time, make a slit with a case knife and work in a teaspoon of fresh strawberry jam. Pinch the slit together and bake in a hot oven as usual.

Sometime when you have gotten hold of some especially large and vivid strawberries, plan strawberry fritters. Use a regular fritter batter with the hulled, whole berries dipped in and then popped into hot deep fat till golden brown and puffy. A luncheon of fruit fritters—pineapple, banana, grapefruit, and strawberry—complemented by a crispy raw carrot salad, hot bran muffins and "a cup o' tae" —doesn't that have an appeal all its own?

Strawberries in Bavarian creams, in blanc mange, in charlotte russes. Strawberry pies and strawberry shortcake—try them, or if you haven't just the right recipes won't you let me send you a few of mine?

Long or Short, Smart Coiffure Looks Feminine

Curls or Loose Wave Are the Mode.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Helen Wills Moody's frankly bobbed head was one of the recent news events of the day. Helen's enthusiasm over it has probably brought the scissors into action on a number of heads already. Women seem to be sitting around waiting for some one to start something in the coiffure line. Regretful as many of them are that the bobbed head began to suffer an eclipse a couple of years ago, they still have not the courage to act on their own. I honestly believe more women lost by the long haired vogue than gained by it, excepting the young fry. The young women, with their young silhouettes, young profiles, young, slim throats, have no cause to regret the longer haired vogue. Among older women who let the hair grow there has been great discontent, for somehow they never felt quite so smartly groomed as when their hair was short.

If you make inquiries in any hairdressing salon on the state of hair length you are told always that bobbing is just as much in vogue as ever. Your own common sense disqualifies the statement, however. You do not see the evidence. You know that bobbed hair makes bigger hairdressing business, so you discount the trade reports a little.

However, three people not long returned from Paris report a return of short hair. Among these was Miss Dorothy Mackaill, the screen star, whose hair is cut very much like that of Helen Wills Moody, the tennis champion.

Anyway, gone is the sausage roll at the back of the neck. And gone are the long bobbing locks that were neither nursery nor adult, and rarely ever chic. And gone without question is the flat bob that could get along without curl or wave.

But a becoming short hair cut today may be just as smart as the smartest long hair, providing it stands for femininity in its curl or large, soft wave. Or, if you want to go in for extreme things, against which we would caution you unless you have extreme chic in every other detail, you can train the hair in curls that are flattened close to the head and make the coiffure look like nothing so much as the painted wig on a wax mannequin.

The swirl in the back of the head is important. A bias movement of some sort is better than a straight. Especially if the hair is bobbed the straight line is not interesting.

Tense Mother Told to Relax with Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "My children are 2, 3, and 4, and ever since they were born I have tried to give them every opportunity for growth, spiritual and physical, that I could, yet I am not satisfied. I allow them all legitimate activity, but I think I've overdone things for they seem to think no time is inopportune for question asking."

Answer: Of course we all fall short of the kind of mothers we want to be, but don't you think it is partly because we set ourselves a beautiful and impossible ideal?

Don't be so conscientious with your children regarding their questions that you throw common sense out of the window. Answer their questions, of course, but if the time is inconvenient tell them you can't talk now, but to ask again later. Naturally, children so small cannot sense the opportune or inopportune time, so you must direct that in a friendly way.

Try to relax and be more casual in your attitude. Try not to give them so much. It is evidently making you nervous—and maybe in the long run you will find that you have given them more by easing up than by this overly consciously effort and desire. I think mothers who are so terribly anxious to do everything they can for their children get tense over it, and then their usefulness is lessened.

Slight Train Places Lovely Molyneux Frock of White Crepe in Formal Class

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Informal evening clothes have set up such a niche for themselves in society that formal gatherings have been crowded to the background. But there are still some occasions where ankle-length dance dresses and long-sleeved dinner frocks are taboo.

There are just as many degrees of formality, as there are informality. But if your hostess says "formal," then you are pretty safe in selecting a dress like the one shown in the accompanying sketch. This, the kind of dress Paris calls semi-formal, goes to neither extreme.

Molyneux designed this evening frock and makes it in a heavy smooth crêpe, in white. It has its waistline marked by a narrow self-belt, almost on the hipbones. The skirt has a wide circular, band inserted just below the hips. At the bottom of this band three plaits are placed. These are stitched down a few inches, then released, giving the skirt its center front fullness. The skirt, with its irregular hem barely touching the instep in front, has a slight train in back, which trails on the floor, putting this dress in the formal category. Three large white flowers mark the square neckline of this frock in front.

There is a waist-length bolero with this gown. The bolero is in the same white crêpe as the dress. It has a small roll collar, descending to the bottom of the jacket, in ermine. The slightly full sleeve, which narrows at the wrist, is set in a few inches below the shoulder.

NOBLE GESTURE, THIS SNEEZING AT GRID PROFITS

Can Others Imitate Yale Plan?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, May 27. — The house plan of athletics adopted at Yale will be approved in many another institution as an experiment noble in purpose, but there will be no stampede to imitate this system, because when a school undertakes to support athletics out of an endowment the first problem is to find the endowment. After that the business of deëmphasizing or informalizing sport is comparatively simple, because there is no longer any necessity to give the customers a good football show for their money and there is no need for the customers' money.

There was a famous prize fighter in practice a few years ago whose career illustrates the point. When the prize fighter was only moderately famous and only moderately well to do he was very anxious to please. Far from having to beg him to consent to pose for a photograph, the newspaper photographers used to complain that every time a fellow took a squint into the finder of his camera there was this guy posing in a polo helmet on the wrong side of a laundry horse, swinging a niblick, chopping down a tree, or wiping the dishes in his mother's kitchen.

Wealth Changes Athlete.

But presently, thanks in part to the publication of these photographs, the young prize fighter became independently wealthy. It is strange what nonsense some fortunes were founded on in the days of the grand extravagance, but it may as well be admitted that the people were passing through a goofy stage then and that they were attracted to heroes by means which would not interest them at all in these days.

When the young athlete became independently wealthy he also became very austere toward the newspaper photographers, and when one of them reminded him that he had once snapped him posing in a polo helmet on the wrong side of a spirited laundry steed he said, "Yes, but I do not have to make a spectacle of myself any more."

Obviously a proud institution of learning makes a spectacle of itself when it dresses up certain of its students in outlandish football costumes designed solely to give the customers a show and attract their money, but this has been done by many proud institutions in the last ten years for that purpose. Athletics cost money and there were no endowments.

Envious, but Can't Follow.

It is quite simple for Yale and also for Harvard, where the house plan was first instituted as such in this country, to declare their independence of the gate receipts of football. But there are not many other schools similarly situated and therefore, while admiring the house plan and envying those schools which are able to forego the profits of football, most college presidents and boards will continue to do the best they can in the amusement business.

A man does not retire from business until he has made his fortune. Of course, it would be possible to conduct the intra-mural athletic programs less expensively, but that would be done only at a sacrifice of the American standard of living and therefore is not to be thought of. A young man turning out for a varsity football game and finding that for purposes of economy the athletic department had decided to use last week's football again this week might be seriously affected for the rest of his life, even though last week's football were as good as new.

The American standard of living calls for a new football for each game and for hundreds of new footballs for practice games and intra-mural games during the season. And a college pitcher, if handed a used baseball, though a good one, instead of a new ball just out of the wrappings at the start of a game, would be so unnerved that he might never get the side out. The American standard of living was nowhere higher than in college sport.

Best Time to Retire.

At any rate, Yale chose the best possible time to retire from football as a business because the football business declined sharply last year and it is not likely ever to come back. The high pressure coaches, who were subject to high pressure business departments, made such a circus of the game during the boom that the customers probably would have become slightly weary of it anyway even if there had been no depression. There were too many troupes campaigning the field, and the showmanship became so obvious that the patrons along toward the end were unable to respond to the appeal of the intersectional struggle or the classic gridiron clash.

It was impossible to go crazy all over again each succeeding Saturday afternoon, and when the crash occurred in Wall street and pleasure money became less plentiful, many of the patrons were ready to let down, anyway, and just go to certain selected games per year.

For the next few seasons most schools will find it hard enough to earn the way of their athletic departments in the football business without renouncing such little profits as they may be able to make. But this is a good time to make a noble gesture at little expense. The college president who declares his contempt for gate receipts and renounces the game isn't renouncing much.

Driver Is Killed in Crash On Indianapolis Speedway

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—The second serious accident in preliminary tests for the 500 mile Memorial day automobile race occurred at the Speedway today, resulting in the death of one man and the serious injury of another. Milton Jones, 38 years old, of Cleveland, a driver, was fatally hurt and his mechanic, Harold A. Gray, 24 years old, also of Cleveland, was taken to the hospital in a critical condition.

IRA HALL.

They were riding in a Jones special, built by the driver, when at the southeast turn, going more than 100 miles an hour, the machine caromed from the inner curb, plunged across the right of way up the steep incline, crashed over the wall and torpedoed into the ground 18 feet below.

Jones' death was the second in three days at the speedway. On Wednesday Harry Cox, a mechanic, was instantly killed when the car in which he was riding with Denny Bennefield hurtled over an outside retaining wall. Bennefield was seriously injured.

There was another minor crash today that wrecked a Duesenberg, driven by Ira Hall, Terre Haute dirt track driver. He hit the northeast wall but escaped injury.

Crowd Treks In.

The vanguard of the largest sporting crowd in America began to arrive today as drivers were swinging around the two and a half mile oval to qualify for the race.

The attendance last year was 152,000. The record is 160,000, established in 1930. Only the biggest heavyweight championship prize fights and college football games have attracted more than 100,000 spectators. This year advance ticket sales are down about 20 per cent, but the promoters expect a heavy eleventh hour rush by fans economizing on hotel bills. Hotel rates are doubled here Sunday and Monday night.

Greater speed is in prospect for Monday's race and the hazards are increased proportionately. These are factors generally considered as the main public appeal.

Track officials are piqued by any inference that men and women buy tickets with the thought that, since drivers were going to risk their lives, it would be worth money to watch. Maybe such an inference isn't fair, yet a street corner crash in Chicago will attract a fair crowd.

Steve Has Figures.

Steve Hannagan, speedway publicitor, said today three drivers and three mechanics have died in smashups during the 19 years of the event. He didn't have the figures for practice and qualification wrecks.

Maybe it's the speed that draws the crowds. However, after the cars have been roaring past the grandstand for an hour or so at better than 100 miles an hour, eyes and ears become familiar to the flash of color and drone of exhausts. The pace then seems no faster than that of a tourist rolling over rural concrete at 60 miles per hour.

With favorable weather and a moderate degree of luck the winner this year will break the track record of 101.13 miles per hour, established in 1925 by Peter De Paolo. The four qualifying laps are being made in record time. Lou Moore, driving a car owned by Mike [Umbrella Mike] Boyle, Chicago business agent for the Electricians' union, won the pole position by doing 117.362 miles per hour for the ten miles with sixteen turns.

Roads Are Good.

So if it's speed and hazards that the public wants, the race Monday will probably deliver. The grind starts at 10 a. m. Central standard time [11 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time].

Only one more day remains in which to qualify for the limited number of positions. Outstanding times made in today's trials are as follows:

A good car can drive here from Chicago without risk or strain in five hours. Another 30 or 60 minutes is required to get into the Speedway. The shortest route is over U. S. 41 and U. S. 52, 192 miles. It will be crowded on Sunday and there'll be quite a number of fast drivers on the road early Monday morning.

As an optional route Indiana 53 can be picked up on the Lincoln Highway U. S. 30 and traveled south through Crown Point and Remington to join U. S. 52 at Montmorenci. This route is 193 miles. Or U. S. 30 can be driven east to Plymouth and thence south on U. S. 31 to Indianapolis for a total of 218 miles. The Hoosier Motor club and the Chicago Motor club report the pavements free from detours.

PAT PAGE SUES INDIANA U. FOR $15,000 DAMAGE

Asks Restitution for Loss of Coaching Job.

Denies Contract

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 27.—[Special.] — President William L. Bryan of Indiana university, commenting tonight on the suit of H. O. [Pat] Page for $15,000 against the trustees of the university, said:

"I am sure that Mr. Page has no just claim, either legal or moral against the athletic board of control of Indiana university. He never at any time had any contract whatever with the trustees of Indiana university."

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—[Special.]—Trustees of Indiana university were made defendants today in federal court to a $15,000 damage suit filed by H. O. [Pat] Page, former football coach at the university, who alleges a series of financial inconveniences were cause by his dismissal Dec. 27, 1930.

Page, now baseball coach and assistant football coach at the University of Chicago, avers that he was wrongfully discharged by the Indiana university athletic board of control and in violation of his contract with trustees of the school. The dismissal, his suit asserts, came after he had received assurance of continued employment and too late in the year for him to make an advantageous contract with any other school.

Recite Trustees' Recommendation.

The suit said Page signed a three year contract with Indiana university trustees on April 1, 1926, with an understanding that it would be continued after April 1, 1929, at the salary of $12,500 for 1930. A communication from the trustees to the athletic board of control was recited in part:

"In view of the moral opposition existing by reason of the approval of the three year contract the trustees recommend to the athletic board of control that it assure Mr. Page that this employment will be renewed or extended for two additional years with an increase in salary of $500 each year, except in case of incapacity."

This recommendation was made June 20, 1929, by B. F. Long, Ora L. Widermuth, and C. M. Neiser, members of the trustee's board, the suit says.

Shows His Losses.

Page's suit alleges that because the board of athletic control repudiated the 1931-'32 contract he was only able to find employment at $6,000 a year; that this occasioned a $7,500 annual loss of income; that he was forced to move his household to Chicago at the cost of $500; that it is costing him $250 a month to sustain his family there; that because his home in Bloomington had not been rented to other tenants he had suffered a further loss of $4,000, and that his family had been forced to live in quarters less commodious than afforded by the Bloomington home, causing further damage of $1,500.

Miss Orcutt Leads British Golf Trials

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAUNTON, England, May 27.—Maureen Orcutt, White Beeches club, Heyworth, N. J., golfer, today shot a 73 to lead the field of 136 seeking the British women's golf championship. She completed her round just before a driving rain added half a dozen strokes to the course and gave everybody with 90 or under a chance to get in at the end of tomorrow's 36 holes of qualifying play.

Only eight women were able to better 80. Among them were two Americans, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago with 77, and Mrs. Leona Cheney of Los Angeles with 78.

Maureen Masters Greens.

The rest of the group was made up of Mme. Rene LaCoste, former titlist, with a 75; Mrs. J. B. Watson, former Scottish champion, with 78; Enid Wilson, who holds the cup; Diana Plumpton, and Jessie Firth each with 79.

Miss Orcutt was out in 38, but was one under par on the way home for her 73. She was the only player who could master the difficult Saunton greens. She sank a five yarder at the 316 yard 10th for a 3 and again was under par at the short 17th, where she dropped a 30 footer from the edge of the small green for a 2. Her chief difficulty, going out, was with her second shots.

Mrs. Vare Cards 80.

As soon as Miss Orcutt had finished the rain came down steadily. What advantage that gave the field in pitching to the green was written off by

U. S. Leads as Rain Halts Cup Series with Australians

Philadelphia, Pa., May 27.—(AP)—The United States tennis team captured one singles match from Australia and seemed about to make it a pair when a sudden rainstorm terminated play in the Davis cup contests at the Philadelphia Country club today.

Big Frank Shields of New York had scored a one sided triumph over little Harry Hopman, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, and Ellsworth Vines Jr. had his opponent, Jack Crawford, two sets to one when the storm descended.

Vines captured the first two sets with little difficulty, 6-2, 6-4, but the Australian champion came back to take the third, 6-2, and was holding his own in the fourth. The count was 3-3 when the rain came, Vines having run off the first three games and Crawford the next three.

New Law Opens Red Sox Park for Sunday Games

Boston, Mass., May 27.—(AP)—Gov. Ely today signed the bill making possible Sunday baseball games at Fenway park, home grounds of the Boston Red Sox. The bill makes Sunday baseball permissible 700 feet or more from a place of worship. The limit previously was 1,000 feet and Fenway park is about 900 feet from the Church of the Redemption.

Sox' Safari Sees Tigers Maul Lyons; Cringes, 7-5

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—The White Sox again found themselves on unfriendly shores today and took another licking from the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 5, although they outhit the enemy 11 hits for 14 bases to 10 hits for 12 bases.

Ted Lyons failed again in his series of comeback efforts, going out in a shower of hits in the fourth inning which turned the score from 2 to 1 in his favor to 4 to 2 against him. In the next inning Red Faber was victimized for three runs after Luke Appling had complicated matters by punting a potential double play grounder.

The Sox rallied for two runs in the eighth inning and after two were out in the ninth got one run around and had the tying runs on third and first when the light went out.

Hal Springs Surprise.

While the early pitching was the discouraging element in the day's reversal, there was a modicum of solace in the relief pitching of Hal McKain. Hal, in two innings of relief work showed more stuff than his total for 10 months.

The Sox came out of the first inning possessed of a 2 to 1 lead. Funk opened with a double to left center. Then Selph shot a grounder at Rogell. The Tiger shortstop sought to get Funk at third, but threw the ball away, Funk scoring and Selph reaching second. Blue's sacrifice put Selph on third, whence he scored on Kress' single to left. Fothergill singled to center, putting Kress on third, after which Round Robert stole second. The runners hung on while Hodapp popped to Gehringer and the inning ended when Johnson pulled down Appling's liner.

In the Tiger's half of the first inning, Davis opened up on Lyons with a single to center. Rogell walked and when Stone hit into a double play, Davis went to third. Gehringer ran the count to three balls and two strikes then singled to right, scoring Davis. Lyons threw out Walker.

Lyons Goes Away.

The Sox lead prevailed until the Tigers started bearing down on Lyons with one out in the fourth. Walker doubled to left and the score was tied when he ran home on Johnson's single to center. Richardson doubled along the right foul line, Johnson stopping at third. Then Hayworth was walked intentionally to fill the bases and enable Lyons to get at Sorrell. Instead Sorrell got at Lyons with a single to center which scored Johnson and Richardson and put Hayworth on third. Faber relieved Lyons and Davis hit into a double play.

The Tigers grabbed three runs in the fifth which they shouldn't have had. Davis walked and Appling kicked Rogell's double play ball, both runners landing safe. Stone singled to left, Davis scoring and Rogell stopping at second. The bases were full when Gehringer squirted a grounder between Selph and Kress, who were playing in close. Rogell and Stone scored on two force plays.

Funk Hits Another.

The Sox belated rally in the eighth started when Rothrock walked with two out and reached second on Funk's single. Selph's single scored Rothrock and put Funk on third. Hogsett then relieved Sorrell and Blue forced Selph.

Police Symie Medalist on Bad Check Charge

Excelsior Springs, Mo., May 27.—(AP)—Police interrupted a second round match in the annual Excelsior Springs golf tournament late today and arrested Allan J. Staller, 23 year old medalist from Minneapolis, on a grand larceny charge resulting from issuance of worthless checks in raising money to finance his attendance. Officers said Staller admitted he had "passed bum checks" in order to come here and play for a championship.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

One inning served the purpose of nine for the Cubs yesterday. They concentrated the big portion of their day's firing into the third, and six runs resulting from that effort proved sufficient to down the tough Reds, 6 to 4. The outcome also served to give the Chicagoans a better grip on their perilous first place perch. And still another item blossoming from the battle was the sixth triumph of the season for the youthful, phenomenal Lonnie Warneke of Mount Ida, Ark.

Except that five others had a hand in the baby riot occasioned by the cluster of six Cub runs, Charley Grimm might be pointed out as the man of the minute. After three had scored there still were two on the bases and Ray Kolp, the Rhinelander hurler, was beefing justly about his luck and a strike he thought Umpire Stark had missed in a previous inning. Grimm then stepped up and completely ruined Kolp by whacking a homer into the right field four bit precinct. After that it was just a matter of keeping the Reds in check.

Warneke Wiggles Out.

Warneke can't be given any credit for causing a shrinkage in the Reds' batting figures, but he did come through impressively several times when the going was tough. He gave one dazzling exhibition in the fifth when with three on the bases and none out he set down the two toughest batters in the hostile attack. Dangerous Babe Herman tapped into a double play and Chick Hafey fanned. Lonnie whiffed Lombardi as part of his own way of getting through a bad seventh inning when his defense wavered. And in the ninth after a double had started the inning he again bowled over the heavy trio in the Rhineland attack. Among these was Herman, who fanned for the second time and had plenty to say about it before being chased to the coop.

As another step in his search for a more impressive attack, Hornsby benched Lance Richbourg, moved Johnny Moore into the lead off rôle and awarded right field to Marvin Gudat. The combination worked so well that it will be retained at least until this afternoon. Gudat expressed his thanks for the assignment by singling twice, one of them during the momentous third. But for numbers Riggs Stephenson exceeded them all. He singled three times and doubled once. One of the singles helped the home cause in the big inning.

Bobbie Leads to Red Run.

A slight bobble which isn't in evidence in the box score made it possible for the Reds to move into a one run lead in the first inning. Warneke started his day's work by passing Crabtree. Grantham's pop foul to English and three strikes for the famous Mr. Herman cleaned up the situation pretty well. But on Herman's third strike Crabtree started to steal and accomplished his purpose when Jurges failed to hold Hartnett's perfect throw into the bag. Then Hafey bounced a single through short and Crabtree ran home.

The Cubs got themselves all set for some run production in the second, but quit with nothing to show for their efforts. Stephenson gave the ladies a chance to screech by opening with a single to right. Gudat popped out, but Grimm shoved a hit past Heath, who at the moment appeared to be counting his money. Stevie galloped to third on the hit. Hartnett then grounded to Gilbert. Both Grimm and Gabby are slightly slow afoot, so there was no trouble about completing a double play.

The dusting off of Kolp in the stormy third got under way on a pass to Moore after two were gone. Herman dropped a two bagger into the left field corner and Moore quit running after reaching the plate. English kept it going with a single to center, Herman scoring. Stevie

FLAG BEARER NO QUITTER IN MUD, BACKERS LEARN

BY FRENCH LANE.

It is next to impossible to catch old Flag Bearer if you give him some mud mixed with his racing diet. The best sprinters often find the task too great for them.

They tried it again yesterday at Washington Park in the Woodlawn handicap, a dash at 6 furlongs. And they didn't catch him. He went sailing over the heavy track to a length and a half victory over the stoutly backed Gold Step.

At no time during the struggle did Flag Bearer give those who backed him much concern during the race. Prior to springing of the barrier his backers did worry, however, because few horses in America have quit in the stretch more often than Flag Bearer.

His Heart Proves Stout.

He showed no evidence of having a weak heart in this contest and doesn't usually display heart trouble when the going is heavy. After he passed midstretch and threw back Gold Step's last stubborn challenge for the right to lead the pack home, everybody who backed Flag Bearer began to breathe easier. By the time his number was hung out on the big board in the infield, his supporters had recovered sufficiently to give him a rousing cheer when Jockey Knight brought him back to salute the judges. The crowd was the largest since opening day.

Finishing third in the race, but badly beaten, was Hyman and, bringing up the rear, was Smear from C. V. Whitney's stable, and Wotan. The heavy track had driven Sundot and Sherab out of the struggle.

Due to the rush of support to Gold Step, Flag Bearer's price went up, and when the final payoff came he paid more than 3 to 1. He won very much in the fashion of an odds on choice and the time of 1:15 was pretty good considering the holding track conditions.

Durva Leads Ladies Home.

The second best race on the program was fashioned for fillies and mares and it brought victory to Durva, owned by J. B. Theall's Lone Star stable of Chicago. She won without much effort, although Jockey Neel drove her hard in the stretch after she had stepped on past Brookside and Sunidav, which had been making the early pace.

Jockey Neel, who was injured in a spill at Aurora and who for a time afterwards showed a lack of nerve, is becoming quite a hero with the Washington Park crowds.

After he had won with Durva he came back in the sixth race and won another race in a thrilling finish with the favorite, Runar. The kid proved he hasn't lost his nerve, for he had to show all kinds of it to win by a narrow margin from Tack and the fast finishing Comstockery. South Seas also fought it out with the leaders, but dropped out of it in the very last strides.

Fox River Is an Ideal Spot for Week-End

BY BOB BECKER.

Here are some tips for outdoor fans who are thinking about heading for the country for Decoration day week-end. Although this week-end is not the most satisfactory to the touring fisherman, because in Illinois and neighboring states the bass fishing still is restricted, it is possible to fish for pickerel, wall eyes, muskies, and trout in Wisconsin, and in Illinois one can go after nearly any species except the bass.

For a delightful drive through a beautiful part of Illinois, combining woodlands and a river, we suggest a jaunt to the lower end of the Fox river. The part of the river to see is that above the little town of Wedron. Here the Fox, quite a different river from the one we know west of Chicago, where it flows through a number of attractive towns, has cut a channel through high sandstone bluffs.

For several miles you can see the picturesque rocky highlands along the river. The sandstone is carved in fantastic formations with many caves and pockets, which are associated with Indian legends.

An Ideal Camping Spot.

You will find many shrubs, trees, and flowers on these rocky cliffs, which are unusual, and no more beautiful camping or hiking spot can be found close to Chicago. Although we have not motored to Wedron, we saw the lower part of the river from a canoe while on THE TRIBUNE'S Fox river expedition last summer, and our tip for a leisurely and scenic trip, based on a general knowledge of the country, would be partly on concrete, via routes 32 and 18 out of Aurora, southwest to Plano. Then take the gravel road south from Plano, which follows the Fox for a distance and takes you through Millington and Sheridan into Wedron.

When you get to Wedron, drive about the town along the river to find the rocky bluffs. The bottom fishermen get some nice catfish from the river at this point. When you are at Wedron you are only a short distance from Starved Rock, as Wedron is only 15 or 20 miles from Ottawa.

For the trout fisherman one of the most desirable localities not too far from Chicago is the country near Wild Rose, Wis. It is west of Lake Poygan and northeast of Madison and Portage. Some nice fish are taken from the streams near that town.

Here's Another Fox River.

A little bit closer, very interesting from a historical angle, and offering some fair fishing, is the Fox river, Wisconsin, Berlin, Green lake section. You can drive to Portage via the Dells and then northeast. Or you can go by way of Fond du Lac. Green Lake has been stocked with pickerel in late years. If you go by way of Portage, be sure and stop at the edge of the town, near the canal connecting the Fox and the Wisconsin, and see the old trading post where John Kinzie used to trade with the Indians.

FORT SHERIDAN CHANGES DATES FOR HORSE SHOW

Fort Sheridan's activities in the Washington Bi-Centennial Military tournament, which will be held at Soldiers' field June 24 to July 4, have caused officials to postpone the annual Fort Sheridan horse show, one of the outstanding exhibitions in the Chicago district, until Sept. 16 to 18.

A record number of horses are expected to be entered in the three-day exhibition. There will be two performances, afternoon and evening, each day. Improvements on the grounds at Fort Sheridan will be completed soon.

SHOSTRUM AND ARMSBURY REACH NET SEMI-FINALS

Ted Armsbury and John Shostrum of Parker and Al Shufletowski of Lane advanced to the semi-final round of the Stagg prep tennis tourney at the Midway yesterday. Armsbury will meet his teammate today, while Shufletowski awaits the outcome of the fifth round match between Bickel and Piggott of Oak Park.

In the doubles three Oak Park teams reached the quarter finals, one match going fifty games. Finals in both divisions are scheduled for next week.

Spanish Play Is Favored in Feature Today

Spanish Play, after drawing the No. 1 post position, became the favorite last night to win the $5,000 Robert M. Sweitzer handicap at Washington Park today. He was quoted at 2 to 1, with Pittsburgher the second choice at 4 to 1.

The race, at a mile and a furlong, will be run over a good track if there is no more rain. Twelve were named in the overnight field and there isn't likely to be more than one or two withdrawals.

| Horse. | Wt. | Jockey. | Odds. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Spanish Play | 116 | C. Landolt | 2-1 |
| Wotan | 111 | E. Pool | 6-1 |
| †Hillsborough | 106 | C. King | 6-1 |

| Street Singer | 107 | C. Corbett | 15-1 |
| †Sidney Grant | 111 | J. Maiben | 6-1 |

†A. Bartelstein entry. ‡J. Marsch entry.

The handicap will be run as the fifth race on the program.

J. E. Hughes of Chicago was happy when his 2 year old, Silent Shot, captured the first race yesterday. It was the first race the stable has won since last season, despite a campaign throughout the winter at New Orleans.

Silent Shot scored his victory over Mr. Joe, a good looking Pot Au Feu colt, racing for the Slickaway stable, which is maintained by Roy Carruthers, general manager for the Arlington Park Jockey club. Mr. Joe was making his first start and raced impressively.

Here and There—John Ward, who developed Dodge, Wise Counsellor, and many other famous horses, is here for the meeting and hasn't picked a winner. . . . Those Audley Farm stable horses may do better when Jockey H. Schutte gets back from New York to ride them. . . . Dr. Charley Laurey of the south side was out and, from the way he cheered at the end of the fourth race, must have had a fist full of tickets on the 26 to 1 shot, Beauty Secret. . . . Jack Keene will sell his Keeneland stud horses, in training in the Washington Park paddock, on June 17. . . . Says he needs rest and money. Who doesn't?

HAARLOW, REMIAS RECEIVE MAROON SCHOLARSHIPS

Two outstanding Chicago prep athletes were named yesterday among sixteen high school seniors who have been awarded two year honor entrance scholarships to the University of Chicago. They are Bill Haarlow, Bowen basketball star, who scored 52 points in his final game, and Steve Remias, quarter back of the championship Harrison Tech team last fall.

The scholarships are awarded annually for all around excellence in scholarship, leadership, and service. Remias has the eighth best scholastic rating in a class of 456 at Harrison, while Haarlow was seventeenth in a class of more than 200. Both have been presidents of their classes and have been prominent in other school activities.

PIRATES BEAT CARDINALS, 8-4; WIN 4TH PLACE

French Pitches Fourth Victory.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 27.—(AP)—The Pirates continued their climb of the National league ladder today by capturing fourth place with an 8 to 4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Larry French and Jess Haines were hit hard, but the Pittsburgh pitchers kept the Cardinal hits scattered. Grace and Barbee hit homers. It was French's fourth win over the Cards, the Pirates' fourth straight victory.

GOPHER TRACK TEAM DEFEATS BADGERS, 71-63

Madison, Wis., May 27.—[Special.]—Minnesota defeated Wisconsin, 71 1-3 to 63 2-3, in a dual track meet today. It was the first time Minnesota had defeated the Badgers in track since 1921, when the Gophers won by half a point.

The track was slow and a cold wind swept across the field, keeping the time in most events slow, but Scheifley raced the high hurdles in 14.9 seconds to tie the Wisconsin record, established in 1927 by Charles McGinnis. Scheifley beat out Roden of Wisconsin in the last two steps. Scheifley was high point winner with first in both hurdles and a second in the 100 yard dash.

Minnesota won nine of the fifteen events, slamming the broad jump, the last event of the day, to decide the meet.

Sox Pick Gaston, Caraway to Hurl Twin Bill Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 27.—There will be a double header between the White Sox and Detroit tomorrow. Pitchers will be Gaston and Caraway vs. Hogsett and Uhle. Uhle has been on the hospital list, but has reported he will be ready to resume his chores tomorrow.

Dale Alexander, the Tigers' enormous slugger and utility first baseman, has his admirers guessing as to whether he has a sense of humor or else. Recently a lady interviewer asked him what he took at college and he replied, "A shower after every workout."

Tommy Thomas, who did not come to Detroit with the Sox because of a throat infection which was expected to keep him at home until time to go to Cleveland, showed up this morning. Probably he won't be able to work till Monday, however.

Cubs' 6 Runs in Third Inning Beat Reds, 6-4

scratched a hit to Gilbert, whose wild throw moved English to third. He registered on Gudat's looping single to short center. Then Grimm put the drop of hemlock in Kolp's drinking cup by blasting his homer into the right field seats. Hartnett put the finishing touch to the inning by popping into Gilbert's hands.

Reds Load Bases.

The full house which provided Warneke with the chance to display his recuperative powers in the fifth began to form on Benton's single to right. Crabtree hit one safely to center. Grantham singled to right and Benton decided he might as well stop at third, which was a good break for the Bruins. The mighty Herman slashed at the first pitch and it rolled as far as Warneke. A throw to the plate forced Benton and Hartnett's relay to Grimm doubled Herman. Warneke then threw three straight strikes to Hafey, who didn't offer at the last one.

Benton tore off the first of four hits which, with errors, caused Warneke so much trouble in the seventh. Moore fumbled the drive, so Benton took second. He strolled over to third on Crabtree's drooping single to short left. Grantham's double to center scored Benton and put Crabtree on third. Hafey hoisted a foul back of first base, but the wind carried it away from Grimm. Then the ex-Cardinal slugger singled to left. Crabtree scored on the hit and Grantham ran in from third when Stevie fumbled. The error also let Hafey go to second. He died there when Lombardi winked at a third strike and Gilbert grounded to Jurges.

No Luck This Time.

Manager Howley enjoyed such great luck by using High and Lucas as pinch men in the last series with the Cubs that he couldn't resist giving them another chance to commit mischief in the eighth. Nothing came of it. High batted for Durocher and did his part well enough by coaxing Warneke for a pass. Lucas made his appearance as a sub for Benton. He was properly handled on a pop foul to Hartnett, after which Crabtree bounced to Herman.

Warneke's only reason for not slipping through the ninth with ease was a double with which Grantham opened the inning. Warneke then began to operate on Herman, and finished with the strikeout which caused the Babe to moan so lustily that Umpire Stark told him to beat it. The strike on which Herman protested was a perfect fast ball which hopped almost through the middle. Babe ducked away from it, thinking he was going to be plunked. Then Hafey rolled out to Jurges and Lombardi to English.

ROOT ON MOUND TODAY

Charley Root, whose luck has all been of one kind — bad — for the last month, will attempt to get going again today at the expense of the Reds, who in other years were regular cousins to him. The Rhineland pitching will be handled by Ben Frey.

There were 20,000 Ladies' day tickets issued for the game, but about a third of that number were smart enough not to show up. Cold, threatening weather prevailed. There were about 5,000 cash customers present.

Both Pat Malone and Bob Smith usually are effective against the Pirates and Manager Hornsby is hoping nothing happens to prevent their taking part in the double header with the Buccos here tomorrow. Another double bill is scheduled for Monday afternoon.

If Gabby Hartnett isn't careful he'll establish some kind of a record for hitting into double plays. He has done it five times in his last eleven games.

Two years ago this morning the Cub ranks were thinned by the death of Hal Carlson, who soldiered with the A. E. F. in France. Carlson had been picked to pitch that day.

Taylor Douthit, the one time Cardinal, has lost his center field job with the Reds. He didn't hit enough to satisfy Manager Dan Howley.

Sectional Title at Stake Today for Lane Tech, Bowen

Lane Tech, defending league champion, will meet Bowen in the finals for the south-north sectional championship of the Chicago Public High School league this afternoon at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. The winner will enter the final round for the league title.

Both teams have scored two victories in the semi-finals which involve the first and second place winners in all four sections of the league. Bowen and Lane Tech triumphed over the same teams for their two victories, Schurz and Fenger, which will play a preliminary game at 1 o'clock.

The two games will conclude the north-south zone play. The winner of the central-west sectional race will be determined Tuesday, when Crane Tech meets Harrison Tech at Mills stadium and Tilden Tech faces Lindblom at Normal park.

Lindblom scored its second straight semi-final victory yesterday, defeating Crane, 7 to 4, at Mills stadium. A triumph over Tilden Tech Tuesday will give it the right to face the winner of the Bowen-Lane Tech game today for the league championship next Saturday.

Evanston scored a 12 to 10 victory over Proviso in a Suburban league game at Evanston's field. Evanston pounded Chappas, Proviso pitcher, for 12 hits. The scores:

It's Tough on Tuffy; Can't Find Opponent

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Gerald Ambrose Griffith, who hasn't fought a lick since last Sept. 23, resumes activity Monday night at White City. With fair weather and hope for equally propitious attendance Gerald Ambrose, west side heavyweight familiarly called Tuffy, will start off against Jack Roper.

After Tuffy starts, even if it results in a ten round victory, which is common assumption based on Griffith's record and experience, there doesn't seem much ahead in the way of lucrative bouts. The heavyweight situation is well in hand, but not in the hands of Jack O'Keefe, Tuffy's manager, or Nate Lewis of the Stadium, who has dug up some mighty fine purses for the pair of west siders.

Tuffy Rates High.

Griffith, as you may know, is well regarded by the National Boxing association and other organizations which rate the performers in each division. He is ranked ninth. It would seem that a number 9 heavyweight should find ready employment. Difficulties, however, arise from matches already made involving possible Griffith opponents, and because of Tuffy's activity in other years which has taken the edge from bouts that otherwise might be labeled excellent.

Scan the ranks of heavyweights. Champion Max Schmeling and Challenger Jack Sharkey are awaiting their Long Island engagement. Mickey Walker, who Tuffy thinks would be a splendid opponent, both in the ring and at the box office, anticipates a call to meet the new champion.

Primo Carnera's back in Europe. His size 17 shoes have lost their appeal in America except perhaps against a Dempsey, and, moreover, who'd pay to see Tuffy, 190 pound heavyweight, fight Carnera?

He Loses Sometimes.

Ernie Schaaf defeated Griffith in ten rounds in Tuffy's last fight. Young Stribling also has outpointed Tuffy, and Stribbling has lost cast since his defeats by Schmeling and Schaaf. King Levinsky, another whom Griffith would be pleased to encounter, probably will meet Max Baer in July, which also eliminates Baer at this time.

Griffith has whipped Paulino, Johnny Risko, and such lesser men as Jack Gagnon. Which brings him down to the hard hitting youngsters Steve Hamas and Charley Retzlaff. Here are a couple of opponents, but Griffith, after his long vacation, isn't ready for that kind of opposition.

Griffith has been well handled. He had made money, quite a bit of it, by shrewd match making which on the whole didn't impair his reputation.

Gerald's a Headliner.

Since the Stadium has been built Griffith has headlined seven bouts at the world's largest boxing arena and he has done splendidly financially. One of his best coups was the return fight with Jack Gagnon, which drew $70,000. The list of fights, paid attendance, gross receipts and results follows:

| Opponent. | Attendance. | Gross receipts. | Result. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Paulino | 15,102 | $ 63,172.51 | Won 10 |
| Gagnon | 18,704 | 70,912.60 | Won 10 |
| Risko | 9,961 | 30,170.16 | Won 10 |
| Stribling | 15,352 | 84,232.41 | Lost 10 |
| Levinsky | 15,827 | 53,296.51 | Won 10 |
| Schaaf | 15,170 | 41,191.46 | Lost 10 |
| Totals | 103,332 | $379,103.57 | |

In addition Griffith has fought for other Chicago clubs. He appeared twice last summer at White City, defeating Paul Pantaleo and Con O'Kelley.

Tuffy has done right well in the past, but unless he can regain his knockout punch and succeed in getting a recognized big shot into the ring there's no place to go after Monday night except against another Roper.

Dave Maier, Milwaukee southpaw, and Rosy Rosales, Chicago light heavyweight, yesterday were reported matched for a bout at Milwaukee June 7. Prince Saunders, south side lightweight, is signed to battle Charley Crocker in a supporting contest.

Bud Saltis, north side middleweight, will leave today for Minneapolis where he will visit for two weeks. While at Minneapolis Saltis will continue training for pending bouts against Sammy [Kid] Slaughter and Frankie Battaglia.

Larry Johnson, Chicago heavyweight, has been suspended until July 16 for failure to give his best efforts against Joe Sekyra at Dayton, O., May 16. Sekyra was banned for the same length of time for a like reason. The suspensions will hold good in all National Boxing association territory.

The British boxing board of control approved the Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey heavyweight contest as a world's title affair. Previously the N. B. A. and International Boxing union had sanctioned the bout at New York next month as a title encounter.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: In the '80s Frank Richter conducted a saloon at Elston and North avenues, then a rolling mill district. Frank had a parrot. George Albright, a bailiff in the sheriff's office, frequently visited the place and talked to the parrot. When Polly called, "I want a cracker," Frank would say, "O, you Democrat," and the bird would repeat. Finally Polly became so accustomed to the expression that whenever any one opened the saloon door to come in Polly would holler, "O, you Democrat!" It was all right, however, as most of the customers at that time were Democrats. R. R. Albrecht.

Haverly's theater, cor. Dearborn and Monroe; A. M. Palmer's Union Square company in "The Banker's Daughter."

McVicker's theater, Madison street near State. "Tina, the Milk Vender," and coming next week, John Dillon in "Our Next President."

Oh Eff Gee.

In looking over a book entitled "Illinois in 1837," I find:

"Cook county extends from north to south 42 miles, east to west 33 miles, and contains an area of about 1,220 sq. mi. It is watered by the Des Plaines, Calumet and Chicago rivers and embraces a tract of country tolerably level, of a rich soil, with large prairies and the timber mostly in groves. This county was organized in 1831 and has been settled with great rapidity, numbering in 1835 9,826 people. Its seat of justice is Chicago; the other towns all have been settled recently and are quite small; they are Canal Port, Napiersville, Des Plaines, Keepsotaw, and Thornton." George Limpert Jr.

REALTORS VOTE AGAINST HOME LOAN BANK BILL

Cody Reports Result of Informal Poll.

BY AL CHASE.

Realtors of Chicago have registered their disapproval of the proposed Hoover home loan bank bill by a vote of more than four to one. In other words, members of the Chicago Real Estate board by a vote of 252 against and 58 for this bill, disclosed the sentiment of that organization toward the proposed legislation. This will be news to both the members who voted and other members of the real estate organization who failed to attend the annual banquet of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association, where the figures were made public.

BUCKINGHAM CHANDLER.
[Wallinger Photo.]

Hiram Cody, president of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, during his speech condemning the home loan bank bill, announced for the first time publicly the result of the recent questionnaire sent to all members of the Chicago Real Estate board by Buckingham Chandler, chairman, Henry Coonley and Milton Yondorff, as members of the mortgage and finance division of the board. Their action followed a minority report against the proposed home loan bank bill and a request for a referendum, which was not done. They then took a poll of the realtors of Chicago.

State Street Deal.

Maling Brothers, operating a chain of seven men's and women's shoe stores in Chicago, yesterday closed a lease for space at 231 South State street, between Adams and Jackson, for a term of 16½ years at an undisclosed rental. This store is 20x140, with a large selling basement. Cerf & Ehrenhalt were the only brokers. Samuel Katz was lessor.

Hooker & Slosson report a trio of leases. In Oak Park they rented the 23x80 store at 1117 Lake street to Macey's, women's dresses and coats, for eight years. The rental is on a percentage basis, with guarantees averaging $7,200 annually. The lessor is Robert R. Erving, represented by Carey E. De Butts.

The second lease was at 27 East Adams street for the American Commerce Building corporation to John Haas, for a cigar store. The term is three years at a reported rental of $2,700 annually. The third lease is at 1020 Wilson avenue for three years to Harry S. Martin and Arthur W. O'Leary, for the sale of ice cream. The rental averages $3,400 annually. The lessor is the Ridgecroft Real Estate trust. Bernard E. Green of Hooker & Slosson was broker in all of the deals.

Division-La Salle Lease.

White Tower, Inc., has leased the corner portion of the lot at the northwest corner of Division and La Salle streets for a term of years at an undisclosed rental. The lessee has started construction of one of its branch restaurants, which will be open within the next thirty days. This will be the firm's thirteenth eating establishment in the Chicago area. Murphy & Co., agents for the lessee, and the Bills Realty company were brokers.

The Wyle Hat company has leased the store at 7820 South Halsted street from Emil Mayer, William Kauffman and Herman Hirsch for an additional unit in their millinery chain. Howard M. Landau was broker for all parties.

Mr. Landau also reports the following leases: The store at 1007 East 63d street for the Ellis-Ingleside Building corporation to Harry Levinsky for a hosiery store; the store at 2742 East 79th street for B. R. Neustadt to Max Baron for a shoe repair shop, and the store at the northwest corner of 77th street and Burnham avenue for the Phillips State bank, trustee, to David From for a food shop.

NEW YORK CENTRAL ASKS FEDERAL O. K. ON $75,000,000 BONDS

Washington, D. C., May 27.—(AP)—The New York Central railroad today asked the interstate commerce commission to authorize an issue of $75,000,000 of refunding and improvement mortgage bonds. The bonds would mature Oct. 1, 2013, and bear interest of 5 per cent.

The issue would be part of the evidence of a mortgage on the properties of the company dated Oct. 1, 1921, and would be used as security for short term notes. They would not be sold immediately. The application says the road has $66,000,000 of short term notes outstanding in which is included $1,500,000 borrowed on May 16 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad today filed with the interstate commerce commission its obligation for another extension of the time for starting construction of the Dotsero cutoff between its line and the line of the Denver and Salt Lake Western railroad.

Directors of the company last week announced that they had authorized the petition which asked that the commission permit a delay until March 15, 1933.

RECOVERY HELD UP BY CONGRESS, REYNOLDS SAYS

Asserts the Budget Must Be Balanced.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Leaders of finance and business are convinced of two things: First, that stocks of merchandise are abnormally low throughout the country, thereby setting the stage for trade recovery; second, that there will be no sustained improvement until congress passes satisfactory legislation on taxation and relief, balances the national budget, and adjourns.

"Neither bankers nor business men can be expected to lay definite plans for expansion, much less actually begin new operations, as long as they are uncertain about what congress will do," George M. Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, stated yesterday in explaining the general viewpoint. "It is necessary that the national budget be balanced in order to maintain confidence in government finance. It is imperative that tax legislation be drafted as sensibly as possible and that the burden on the people be made as light as possible, although even then it must remain onerous.

Men Must Not Starve.

"Probably there must be legislation embodying government relief for the unemployed. Men cannot be permitted to starve in this country. But relief measures should be designed as far as possible to furnishing employment in constructive enterprises from which a return will accrue, as otherwise they will simply result in adding to already heavy public debts. Moreover, interest charges and sinking funds on unproductive enterprises mean increased taxation at a time when we are struggling to meet present charges.

"If congress will do promptly what it should and eventually must do, if the country is to escape serious consequences, and then promptly adjourn, then we and the rest of the world will know just where we stand. Then Americans can lay justifiable plans and begin putting them into effect. Then confidence will be restored and we can start on the road to recovery."

Reviews Show Gain.

It would appear that trade and industry even now are trying to go ahead despite the uncertainties of legislation and politics. While reviews on trade conditions are not unanimous, the preponderance of opinion and observation leans toward betterment.

"Much of the business news of the week has been of an encouraging nature," Duns Review says. "In many regards it has been the most stimulating week thus far this year, with good weather and the requirements of the Decoration day holiday bringing exceptionally large crowds into retail stores in most parts of the country.

"While price competition among the stores is somewhat less severe, it continues on a scale larger than most retailers would like it. Many of the more enterprising merchants, however, are finding ways of reducing the emphasis on price lines and their efforts are meeting with no small degree of success."

A Divergent View.

On the other hand, divergent conditions were reported by Bradstreet's Review.

"In wholesale markets there has been no reaction to any retail activity, due to reluctance on the part of retail merchants to stock up, and also to hesitancy in granting credits," it says. "In the central part of the country, however, there is some revival of orders of a fill in nature, but these are small. Although steel mills are still operating at but 25 per cent of capacity, it is hoped that there will be an increase of production after the turn of the first half of the year. This has been indicated by orders from railroads and by the growing activity of certain automobile makers."

Wholesale trade in the middle west showed small declines last month, except in hardware, compared with March, whereas a year ago gains were general, according to the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. However, April trade in department stores exceeded the March volume by 7 per cent, with gains ranging from 2½ per cent for Chicago to 12 per cent for Milwaukee and Detroit. Sales of furniture last month increased 18 per cent over March. Chain store sales held about level.

Chicago Railways First Quarter Income Better

Receivers of the Chicago Railway company reported a receivers' net income for the three months ended April 30, 1932, amounting to $95,669, after all charges, but before adjustment for deficit in the 5 per cent return on capital valuation. This compares with a receivers' net income of $33,926 before adjustment in the same period of 1931. After adjustment for deficit in 5 per cent return on capital valuation the receivers' net income was $50,506, against a net deficit of $66,300 in the three months ended April 30, 1931.

Yellow Cab Reports First Quarter Earning $274,539

The Chicago Yellow Cab company yesterday reported net earnings for the first quarter of $274,539, equivalent to 68 cents a share on the 400,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. This compares with net earnings in the first quarter last year of $408,299, or $1.02 a share on the capital stock.

Fed. Reserve Policy Makes Public Guess

BY SCRUTATOR.

There are two reasons why the workings of the federal reserve system have been a Chinese puzzle to the ordinary layman.

1—The reserve board has always treasured the prerogative of freedom to change its mind.

2—It has been the board's policy to keep the public guessing.

The attitude of the reserve authorities toward publicity was explained and championed by the late Benjamin Strong, governor of the federal reserve bank of New York at a congressional hearing in 1928.

If, he said, the reserve system should announce beforehand that it intended to sell some securities and subsequently advance the discount rate the effect of such an announcement on public sentiment might make it necessary to reduce the discount rate instead of advancing it when the time arrived.

Strong's Explanation.

"At once," he said, "the system would be charged with being disingenuous and deceiving the public. There is grave danger, not in what we do, which is known to everybody, but in the effort to explain specifically and in detail all of the reasons."

It is this disinclination to "explain specifically and in detail all of the reason" which has repeatedly confused business men. They have not known whether to attribute the results of the federal reserve board's various acts to the adherence to the wrong policy or to the utter lack of a policy.

The attitude of the federal reserve board toward open market operations is a good illustration of the way in which the board can mystify the nation.

On April 6, 1932, the twelve federal reserve banks held a total of $885,014,000 worth of United States government securities. Last week that figure had arisen to $1,525,196,000.

Promise Unfulfilled.

The heavy purchasing of government paper by the reserve banks, it was argued, would bring cash to member banks and stimulate the extension of credit to business.

The promised result has failed to materialize. What credit has been generated by these operations has gone to government rather than business. With foreign nations draining gold from the United States, with congress juggling the budget, with the house of representatives passing the Goldsborough inflation bill and with the threat of additional billions in public expenditures for relief a weakening of the market for government bonds would be a natural and logical consequence.

This weakening, however, has been prevented by the reserve banks' heavy purchases of government securities. The effect of the variousdiscouraging political developments on the public credit, therefore, has not yet been revealed because of the artificial stimulus provided by the manipulations sanctioned by the reserve board.

Aid Called Temporary.

The credit aid extended to the treasury by the federal reserve open market operations is only temporary. All the financing done by the treasury since the reserve banks began heavy buying of government paper has been of a temporary nature. It will have to be done over again when the short term paper matures.

To date the most important result of the open market operations has been the rigging of the market for government securities.

What Benjamin Strong said in 1928 about the reserve system's disinclination to "explain specifically and in detail all of the reasons" may shed some light on the contention that open market operations are being indulged in to make credit easier for business.

$31,323,800 IN GOLD IS EXPORTED FOR DAY; $5,929,100 EARMARKED

New York, May 27.—(AP)—Gold exports today were the largest in weeks. There was no indication that European central banks would cease repatriating balances, which are now being taken home about as rapidly as transportation facilities become available. Many financial observers see little hope of a letup until the budget is satisfactorily balanced.

The New York Federal Reserve bank announced total withdrawals for export of $31,323,800. In addition to that $5,929,100 was set aside or "earmarked" for foreign account, presumably for later shipment. The only import reported was $1,145,000 received at San Francisco from China. Today's exports included $20,193,200 to France, $5,550,000 to Holland, $4,175,000 to Belgium, $1,002,600 to Switzerland, and $402,800 to England.

Foreign exchanges were steady to firm today, gold currencies made narrow fluctuations, with small net advances in Swiss francs and Dutch guilders. The belga was off a shade and French francs closed unchanged. Sterling had a slight dip in the early dealings, but finished half a cent higher for cables at $3.69¼. German marks eased a couple of points.

Poles Profit on Dollar.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, May 27.—After the slump in American greenbacks following the news of the adoption of the Goldborough bill by the United States house of representatives, dollar notes again were in great demand here today and they rose several points.

In the last few days large quantities of greenbacks have been exported to Paris. There they are exchanged at their face value for gold. A single trip by a speculator with $100,000 worth of notes has yielded a handsome profit of $2,000 to $3,000.

The Bank of Poland readily buys dollar notes and exchanges them for gold. The bank has increased its gold holdings by $1,500,000 in the last decade.

BANKS' VAULTS, PRIVATE HOARD OBTAIN GOLD

More About Foreign Dollar Drama.

This is the second of two articles by Edmond Taylor, Paris correspondent of The Tribune, presenting the views of French economists on the withdrawal of gold from the United States by Europeans. In particular, the articles explain the effect of American governmental politics and finance on European banks and investors having funds in the United States.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 27.—The rôle of the Bank of France and the French government in the so-called European attack on the dollar has been one of the hottest subjects of controversy since American currency first began to show sign of weakness last fall.

At least one authority here thinks that the generally conceded support of American currency by French authorities has not been an unmixed blessing and thereby hangs a tale.

The key to it—and to much of the financial history since then—was that first amazing whirlwind which hit the Paris money markets last September provoked the world run on the U. S. treasury. Now that the smoke has cleared bankers freely admit that it was a financial "battle of the Marne."

Crisis Met in September.

They do not mind admitting that because the danger was not in any essential weakness of the defenses, but in the crushing unexpectedness of the attack. Ask any banker in Paris if there is pressure on the dollar today and he will say, "Yes, but nothing like last September."

The first warning signals came in August when the pound was just gong into its final nose dive. "Watch the dollar, it's next," was the word passed around by wise boys in banks and on the stock exchange. The break came Sept. 23, three days after England went off the gold standard. Those were days of panic. "If the pound fell, the dollar can fall, too," was the prevailing sentiment.

Every one wanted gold to put in a sock and bury. The franc was safe, because it was not in the limelight at the moment. Attention was attracted to the dollar by an unusually bad slump in Wall street and the announcement of the refinancing corporation project which several French papers interpreted as the commencement of inflation.

Dollars Quickly Decline.

Overnight the dollar exchange rate dropped from its usual level around 25.51 to 25.38, a trifle below what was then the gold point. Two days later it dropped to 25.365. The shipment of gold became profitable. Even without profit, there was a wild rush to convert all sorts of European owned paper into metal and get it back to Europe as quickly as possible.

Selling pressure on the dollar, which ordinarily is adjusted by shipments of that metal, increased owing to the clogging up of sailing schedules. Bear raids added to the pressure—at least American bankers say there were heavy bear raids, though French authorities always have been skeptical.

Certainly there were flocks of rumors. Telephone lines between the various European exchanges were jammed with calls from brokers telling each other the latest of those wild rumors. The weakness of the dollar crept off the finance pages to the front pages, although the battle never was really discovered until it had been won.

Many articles in the French press sounded to Americans here like deliberate propaganda against the dollar and the American embassy was busy with complaints. Representatives of American banks here—including a couple which are receiving most of the gold shipped over—formed a "vigilance committee" to check bear raids and run down unfounded rumors.

Laval Takes His Trip

The gold pressure gradually eased up through the return of common sense and the apparent blindness of American people to the fact that their dollar was menaced. French opinion was greatly reassured by the reports of Premier Laval—who by coincidence was just leaving for Washington as the attack was reaching its climax—going to the aid of America in support of the dollar.

The conclusion of an agreement in principle to stand together on monetary questions by Randolph Burgess, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, and Prof. Charles Rist, deputy governor of the bank of France, on the Ile de France enroute to Washington had a magical effect here. Dispatches from Washington stating that President Hoover and Premier Laval had sealed a defensive alliance between the dollar and the franc completed the good work and the dollar jumped back above the gold point almost immediately. In the dispatches of some French correspondents it was possible to read the inference that France had saved the dollar.

Withdrawals Are Renewed.

That belief, which was not at all disagreeable to the average Frenchman, had a certain influence when the Bank of France decided to withdraw its earmarked gold in January and gave confidence in the dollar a considerable blow for a few days.

In all the time since then the Bank of France never has been modest about admitting it was supporting the dollar—and in fact has supported the dollar by buying American currency when it was weak and refraining from massive unloadings during flurries is well authenticated. Many Frenchmen believe that the support by the Bank of France is something which America would go out of its

Recent Exports Cut Only Moderately Into Our Stock of Gold

CITIES SERVICE DIVIDEND OFF; CONSERVES CASH

Two Subsidiaries Do the Same.

New York, May 27.—(AP)—Cities Service company today announced omission of dividends on the common and preferred stocks of the parent company, and its two large subsidiaries, Cities Service Power and Light company, and Empire Gas and Fuel company.

Henry L. Doherty, head of the Cities Service organization, said directors considered dividend omission advisable, as present market conditions were unfavorable for new financing. Any company, having maturities to meet, should conserve its cash. In 1932, he added, he looked for an increase in net income over 1931, due to the recent increases in oil prices.

Mr. Doherty also explained that dividends omitted today cover the monthly payments which ordinarily would be scheduled for next July 15. Payments due on June 15 will be paid, these dividends having been declared a month ago.

Hits Revenue Bill.

Mr. Doherty attributed present difficult market conditions for new financing to the revenue bill now before congress. He said proposed income tax rates, especially in the higher brackets, would cause men with large incomes to dump corporate securities on the market and place their funds in tax exempt bonds.

Based on prospective rate schedules, he said, a man with a large income would have to draw the equivalent of 16 to 17 per cent return on his investment in taxable corporate bonds to break even with a 7½ per cent yield on a tax exempt security. There are numerous cases of tax exempt securities now selling at prices to yield over 7 per cent.

Mr. Doherty said the finances of the three principal Cities Service companies were in satisfactory condition. He added the ratio of cash holdings to bank loans has been practically unchanged since the year-end when bank loans stood at $68,000,000 and cash account stood at $41,817,000.

Company's Stock Drops.

San Francisco, Cal., May 27.—(AP)—Cities Service common stock tumbled on the Curb exchange here today, breaking to a record low of $2.20 a share. At that price it was $1.17½ below the Wall street closing quotation. The drop followed announcement of omission of dividends on the company's stocks and those of subsidiaries. Word of the dividend action hit the Curb exchange about a half hour before closing time. Early sales here at $3.25 were slightly below the Wall street finish of $3.37½. The total turnover was only 1,640 shares.

C. S. DEWEY HEADS NEW MIDDLE WEST NOTES PROTECTIVE GROUP

The first step in organizing the debenture holders of the Middle West Utilities company was taken yesterday when a protective committee was formed by a group of business men and bankers who own in excess of $4,000,000 of the company's notes.

The company has $40,000,000 serial debentures outstanding of which $10,000,000 fall due June 1. It was this maturity of $10,000,000 which was the immediate financial problem forcing the company into receivership.

Charles S. Dewey, vice president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, is chairman of the protective group. Other members are George W. Borg, chairman of the Borg Warner corporation; Harry E. Cooper, director of the Equitable Trust company of New York, J. C. Neff, vice president of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust company, and Marvin B. Pool, general manager of Butler Brothers. The law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green and Martin is counsel for the committee. Harry R. Mosser, 209 South La Salle street, has been named temporary chairman.

In its announcement the committee pointed out the necessity of consolidating the position of the note holders and obtaining organized representation for them. Holders of the debentures are being asked to deposit their notes with the Chicago Title & Trust company.

SUIT ATTACKS HALF BILLION DOLLAR MERGER

Fort Scott, Kas., May 27.—(AP)—Creation of the half billion dollar consolidated oil corporation through the Prairie-Sinclair merger was attacked in a suit filed late today in federal court here.

William Roy Carney and his wife, Marie M. Carney of Chicago, who are Prairie stockholders, asked that the merger voted last March 1 be declared void on grounds that Prairie Pipeline and Prairie Oil and Gas were in better financial condition than Sinclair.

A similar action was filed in Chicago last week. Their suit contended that transfer of assets of the Prairie companies entailed a loss to stockholders. They asked a receivership for the Prairie companies and enjoining of the defendants from disposing of any Prairie assets.

NEW TREASURY NOTES BIDS ARE 3 TIMES ISSUE

Washington, D. C., May 27.—The treasury received nearly a threefold subscription for its latest financing. Total subscriptions for the 91 day bills offered this week totaled $296,503,000, although only 100 million dollars was sought. The bills bear no interest but are sold at a discount. The average price was 99.919, making the yield rate 32-100ths of 1 per cent on a bank discount basis. Bids to the amount of $100,022,000 were accepted.

Container Corp. Elects Four New Directors

Preferred stock holders of the Container Corporation of America have elected four new directors to the board of the company. The election gives the preferred stock holders one less than a majority on the board to which they are entitled under the company's charter when four or more dividends on the stock are in arrears. The new directors are John L. Barchard, J. P. Brunt and Hugh Strange. The retiring members are William R. Basset, George H. Mead and C. Ward Seabury. Walter P. Paepcke, president, said that no change in control, management or policy is involved.

SWIFT & CO. CUTS DIVIDEND RATE TO $1 ANNUALLY

Common Is Omitted by Borg-Warner.

Directors of Swift & Co. yesterday reduced the dividend on the capital stock of the company and the directors of the Borg-Warner corporation failed to authorize a common stock dividend.

Swift directors declared a quarterly payment of 25 cents, bringing total disbursements for 1932 to $1.25, or 5 per cent, on the $25 par stock. Three months ago Swift paid a dividend of 50 cents a share.

Establishes $1 Rate.

Yesterday's action places the stock on a $1 annual basis, as compared with the former $2 rate, which had been maintained throughout 1931. The dividend is payable July 1 to holders of record June 15.

L. A. Carton, treasurer, said that directors had voted the reduction with a view of promoting the stability and continued success of the firm and after considering requirements of the company, the stockholders, and the working organization. Salaries and wages of the working organization have already been reduced 10 per cent and other expenses have been slashed 16 per cent, he declared.

Improve Cash Position.

Borg-Warner directors authorized the usual preferred dividend of $1.75 a share, but failed to act on the common stock dividend. Last quarter common stockholders received a payment of 25 cents a share.

The company reported that the current financial position was further strengthened during April. At the close of the month current assets stood at $14,478,551, compared with $14,290,879 a month earlier. Current liabilities declined $191,145 to $2,829,582 during the month. Cash and marketable securities were increased $772,911 to $6,273,294.

BUSINESS DONE AT RADIO SHOW REPORTED GOOD

Excellent business with actual sales of radio products aggregating several million dollars were reported yesterday by radio manufacturing companies exhibiting in the sixth annual trade show of the Radio Manufacturers' association at the Stevens hotel in Chicago, just closed. According to Bond Geddes, executive vice president and trade show manager, the satisfactory results were made possible by an official attendance of 14,611. This was about thirty per cent less than that of last year.

Continental Gas & Electric Corporation

Bankers Building

Chicago, Illinois

The Board of Directors of Continental Gas & Electric Corporation has declared the following dividends on stocks of the Company:

A quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the 7% Prior Preference Stock, payable July 1, 1932, to stockholders of record at the close of business June 13, 1932.

Stock transfer books will not be closed.

L. H. HEINKE, Secretary.

Gen. Electric Cuts Dividend; Ward 'A' Omits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—Directors of General Electric company, meeting today for dividend action on the common stock, authorized a quarterly dividend of 10 cents a share, or an annual basis of 40 cents, compared with 25 cents quarterly, or $1 yearly previously. Three months ago the rate was cut from 60 cents to 25 cents.

An interesting angle of the latest reduction in common dividends is the fact that the new rate on the junior stock is less than the amount being paid on the special shares which were distributed as stock dividends to shareholders of General Electric in the years 1922 to 1926. Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share on the special stock, both common and special dividend, payable July 25 to holders of record June 24.

Larger Than Expected.

The financial community had been about equally divided in its version of what General Electric's board was likely to do today. Some persons leaned toward a reduction, although it was generally conceded that directors would not eliminate the dividend entirely. However, the cut was more drastic than many had anticipated.

Though no statement was forthcoming, net earnings of the company amounting to only 16 cents a share for the initial quarter—or 9 cents below the dividend paid in that period, were regarded as the determining factor in the decision of the board. For the current period it is believed that results will reflect more drastic curtailment of expenses and earnings are likely to show some improvements in comparison with the initial period.

Montgomery Ward Action.

Montgomery Ward & Co. directors voted to omit the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the class A stock, due to be paid July 1. This is the first omission in eight years. The company omitted common dividends in November, 1930, but in view of its strong cash position continued payments on the $7 cumulative class A stock until April 1, last.

These dividends were not earned either in 1930 or in 1931, but amounted to only $1,427,818 annually, while cash and marketable securities amounted to over $28,000,000 at end of 1930 and on the basis of market value for securities totaled $32,560,000 on Dec. 31 last. The balance sheet, as of Dec. 31, 1931, showed current assets of $101,723,000, against current liabilities of $6,919,264, leaving net working capital of $94,803,844.

Cuts Dividend Rate.

Directors of the Commercial Credit company decided today to halve the dividend rate on the common stock as a result of the reduction in net income for the current year, which was largely due "to smaller current volume, to less money being employed and to higher interest rates than for the same period of 1931."

A quarterly rate of 12½ cents was declared on the junior stock, compared with 25 cents heretofore. Regular quarterly dividends were voted on all classes of preferred stock.

Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky have declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents, equal to $1.20 yearly basis against $1.60 annually, heretofore.

The General Gas and Electric company voted to omit the quarterly dividend of 3-200 of a share of class A stock on the class A, due at this time.

New York Central Plans Precooled Cars as Feature

A plan to precool passenger cars on all its principal trains was announced yesterday by the New York Central. In addition continuous cooling and air conditioning equipment will be installed in dining cars operated on its leading trains. The new precooling system will be started as fast as machines are delivered and will be completely in effect within six weeks.

The first air conditioned dining cars are expected to be ready by June 28 and the balance about ten days later. The change will begin on the Twentieth Century Limited and be applied to other trains as fast as equipment can be delivered.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—Reduction of the General Electric dividend provided the signal for a resumption of liquidation on the New York Stock exchange today. Shares of the company—but lately rated as one of the "big four" of the market—sold down to 9¾, a new low for the big decline, and closed at 10, off 2½ points.

Westinghouse was even more acutely affected, tumbling 4⅝ points, and likewise to a new low. Most of the other industrials were dragged down, pulling the rest of the market in their train.

Selling Is Increased.

Then along toward noon came word from Washington that the senate had decided to defer consideration of the proposal for a sales tax and selling stepped up anew. In the late afternoon the market was called upon to absorb considerable in the way of reselling by cautious traders who had picked up "bargains" in yesterday's break but who found themselves unable to muster courage to carry their new holdings over the long week-end recess. It was a bad day all round and cost the list considerably more on the average than it had acquired in the later afternoon upturn of the previous session. Volume tapered off again to around 900,000 shares.

The action of the General Electric board was a big surprise as the street had received "assurances"—given off the book it now develops—that the $1 rate would be maintained. Few of those who looked for a cut in spite of the optimistic predictions of the last few days expected it to be so drastic as to bring the rate down to 40 cents.

Other Leaders Suffer.

Other leaders to take the "bad news" to heart were Consolidated Gas, which dropped 2⅝; Eastman, receding 2¼; American Telephone, 2⅝; Allied Chemical, 2¼; Air Reduction, 2⅛; International Business Machine, 2⅞, and United States Steel common, 1⅝ points.

Railroad and tobacco shares were borne down without much resistance and some of the food issues found the going beyond them. In the carrier group Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, and various others gave up their little gains of Thursday and more.

Small declines alternating with a firmer tone characterized the oils, coppers and motors, but the finish found most of them looking somewhat the worse for wear.

"Air pockets" developing here and there in the list cost more than one inconspicuous issue a pretty penny or more. Beech-Nut Packing ran into one and took a tailspin for 5 points. Selling in this stock was reputedly for account of the estate of a recently deceased Chicagoan.

Other Shares to Drop.

National Biscuit preferred, American Stores and Brooklyn Queens preferred were other casualties, the losses among them ranging from 3⅛ to 6 points.

Coca-Cola was kicked about a bit in spite of its supposed status as a special pet of the weather man just now. Selling in the issue was reported to be coming largely from Atlanta, which made it impressive to some.

Kroger Grocery had the report of a 14.1 per cent drop in sales against it and gave way fractionally.

Their Chief Attacks Army of Bureaucrats.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 27.—The charge made by others that exorbitant taxes and bureaucracy prevent a return of stable conditions and employment was repeated by C. Weston Bailey, president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, at their sixty-sixth annual meeting. This conclusion was reached by Mr. Bailey in the course of his annual report to representatives of 225 companies.

"The future welfare of American property owners of every class and that of their country depends upon the prompt stopping of this riot of public waste," Mr. Bailey added. He also spoke of "the inequitable and class taxation" affecting the insurance business.

Calls Budget Staggering.

"We, who are trained by our business to accurate analysis and assessment of economic and financial relationships, can be under no illusions as to the ultimate meaning of such a staggering increase in the aggregate cost of government," he declared, following a reference to the recent study prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States concerning special state insurance taxes.

Explaining also that available statistics showed that in the twenty year period ending last year the total taxation had increased from $30 to over $120 per capita, Mr. Bailey continued: "No people, however rich and strong, can long continue to surrender annually one-fifth of its entire national income for the support of government, as is now the case with us, without suffering a progressive paralysis of its creative energies and productive activities."

Cites Insurance Plight.

In referring to the extra burden of taxation upon insurance Mr. Bailey urged the members to consider "a tax loading of 5 per cent to be superimposed upon the present schedule rates for all classes of property."

"I may add that I urge this action the more emphatically because I am convinced that in this way the stock fire insurance companies can most effectively further the present countrywide movement to bring about a lessening of the inordinate and devastating governmental expenditure and taxation which are today sapping the financial strength and throttling the business initiative of the American people."

Conceding the necessity for state regulation or supervision of insurance, Mr. Bailey pointed out instances of abuses in that field, to the extent that "the regulators started in to take over the virtual operation of the business without assuming any of the financial responsibilities of management."

Asks Business Protest.

Urging also "that business as a whole should wage determined opposition to the bureaucratic wave that threatens the nation," Mr. Bailey pointed to "the tax bill, both of state and nation, that has followed the extension of governmental activities far beyond the necessary functions of governing and threatens to engulf the citizen."

He commended also the record of the fire insurance companies of the country in having fulfilled the obligations to which they were committed without any loss to the public which sought their protection.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders who are bullish express themselves as not enthusiastic over prospects of an immediate advance in prices. Some say later in the year, when more is known about crops and there is an improvement in financial and business conditions, speculation is likely to come into the market and broaden sufficiently to cause unanimity in favor of higher prices. For the present leaders are inclined to take profits on sharp bulges and replace their lines on breaks. It is noticeable that all sharp upturns run into selling of larger volume than the trade can absorb and declines result.

All the grain, produce, stock exchanges, and banks will be closed on Monday, Memorial day. The New Orleans Cotton exchange and all foreign exchanges will be open Monday.

"Reports of hunger riots in Germany indicate the urgency of the need of foreign wheat," says Broomhall.

"Shippers in the Danube valley are not pressing wheat, as supplies are very low, and this week Broomhall admitted the impossibility of further exports from Russia this season," says Thomson & McKinnon.

COTTON SLOW

Speculative trade in cotton was light and the range of prices narrow. Early strength with small gains were followed by weakness and a lower close. Early strength on the higher cables and declines later were due largely to absence of buying power and to selling by early buyers. The market has little breadth and the situation in general is not such as to encourage extensive operations on either side.

Grains and securities were lower and weather reports from the south were favorable. Trade reports showed no change. At the last futures in Chicago were at net losses of 6@14 points and in other markets 7@10 points. Spots were 5 points lower in New York at 5.60c with New Orleans down 10 points to 5.60c. Liverpool closed 4@6 points lower. Prices follow:

BANKS' VAULTS, PRIVATE HOARDS OBTAIN GOLD

way—perhaps make political concessions—not to lose. American diplomats here, however, assert that the question of supporting the dollar never has been introduced into political bargaining between the two countries.

Selling Foreign Currencies.

While supporting the dollar directly and by reassuring statements, the Bank of France for the last few months steadily has been pursuing a policy of liquidating foreign currency holdings; it has been liquidating all foreign currencies, not only the dollar. A couple of months ago the bank had about half a billion dollars in gold and bankers' acceptances in America. The gold is being steadily withdrawn, according to announced policy, and it is understood that the acceptances are being slowly but surely converted into earmarked gold. American bankers here, however, declare that this process of liquidation is noticeably eased up when pressure on the dollar increases.

The exact amount of gold withdrawn from America since the first of the year is unknown, but is believed not more than half the holdings.

Not Flight from Dollar.

It is to be noted that French gold in America never is listed by the federal reserve as forming a part of its reserves. If reserves drop after heavy withdrawals of foreign gold it is only because additional metal must be released for international circulation. As far as is known here no American gold is joining the exodus, while bankers say the present drain cannot be termed a flight from the dollar.

Virtually all the gold destined for France eventually finds its way to the coffers of the Bank of France as the big private banks never maintain large quantities in their own vaults and the Bank of France is obliged to buy all the metal offered.

The only exception is that hoarded by individuals in the form of coins. This never has been a determinent fact in the exodus, but has been carried on on a big scale nonetheless. The main reason is that the Bank of France will not sell gold except in ingots, so private hoarders have to import coins from America.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent has been informed that a number of small French banks and money brokers are working through certain big American banks here in constantly importing gold coin. The total imported since the first of the year may be around $100,000,000. In Normandy and Burgundy traveling salesmen for brokerage houses, finding they could not sell any more securities to the suspicious peasants, hit on the idea of selling them gold coins to put in the family sock and the demand was so great that handsome premiums could be realized on the transaction.

WHEAT LOWER, TRADERS LARGELY IGNORING NEWS

U. S. Export Figures Seen Bearish Factor.

BY CARDLES MICHAELS.

Trade sentiment is strongly divided as to the immediate trend of the wheat market. One set of operators takes the buying side on the dips, while another sells on the upturns. This resulted in erratic fluctuations without regard to the general run of the news.

Prices held within a range of around 1½c yesterday, with an early dip, followed by an advance to 60⅛c for the old July and a later decline to 59⅝c. The finish was about the bottom with net losses of ⅛@⅝c.

The advance to the high point of the day was on buying headed by several local professionals, and on the better character of the news from Washington regarding the senate's efforts to balance the budget. But later an estimate by the bureau of agricultural economics showing a total of 418,000,000 bu of domestic wheat available for export and for carryover on May 1, the market declined quickly. The figures were construed as bearish. May finished at 57⅝; old July, 59⅜@59½c; old September, 61⅜@61¾c; and December, 63½c.

Carryover a Puzzle.

There are two factors in the wheat situation at the present time that are puzzling the trade. The first is the probable size of the domestic carryover at the end of the current crop year, and the other the spring wheat acreage. Trade estimates on the carryover which will be witnessed on June 30, 1932, range from 310,000,000 to 400,000,000 bu. The government figures of 418,000,000 bu for May 1 were taken as a confirmation of the repeated claims made by Fred Uhlmann that the end of the season would witness a holding of around 400,000,000 bu. Statisticians generally say it is almost impossible at the present time to get accurate figures. The actual carryover at the end of the season is expected to depend largely on how much wheat was fed to live stock. A year ago the carryover was 334,000,000, the largest on record up to the present season.

Owing to extremely heavy abandonment of spring wheat acreage last year the trade generally has expected there would be a considerable increase in the area seeded this spring, but how much wheat was actually seeded in 1931 is still a mystery. Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician, from an analysis of the government reports estimates it at 20,133,000 acres. It is expected that when the private crop reports are issued the figures on spring wheat will be based on the amount actually seeded and not with the figures of 16,977,000 acres, as given in the July report. Leading northwestern interests have recently suggested a reduction of 10 to 15 per cent in the area in the four northwestern states for the harvest of 1932.

Export Demand Better.

Hessian fly reports continue to be received from the central west. H. C. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan crop observer, after a trip over Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, estimated the damage from the fly would be the heaviest in 15 years or more. Further beneficial rains were reported in the American and Canadian northwest, and the trade paid little attention to reports of soil blowing in parts of southern Canada. Winnipeg messages estimated 1,000,000 bu or more Manitobas had been sold for export in the last two days. The Canadian market closed unchanged to ¾c lower, with July at 64c, while Liverpool was ¼@⅝c per bu higher, with July at 61⅛c.

Corn held within narrow limits and closed ⅛c higher on May and ⅛@¼c lower on the deferred futures. Final trades on May were at 30⅜c; July, 32¼c; September, 34½c, and December, 35¼c. The country sold 21,000 bu to arrive while the east bought 44,000 bu.

Industries were fair buyers of July oats, but the aggregate trade was light and the finish was unchanged to ¼c higher. May closed at 22½c; July, 22⅝c; September, 22⅝@22¾c, and December, 24½c. Rye declined ⅛@⅜c, with wheat, May being 37⅛c; July, 38⅝c@38¾c, and September, 40¾c, at the last.

LARD WELL ABSORBED

Moderate selling of lard futures were well absorbed with the close of 2½c to 5c higher. Bellies were unchanged to 12½c higher. July leading the gain. Cash trade was fair in lard and meats with the south continuing to absorb liberal quantities.

Cash lard was $3.77½ for regular, with loose $3.17½ and leaf $3.12½. Short ribs were $4.37½ and bellies $4.25. Liverpool lard was 3d@6d lower. Export clearances were 721,165 lbs. Prices follow:

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—After ruling steady at moderate advances during the greater part of the day coffee eased sharply in the late trading as European selling uncovered stop orders. Demand was restricted by dullness of the actual. No. 7 contracts opened 1 point lower to 3 points higher and closed 10 to 12 points lower. Sales, 47,000 bags. Santos opened 2 to 3 points higher and closed 4 to 20 points lower. Sales, 10,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos—July, 9.51c; September, 9.15c; December, 9.07c; March, 9.00c; May, 9.00c. No. 7 prices follow:

LONDON WOOL MARKET.

LONDON, May 27.—(AP)—The large supply of South American wool offered at the auction today met a good demand from the home trade and the continent. There was a steady sale of fine grades, but medium and inferior sorts were slow and in the buyers' favor. Of the 3,185 bales offered, 2,550 were sold.
